Art. 3

II. Offer and acceptance

1. Offer subject to time limit

¹ A person who offers to enter into a contract with another person and sets a time limit for acceptance is bound by his offer until the time limit expires.

² He is no longer bound if no acceptance has reached him on expiry of the time limit.

Art. 4

2. Offer without time limit

a. In the parties' presence

¹ Where an offer is made in the offeree's presence and no time limit for acceptance is set, it is no longer binding on the offeror unless the offeree accepts it immediately.

² Contracts concluded by telephone are deemed to have been concluded in the parties' presence where they or their agents communicated in person.

Art. 5

b. In the parties' absence

¹ Where an offer is made in the offeree's absence and no time limit for acceptance is set, it remains binding on the offeror until such time as he might expect a reply sent duly and promptly to reach him.

² He may assume that his offer has been promptly received.

³ Where an acceptance sent duly and promptly is late in reaching the offeror and he does not wish to be bound by his offer, he must immediately inform the offeree.

Art. 6

3. Implied acceptance

Where the particular nature of the transaction or the circumstances are such that express acceptance cannot reasonably be expected, the contract is deemed to have been concluded if the offer is not rejected within a reasonable time.

Art. 6^{a2}

3a. Unsolicited goods

² The recipient is not obliged to return or keep such goods.

³ Where unsolicited goods have obviously been sent in error, the recipient must inform the sender.

² Inserted by No I of the FA of 5 Oct. 1990, in force since 1 July 1991 (AS 1991 846; BBl 1986 II 354).

Art. 7

4. Non-binding offer, announcement of prices, display

1 An offeror is not bound by his offer if he has made express declaration to that effect or such a reservation arises from the circumstances or from the particular nature of the transaction.

2 The sending of tariffs, price lists and the like does not constitute an offer.

3 By contrast, the display of merchandise with an indication of its price does generally constitute an offer.

Art. 8

5. Publicly promised remuneration

1 A person who publicly promises remuneration or a reward in exchange for the performance of an act must pay in accordance with his promise.

2 If he withdraws his promise before performance has been made, he must reimburse any person incurring expenditure in good faith on account of the promise up to the maximum amount promised unless he can prove that such person could not have provided the performance in question.

Art. 9

6. Withdrawal of offer and acceptance

1 An offer is deemed not to have been made if its withdrawal reaches the offeree before or at the same time as the offer itself or, where it arrives subsequently, if it is communicated to the offeree before he becomes aware of the offer.

2 The same applies to a withdrawal of an acceptance.

Art. 10

III. Entry into effect of a contract concluded in the parties' absence

1 A contract concluded in the parties' absence takes effect from the time acceptance is sent.

2 Where express acceptance is not required, the contract takes effect from the time the offer is received.

Art. 11

B. Form of contracts

I. Formal requirements and significance in general

1 The validity of a contract is not subject to compliance with any particular form unless a particular form is prescribed by law.

2 In the absence of any provision to the contrary on the significance and effect of formal requirements prescribed by law, the contract is valid only if such requirements are satisfied.

Art. 12

- II. Written form
 1. Form required by law
 a. Scope

Where the law requires that a contract be done in writing, the requirement also applies to any amendment to the contract with the exception of supplementary collateral clauses that do not conflict with the original document.

Art. 13

- b. Effect

¹ A contract required by law to be in writing must be signed by all persons on whom it imposes obligations.

² ...³

Art. 14

- c. Signature

¹ Signatures must be appended by hand by the parties to the contract.

² A signature reproduced by mechanical means is recognised as sufficient only where such reproduction is customarily permitted, and in particular in the case of signatures on large numbers of issued securities.

^{2bis} An authenticated electronic signature combined with an authenticated time stamp within the meaning of the Federal Act of 18 March 2016⁴ on Electronic Signatures is deemed equivalent to a handwritten signature, subject to any statutory or contractual provision to the contrary.⁵

³ The signature of a blind person is binding only if it has been duly certified or if it is proved that he was aware of the terms of the document at the time of signing.

Art. 15

- d. Mark in lieu of signature

Subject to the provisions relating to bills of exchange, any person unable to sign may make a duly certified mark by hand or give a certified declaration in lieu of a signature.

Art. 16

2. Form stipulated by contract

¹ Where the parties agree to make a contract subject to formal requirements not prescribed by law, it is presumed that the parties do not wish to assume obligations until such time as those requirements are satisfied.

³ Repealed by Annex No 2 to the FA of 19 Dec. 2003 on Electronic Signatures, with effect from 1 Jan. 2005 (AS 2004 5085; BBl 2001 5679).

⁴ SR 943.03

⁵ Inserted by Annex No 2 to the FA of 19 Dec. 2003 on Electronic Signatures (AS 2004 5085; BBl 2001 5679). Amended by Annex No II 4 of the FA of 18 March 2016 on Electronic Signatures, in force since 1 Jan. 2017 (AS 2016 4651; BBl 2014 1001).

2 Where the parties stipulate a written form without elaborating further, the provisions governing the written form as required by law apply to satisfaction of that requirement.

Art. 17

C. Cause of obligation An acknowledgment of debt is valid even if it does not state the cause of the obligation.

Art. 18

D. Interpretation of contracts, simulation 1 When assessing the form and terms of a contract, the true and common intention of the parties must be ascertained without dwelling on any inexact expressions or designations they may have used either in error or by way of disguising the true nature of the agreement.

2 A debtor may not plead simulation as a defence against a third party who has become his creditor in reliance on a written acknowledgment of debt.

Art. 19

E. Terms of the contract 1 The terms of a contract may be freely determined within the limits of the law.

I. Definition of terms 2 Clauses that deviate from those prescribed by law are admissible only where the law does not prescribe mandatory forms of wording or where deviation from the legally prescribed terms would contravene public policy, morality or rights of personal privacy.

Art. 20

II. Nullity 1 A contract is void if its terms are impossible, unlawful or immoral.

2 However, where the defect pertains only to certain terms of a contract, those terms alone are void unless there is cause to assume that the contract would not have been concluded without them.

Art. 21

III. Unfair advantage 1 Where there is a clear discrepancy between performance and consideration under a contract concluded as a result of one party's exploitation of the other's straitened circumstances, inexperience or thoughtlessness, the person suffering damage may declare within one year that he will not honour the contract and demand restitution of any performance already made.

2 The one-year period commences on conclusion of the contract.

Art. 22

IV. Agreement to conclude a contract

¹ Parties may reach a binding agreement to enter into a contract at a later date.

² Where in the interests of the parties the law makes the validity of a contract conditional on observance of a particular form, the same applies to the agreement to conclude a contract.

Art. 23

F. Defect in consent
I. Error
1. Effect

A party labouring under a fundamental error when entering into a contract is not bound by that contract.

Art. 24

2. Cases of mistake

1. where the party acting in error intended to conclude a contract different from that to which he consented;
2. where the party acting in error has concluded a contract relating to a subject matter other than the subject matter he intended or, where the contract relates to a specific person, to a person other than the one he intended;
3. where the party acting in error has promised to make a significantly greater performance or has accepted a promise of a significantly lesser consideration than he actually intended;
4. where the error relates to specific facts which the party acting in error considered in good faith to be a necessary basis for the contract.

² However, where the error relates solely to the reason for concluding the contract, it is not fundamental.

³ Calculation errors do not render a contract any less binding, but must be corrected.

Art. 25

3. Invoking error contrary to good faith

² In particular, the party acting in error remains bound by the contract he intended to conclude, provided the other party accepts that contract.

Art. 26

4. Error by negligence

¹ A party acting in error and invoking that error to repudiate a contract is liable for any damage arising from the nullity of the agreement where the error is attributable to his own negligence, unless the other party knew or should have known of the error.

² In the interests of equity, the court may award further damages to the person suffering damage.

Art. 27

5. Incorrect intermediation

Where an offer to enter into a contract or the acceptance of that offer has been incorrectly communicated by a messenger or other intermediary, the provisions governing error apply mutatis mutandis.

Art. 28

II. Fraud

¹ A party induced to enter into a contract by the fraud of the other party is not bound by it even if his error is not fundamental.

² A party who is the victim of fraud by a third party remains bound by the contract unless the other party knew or should have known of the fraud at the time the contract was concluded.

Art. 29

III. Duress
1. Consent to contract

¹ Where a party has entered into a contract under duress from the other party or a third party, he is not bound by that contract.

² Where the duress originates from a third party and the other party neither knew nor should have known of it, a party under duress who wishes to be released from the contract must pay compensation to the other party where equity so requires.

Art. 30

2. Definition of duress

¹ A party is under duress if, in the circumstances, he has good cause to believe that there is imminent and substantial risk to his own life, limb, reputation or property or to those of a person close to him.

² The fear that another person might enforce a legitimate claim is taken into consideration only where the straitened circumstances of the party under duress have been exploited in order to extort excessive benefits from him.

Art. 31

IV. Defect of consent negated by ratification of the contract

¹ Where the party acting under error, fraud or duress neither declares to the other party that he intends not to honour the contract nor seeks restitution for the performance made within one year, the contract is deemed to have been ratified.

² The one-year period runs from the time that the error or the fraud was discovered or from the time that the duress ended.

³ The ratification of a contract made voidable by duress or fraud does not automatically exclude the right to claim damages.

Art. 32

G. Agency
 I. With authorisation
 1. In general
 a. Effect of agency

¹ The rights and obligations arising from a contract made by an agent in the name of another person accrue to the person represented, and not to the agent.

² Where the agent did not make himself known as such when making the contract, the rights and obligations arising therefrom accrue directly to the person represented only if the other party must have inferred the agency relationship from the circumstances or did not care with whom the contract was made.

³ Where this is not the case, the claim must be assigned or the debt assumed in accordance with the principles governing such measures.

Art. 33

b. Scope of authority

¹ Where authority to act on behalf of another stems from relationships established under public law, it is governed by the public law provisions of the Confederation or the cantons.

² Where such authority is conferred by means of the transaction itself, its scope is determined by that transaction.

³ Where a principal grants such authority to a third party and informs the latter thereof, the scope of the authority conferred on the third party is determined according to wording of the communication made to him.

Art. 34

2. Authority arising from a transaction
 a. Restriction and revocation

¹ A principal authorising another to act on his behalf by means of a transaction may restrict or revoke such authority at any time without prejudice to any rights acquired by those involved under existing legal relationships, such as an individual contract of employment, a partnership agreement or a mandate.⁶

² Any advance waiver of this right by the principal is void.

³ Where the represented party has expressly or de facto announced the authority he has conferred, he may not invoke its total or partial revocation against a third party acting in good faith unless he has likewise announced such revocation.

Art. 35

b. Effect of death, incapacity, etc.

¹ The authority conferred by means of a transaction is extinguished on the loss of capacity to act, bankruptcy, death, or declaration of presumed death of the principal or the agent, unless the contrary has been agreed or is implied by the nature of the transaction.⁷

² The same applies on the dissolution of a legal entity or a company or partnership entered in the commercial register.

³ The mutual personal rights of the parties are unaffected.

Art. 36

c. Return of the instrument conferring authority

¹ Where an agent has been issued with an instrument setting out his authority, he must return it or deposit it with the court when that authority has ended.

² Where the principal or his legal successors have omitted to insist on the return of such instrument, they are liable to bona fide third parties for any damage arising from that omission.

Art. 37

d. Time from which end of authority takes effect

¹ Until such time as an agent becomes aware that his authority has ended, his actions continue to give rise to rights and obligations on the part of the principal or the latter's legal successors as if the agent's authority still existed.

² This does not apply in cases in which the third party is aware that the agent's authority has ended.

Art. 38

II. Without authority

1. Ratification

¹ Where a person without authority enters into a contract on behalf of a third party, rights and obligations do not accrue to the latter unless he ratifies the contract.

² The other party has the right to request that the represented party ratify the contract within a reasonable time, failing which he is no longer bound by it.

Art. 39

2. Failure to ratify

¹ Where ratification is expressly or implicitly refused, action may be brought against the person who acted as agent for compensation in respect of any damage caused by the extinction of the contract unless he can prove that the other party knew or should have known that he lacked the proper authority.

² Where the agent is at fault, the court may order him to pay further damages on grounds of equity.

³ In all cases, claims for unjust enrichment are reserved.

⁷ Amended by Annex No 10 of the FA of 19 Dec. 2008 (Adult Protection, Law of Persons and Law of Children), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2011 725; BBl 2006 7001).

Art. 40

III. Reservation of special provisions

The special provisions governing the authority of agents and governing bodies of companies and partnerships and of registered and other authorised agents are unaffected.

Art. 40^a⁸

Art. 42

II. Determining the damage

¹ A person claiming damages must prove that damage occurred.

² Where the exact value of the damage cannot be quantified, the court shall estimate the value at its discretion in the light of the normal course of events and the steps taken by the person suffering damage.

²³ Amended by No I of the FA of 19 June 2015 (Revision of the right of revocation), in force since 1 Jan. 2016 (AS 2015 4107; BBl 2014 921 2993).

Art. 43

III. Determining compensation

¹ The court determines the form and extent of the compensation provided for damage incurred, with due regard to the circumstances and the degree of culpability.

^{1bis} Where an animal kept as a pet rather than for investment or commercial purposes has been injured or killed, the court may take appropriate account of its sentimental value to its owner or his dependants.²⁷

² Where damages are awarded in the form of periodic payments, the debtor must at the same time post security.

Art. 44

IV. Grounds for reducing compensation

¹ Where the person suffering damage consented to the harmful act or circumstances attributable to him helped give rise to or compound the damage or otherwise exacerbated the position of the party liable for it, the court may reduce the compensation due or even dispense with it entirely.

² The court may also reduce the compensation award in cases in which the damage was caused neither wilfully nor by gross negligence and where payment of such compensation would leave the liable party in financial hardship.

Art. 45

V. Special cases
1. Homicide and personal injury
a. Damages for homicide

¹ In a case of homicide, compensation must cover all expenses arising and in particular the funeral costs.

² Where death did not occur immediately, the compensation must also include the costs of medical treatment and losses arising from inability to work.

³ Where others are deprived of their means of support as a result of homicide, they must also be compensated for that loss.

2. ...

Art. 49²⁹

3. Injury to personality rights ¹ Any person whose personality rights are unlawfully infringed is entitled to a sum of money by way of satisfaction provided this is justified by the seriousness of the infringement and no other amends have been made.

² The court may order that satisfaction be provided in another manner instead of or in addition to monetary compensation.

Art. 50

VI. Multiple liable parties
1. In tort ¹ Where two or more persons have together caused damage, whether as instigator, perpetrator or accomplice, they are jointly and severally liable to the person suffering damage.

² The court determines at its discretion whether and to what extent they have right of recourse against each other.

³ Abettors are liable in damages only to the extent that they received a share in the gains or caused damage due to their involvement.

Art. 51

2. On different legal grounds ¹ Where two or more persons are liable for the same damage on different legal grounds, whether under tort law, contract law or by statute, the provision governing recourse among persons who have jointly caused damage is applicable mutatis mutandis.

² As a rule, compensation is provided first by those who are liable in tort and last by those who are deemed liable by statutory provision without being at fault or in breach of contractual obligation.

²⁸ Repealed by Art. 21 para. 1 of the FA of 30 Sept. 1943 on Unfair Competition, with effect from 1 March 1945 (BS 2 951).

Art. 52

VII. Self-defence, necessity, legitimate use of force

1 Where a person has acted in self-defence, he is not liable to pay compensation for damage caused to the person or property of the aggressor.

2 A person who damages the property of another in order to protect himself or another person against imminent damage or danger must pay damages at the court's discretion.

3 A person who uses force to protect his rights is not liable in damages if in the circumstances the assistance of the authorities could not have been obtained in good time and such use of force was the only means of preventing the loss of his rights or a significant impairment of his ability to exercise them.

Art. 53

VIII. Relationship with criminal law

1 When determining fault or lack of fault and capacity or incapacity to consent, the court is not bound by the provisions governing criminal capacity nor by any acquittal in the criminal court.

2 The civil court is likewise not bound by the verdict in the criminal court when determining fault and assessing compensation.

Art. 54

B. Liability of persons lacking capacity to consent

1 On grounds of equity, the court may also order a person who lacks capacity to consent to provide total or partial compensation for the damage he has caused.

Art. 55

C. Liability of employers

1 An employer is liable for the damage caused by his employees or ancillary staff in the performance of their work unless he proves that he took all due care to avoid a damage of this type or that the damage would have occurred even if all due care had been taken.³⁰

2 The employer has a right of recourse against the person who caused the damage to the extent that such person is liable in damages.

Art. 56

D. Liability for animals
I. Damages

1 In the event of damage caused by an animal, its keeper is liable unless he proves that in keeping and supervising the animal he took all due care

³¹ Repealed by Art. 27 No 3 of the FA of 20 June 1986 on Hunting, with effect from 1 April 1988 (AS 1988 506; BBl 1983 II 1197).

³ The Federal Council defines the security precautions to be taken pursuant to paragraph 2.

G. Prescription³⁴ ¹ The right to claim damages or satisfaction prescribes three years from the date on which the person suffering damage became aware of the loss, damage or injury and of the identity of the person liable for it but in any event ten years after the date on which the harmful conduct took place or ceased.³⁵

^{1bis} In cases death or injury, the right to claim damages or satisfaction prescribes three years from the date on which the person suffering damage became aware of the damage and of the identity of person liable for it, but in any event twenty years after the date on which the harmful conduct took place or ceased.³⁶

If the right to prosecute is no longer liable to become time-barred because a first instance criminal judgment has been issued, the right to claim damages or satisfaction prescribes at the earliest three years after notice of the judgment is given.³⁷

³ Where the tort has given rise to a claim against the person suffering damage, he may refuse to satisfy the claim even if his own claim in tort is time-barred.

Art. 61

H. Liability of civil servants and public officials³⁸ ¹ The Confederation and the cantons may by way of legislation enact provisions that deviate from those of this Section to govern the liability of civil servants and public officials to pay damages or satisfaction for any damage they cause in the exercise of their duties.

Section Three: Obligations deriving from Unjust Enrichment

Art. 62

A. Requirement
I. In general

¹ A person who has enriched himself without just cause at the expense of another is obliged to make restitution.

² In particular, restitution is owed for money benefits obtained for no valid reason whatsoever, for a reason that did not transpire or for a reason that subsequently ceased to exist.

Art. 63

II. Payment in satisfaction of a non-existent obligation

¹ A person who has voluntarily satisfied a non-existent debt has a right to restitution of the sum paid only if he can prove that he paid it in the erroneous belief that the debt was owed.

² Restitution is excluded where payment was made in satisfaction of a debt that has prescribe or of a moral obligation.

³ The provisions of federal debt collection and bankruptcy law governing the right to the restitution of payments made in satisfaction of non-existent claims are unaffected.

Art. 64

B. Scope of restitution
I. Obligations of the unjustly enriched party

There is no right of restitution where the recipient can show that he is no longer enriched at the time the claim for restitution is brought, unless he alienated the money benefits in bad faith or in the certain knowledge that he would be bound to return them.

Art. 65

II. Rights in respect of expenditures

¹ The recipient is entitled to reimbursement of necessary and useful expenditures, although where the unjust enrichment was received in bad faith, the reimbursement of useful expenditures must not exceed the amount of added value as at the time of restitution.

² He is not entitled to any compensation for other expenditures, but where no such compensation is offered to him, he may, before returning the property, remove anything he has added to it provided this is possible without damaging it.

Art. 66

C. Exclusion of restitution

No right to restitution exists in respect of anything given with a view to producing an unlawful or immoral outcome.

Art. 67

D. Prescription

¹ The right to claim restitution for unjust enrichment prescribes three years after the date on which the person suffering damage learned of his or her claim and in any event ten years after the date on which the claim first arose.³⁹

² Where the unjust enrichment consists of a claim against the person suffering damage, he or she may refuse to satisfy the claim even if his or her own claim for restitution has prescribed.

Title Two: Effect of ObligationsSection One: Performance of Obligations*Art. 68

A. General principles
I. Performance by the obligor in person

An obligor is not obliged to discharge his obligation in person unless so required by the obligee.

Art. 69

II. Object of performance
1. Part payment

¹ A creditor may refuse partial payment where the total debt is established and due.

² If the creditor wishes to accept part payment, the debtor may not refuse to settle the part of the debt that he acknowledges is due.

Art. 70

2. Indivisible performance

¹ Where indivisible performance is due to several obligees, the obligor must make performance to all of them jointly, and each obligee may demand that performance be made to all of them jointly.

² Where indivisible performance is due by several obligors, each of them has an obligation to make performance in full.

³ Unless circumstances dictate otherwise, an obligor who has satisfied the obligee may then claim proportionate compensation from the other obligors and to that extent the claim of the satisfied obligee passes to him.

³⁹ Amended by No I of the FA of 15 June 2018 (Revision of the Law on Prescription), in force since 1 Jan. 2020 (AS 2018 5343; BBl 2014 235).

- Art. 71
3. Debt of generic object
- ¹ If the object owed is defined only in generic terms, the obligor may choose what object is given in repayment unless otherwise stipulated under the legal relationship.
- ² However, the obligor must not offer an object of less-than-average quality.
- Art. 72
4. Obligations involving choice of performance
- Where an obligation may be discharged by one of several alternative types of performance, the obligor may choose which performance to make unless otherwise stipulated under the legal relationship.
- Art. 73
5. Interest
- ¹ Where an obligation involves the payment of interest but the rate is not set by contract, law or custom, interest is payable at the rate of 5% per annum.
- ² Public law provisions governing abusive interest charges are not affected.
- Art. 74
- B. Place of performance
- ¹ The place of performance is determined by the intention of the parties as stated expressly or evident from the circumstances.
- ² Except where otherwise stipulated, the following principles apply:
1. pecuniary debts must be paid at the place where the creditor is resident at the time of performance;
 2. where a specific object is owed, it must be delivered at the place where it was located when the contract was entered into;
 3. other obligations must be discharged at the place where the obligor was resident at the time they arose.
- ³ Where the obligee may require performance of an obligation at his domicile but this has changed since the obligation arose, thereby significantly hindering performance by the obligor, the latter is entitled to render performance at the original domicile.
- Art. 75
- C. Time of performance
I. Open-ended obligations
- Where no time of performance is stated in the contract or evident from the nature of the legal relationship, the obligation may be discharged or called in immediately.

Art. 76

II. Obligations subject to time limit

1. Monthly time limits

1 A time limit expressed as the beginning or end of a month means the first or last day of the month respectively.

2 A time limit expressed as the middle of the month means the fifteenth day of that month.

Art. 77

2. Other time
limits

1 Where an obligation must be discharged or some other transaction accomplished within a certain time limit subsequent to conclusion of the contract, the time limit is defined as follows:

1. where the time limit is expressed as a number of days, performance falls due on the last thereof, not including the date on which the contract was concluded, and where the number stipulated is eight or fifteen days, this means not one or two weeks but a full eight or fifteen days;
2. where the time limit is expressed as a number of weeks, performance falls due in the last week of the period on the same day of the week as the one on which the contract was concluded;
3. where the time limit is expressed as a number of months or as a period comprising several months (a year, half-year or quarter), performance falls due in the last month of the period on the same day of the month as the one on which the contract was concluded or, where the last month of the period contains no such day, on the last day of that month.

The term ‘half-month’ has the same meaning as a time limit of fifteen days; if the time limit is expressed as a period of one or more months plus one half-month, the fifteen days are counted last.

2 Time limits are calculated in the same manner when stipulated as running from a date other than the date on which the contract was concluded.

3 Where an obligation must be discharged before a specified time limit, performance must occur before that time expires.

Art. 78

3. Sundays and public holidays

1 Where the time of performance or the last day of a time limit falls on a Sunday or on a day officially recognised as a public holiday⁴⁰ at the place of performance, the time of performance or the last day of a time limit is deemed to be the next working day.

⁴⁰ In relation to the statutory time limits under federal law and the time limits fixed by authorities by virtue of federal law, Saturday is now regarded as equivalent to a public holiday (Art. 1 of the FA of 21 June 1963 on the Application of Limitation Periods to Saturdays; SR 173.110.3).

² Any agreement to the contrary is unaffected.

Art. 79

III. Performance during business hours

Performance of the obligation must be made and accepted during normal business hours on the date stipulated.

Art. 80

IV. Extension of the time limit

Where the agreed time limit for performance is extended, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the new time limit runs from the first day following expiry of the previous time limit.

Art. 81

V. Early performance

¹ Unless the terms or nature of the contract or the circumstances indicate that the parties intended otherwise, performance may be rendered before the date on which the time limit expires.

² However, the obligor is not entitled to apply a discount unless that discount has been agreed or is sanctioned by custom.

Art. 82

VI. In bilateral contracts
1. Order of performance

A party to a bilateral contract may not demand performance until he has discharged or offered to discharge his own obligation, unless the terms or nature of the contract allow him to do so at a later date.

Art. 83

2. Allowance for unilateral insolvency

¹ Where one party to a bilateral contract has become insolvent, in particular by virtue of bankruptcy proceedings or execution without satisfaction, and this deterioration in its financial position jeopardises the claim of the other party, the latter may withhold performance until security has been provided for the consideration.

² He may withdraw from the contract if, on request, no such security is provided within a reasonable time.

Art. 84⁴¹

D. Payment
I. National currency

¹ Pecuniary debts must be discharged in legal tender of the currency in which the debt was incurred.

² A debt expressed in a currency other than the national currency of the place of payment may be discharged in that national currency at the rate of exchange that applies on the day it falls due, unless literal performance is required by inclusion in the contract of the expression ‘actual currency’ or words to that effect.

Art. 85

II. Allocation
1. Of part payments

1 A debtor may offset a part payment against the debt principal only if he is not in arrears with interest payments and expenses.

2 Where a creditor has received guarantees, pledges or other security for a portion of his claim, the debtor may not offset a part payment against that portion in preference to less well secured portions of the claim.

Art. 86

2. In the case of multiple debts
a. At the discretion of debtor or creditor

1 A debtor with several debts to the same creditor is entitled to state at the time of payment which debt he means to redeem.

2 In the absence of any statement from the debtor, the payment will be allocated to the debt indicated by the creditor in his receipt, unless the debtor objects immediately.

Art. 87

b. By law

1 Where no valid debt redemption statement has been made and the receipt does not indicate how the payment has been allocated, it is allocated to whichever debt is due or, if several are due, to the debt that first gave rise to enforcement proceedings against the debtor or, in the absence of such proceedings, to the debt that fell due first.

2 Where several debts fell due at the same time, the payment is offset against them proportionately.

3 If none of the debts is yet due, the payment is allocated to the one offering the least security for the creditor.

Art. 88

III. Receipt and return of borrower's note
1. Right of the debtor

1 A debtor making a payment is entitled to demand a receipt and, provided the debt is fully redeemed, the return or annulment of the borrower's note.

2 If the debt is not completely redeemed or the borrower's note confers other rights on the creditor, the debtor is entitled to demand only a receipt and that a record of the payment be entered on the borrower's note.

Art. 89

2. Effect

1 Where interest or other periodic payments are due, a creditor unreservedly issuing a receipt for a later periodic payment is presumed to have received all previous periodic payments.

² If he issues a receipt for redemption of the debt principal, he is presumed to have received the interest.

³ The return of the borrower's note to the debtor gives rise to a presumption that the debt has been redeemed.

Art. 90

3. Return of borrower's note not possible

¹ If the creditor claims to have lost the borrower's note, on redeeming the debt, the debtor may insist that the creditor declare by public deed or notarised document that the borrower's note has been annulled and the debt redeemed.

² The provisions governing annulment of securities are reserved.

Art. 91

E. Default of obligee
I. Requirement

The obligee is in default if he refuses without good cause to accept performance properly offered to him or to carry out such preparations as he is obliged to make and without which the obligor cannot render performance.

Art. 92

II. Effect
1. On obligations relating to objects
a. Right to deposit object

¹ Where the obligee is in default, the obligor is entitled to deposit the object at the expense and risk of the obligee, thereby discharging his obligation.

² The court decides which place should serve as depositary; however, merchandise may be deposited in a warehouse without need for a court decision.⁴²

Art. 93

b. Right to sell

¹ Where the characteristics of the object or the nature of the business preclude a deposit or the object is perishable or gives rise to maintenance costs or substantial storage costs, after having given formal warning to the obligee and with the court's permission, the obligor may dispose of the object by open sale and deposit the sale proceeds.

² Where the object has a quoted stock exchange or market price or its value is low in proportion to the costs involved, the sale need not be open and the court may authorise it without prior warning.

Art. 94

c. Right to take back the object

⁴² Amended by Annex No 5 to the Civil Jurisdiction Act of 24 March 2000, in force since 1 Jan. 2001 (AS 2000 2355; BBI 1999 III 2829).

² As soon as the object is taken back, the claim and all accessory rights become effective again.

Art. 95

2. On other obligations

Where the obligation does not relate to objects and the obligee is in default, the obligor may withdraw from the contract in accordance with the provisions governing default of the obligor.

Art. 96

F. Performance prevented for other reasons

The obligor is entitled to deposit his performance or to withdraw from the contract, as in the case of default on the part of the obligee, where performance cannot be rendered either to the obligee or to his representative for some other reason pertaining to the obligee or where through no fault of the obligor there is uncertainty as to the identity of the obligee.

Section Two: The Consequences of Non-Performance of Obligations

Art. 97

A. Failure to perform
I. Obligor's duty to compensate
1. In general

¹ An obligor who fails to discharge an obligation at all or as required must make amends for the resulting damage unless he can prove that he was not at fault.

² The procedure for debt enforcement is governed by the provisions of the Federal Act of 11 April 1889⁴³ on Debt Collection and Bankruptcy and the Civil Procedure Code of 19 December 2008⁴⁴ (CPC).⁴⁵

Art. 98

2. Obligation to act or refrain from action

¹ Where the obligation is to take certain action, the obligee may without prejudice to his claims for damages obtain authority to perform the obligation at the obligor's expense.

² Where the obligation is to refrain from taking certain action, any breach of such obligation renders the obligor liable to make amends for the damage caused.

⁴⁵ Amended by Annex 1 No II 5 of the Civil Procedure Code of 19 Dec. 2008, in force since 1 Jan. 2011 (AS 2010 1739; BBl 2006 7221).

³ In addition, the obligee may request that the situation constituting a breach of the obligation be rectified and may obtain authority to rectify it at the obligor's expense.

Art. 99

II. Scope of liability and compensation

1. In general

¹ The obligor is generally liable for any fault attributable to him.

² The scope of such liability is determined by the particular nature of the transaction and in particular is judged more leniently where the obligor does not stand to gain from the transaction.

³ In other respects, the provisions governing liability in tort apply mutatis mutandis to a breach of contract.

Art. 100

2. Exclusion of liability

¹ Any agreement purporting to exclude liability for unlawful intent or gross negligence in advance is void.

² At the discretion of the court, an advance exclusion of liability for minor negligence may be deemed void provided the party excluding liability was in the other party's service at the time the waiver was made or the liability arises in connection with commercial activities conducted under official licence.

³ The specific provisions governing insurance policies are unaffected.

Art. 101

3. Liability for associates

¹ A person who delegates the performance of an obligation or the exercise of a right arising from a contractual obligation to an associate, such as a member of his household or an employee is liable to the other party for any damage the associate causes in carrying out such tasks, even if their delegation was entirely authorised.⁴⁶

² This liability may be limited or excluded by prior agreement.

³ If the obligee is in the obligor's service or if the liability arises in connection with commercial activities conducted under official licence, any exclusion of liability by agreement may apply at most to minor negligence.

Art. 102

B. Default of obligor

1. Requirement

¹ Where an obligation is due, the obligor is in default as soon as he receives a formal reminder from the obligee.

⁴⁶ Amended by No II Art. 1 No 3 of the FA of 25 June 1971, in force since 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

2 Where a deadline for performance of the obligation has been set by agreement or as a result of a duly exercised right of termination reserved by one party, the obligor is automatically in default on expiry of the deadline.

Art. 103

II. Effect
1. Liability for accidental damage

1 An obligor in default is liable in damages for late performance and even for accidental damage.

2 He may discharge himself from such liability by proving that his default occurred through no fault of his own or that the object of performance would have suffered the accidental damage to the detriment of the obligee even if performance had taken place promptly.

Art. 104

2. Default interest
a. In general

1 A debtor in default on payment of a pecuniary debt must pay default interest of 5% per annum even where a lower rate of interest was stipulated by contract.

2 Where the contract envisages a rate of interest higher than 5%, whether directly or by agreement of a periodic bank commission, such higher rate of interest may also be applied while the debtor remains in default.

3 In business dealings, where the normal bank discount rate at the place of payment is higher than 5%, default interest may be calculated at the higher rate.

Art. 105

b. Debtor in default on payments of interest, annuities and gifts

1 A debtor in default on payment of interest, annuities or gifts is liable for default interest only as of the day on which enforcement proceedings are initiated or legal action is brought.

2 Any agreement to the contrary is assessed by the court in accordance with the provisions governing penalty clauses.

3 Default interest is never payable on default interest.

Art. 106

3. Excess damage

1 Where the value of the damage suffered by the creditor exceeds the default interest, the debtor is liable also for this additional damage unless he can prove that he is not at fault.

2 Where the additional damage can be anticipated, the court may award compensation for such damage in its judgment on the main claim.

4. Withdrawal and damages
a. Subject to time limit

Art. 107

¹ Where the obligor under a bilateral contract is in default, the obligee is entitled to set an appropriate time limit for subsequent performance or to ask the court to set such time limit.

² If performance has not been rendered by the end of that time limit, the obligee may compel performance in addition to suing for damages in connection with the delay or, provided he makes an immediate declaration to this effect, he may instead forego subsequent performance and either claim damages for non-performance or withdraw from the contract altogether.

b. Without time limit

Art. 108

No time limit need be set:

1. where it is evident from the conduct of the obligor that a time limit would serve no purpose;
2. where performance has become pointless to the obligee as a result of the obligor's default;
3. where the contract makes it clear that the parties intended that performance take place at or before a precise point in time.

c. Effect of withdrawal

Art. 109

¹ An obligee withdrawing from a contract may refuse the promised consideration and demand the return of any performance already made.

² In addition he may claim damages for the lapse of the contract, unless the obligor can prove that he was not at fault.

Section Three: Obligations Involving Third Parties

A. Subrogation

Art. 110

A third party who satisfies the creditor is by operation of law subrogated to his rights:

1. if he redeems an object given in pledge for the debt of another and he owns said object or has a limited right in rem in it;
2. if the debtor notifies the creditor that the third party who is paying is to take the creditor's place.

B. Guarantee of performance by third party

Art. 111

A person who gives an undertaking to ensure that a third party performs an obligation is liable in damages for non-performance by said third party.

Art. 112

C. Contracts
conferring rights on third parties
I. In general

¹ A person who, acting in his own name, has entered into a contract whereby performance is due to a third party is entitled to compel performance for the benefit of said third party.

² The third party or his legal successors have the right to compel performance where that was the intention of the contracting parties or is the customary practice.

³ In this case the obligee may no longer release the obligor from his obligations once the third party has notified the obligor of his intention to exercise that right.

Art. 113

II. In the case of liability insurance

Where an employer has taken out liability insurance and his employee has contributed at least half of the premiums, the employee has sole claim to the policy benefits.

Title Three: Extinction of ObligationsArt. 114

A. Extinction of accessory rights

¹ Where a claim ceases to exist by virtue of being satisfied or in some other manner, all accessory rights such as guarantees and charges are likewise extinguished.

² Interest that has accrued may be reclaimed only if that right is conferred on the obligee by the contract or is evident from the circumstances.

³ The specific provisions governing charges on immovable property, securities and composition agreements are unaffected.

Art. 115

B. Extinction by agreement

No particular form is required for the extinction of a claim by agreement even where the obligation itself could not be assumed without satisfying certain formal requirements required by law or elected by the parties.

Art. 116

C. Novation
I. In general

¹ Where a new debt relationship is contracted, there is no presumption of novation in respect of an old one.

² In particular, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, novation does not result from signature of a bill of exchange in respect of an existing debt or from the issue of a new borrower's note or contract of surety.

Art. 117

II. In relation to current accounts

¹ The mere posting of individual entries in a current account does not result in novation.

² However, there is a presumption of novation if the balance on the account has been drawn and acknowledged.

³ Where special security exists for one of the account entries, unless otherwise agreed, such security is retained even if the balance on the account is drawn and acknowledged.

Art. 118

D. Merger

¹ An obligation is deemed extinguished by merger where the capacities of creditor and debtor are united in the same entity.

² In the event of de-merger, the obligation is revived.

³ The specific provisions governing charges on immovable property and securities are unaffected.

Art. 119

E. Performance becomes impossible

¹ An obligation is deemed extinguished where its performance is made impossible by circumstances not attributable to the obligor.

² In a bilateral contract, the obligor thus released is liable for the consideration already received pursuant to the provisions on unjust enrichment and loses his counter-claim to the extent it has not yet been satisfied.

³ This does not apply to cases in which, by law or contractual agreement, the risk passes to the obligee prior to performance.

Art. 120

F. Set-off
I. Requirement
1. In general

¹ Where two persons owe each other sums of money or performance of identical obligations, and provided that both claims have fallen due, each party may set off his debt against his claim.

² The debtor may assert his right of set-off even if the countervailing claim is contested.

³ A time-barred claim may be set off provided that it was not time-barred at the time it became eligible for set-off.

Art. 121

2. Under surety

A surety may refuse to satisfy the creditor to the extent that the principal debtor has a right of set-off.

- Art. 122
3. In contracts conferring rights on third parties A person who has undertaken an obligation in favour of a third party may not set off that obligation against his own claims against said party.
- Art. 123
4. Where the debtor is bankrupt
- 1 Where the debtor is bankrupt, his creditors may set off their claims, even if they are not due, against the claims that the adjudicated bankrupt holds against them.
- 2 The exclusion or challenge of set-off in the event of the debtor's bankruptcy is governed by the provisions of debt collection and bankruptcy law.
- Art. 124
- II. Effect of set-off
- 1 A set-off takes place only if the debtor notifies the creditor of his intention to exercise his right of set-off.
- 2 Once this has occurred, to the extent that they cancel each other out, the claim and countervailing claim are deemed to have been satisfied as of the time they first became susceptible to set-off.
- 3 The special customs relating to commercial current accounts are unaffected.
- Art. 125
- III. Exceptions
- The following obligations may not be discharged by set-off except with the creditor's consent:
1. obligations to restore or replace objects that have been deposited, unlawfully removed or retained in bad faith;
 2. obligations that by their very nature require actual performance to be rendered to the creditor, such as maintenance claims and salary payments that are absolutely necessary for the upkeep of the creditor and his family;
 3. obligations under public law in favour of the state authorities.
- Art. 126
- IV. Waiver
- The debtor may waive his right of set-off in advance.
- Art. 127
- G. Prescription
I. Periods
1. Ten years
- All claims prescribe after ten years unless otherwise provided by federal civil law.

Art. 128

2. Five years

The following prescribe after five years:

1. claims for agricultural and commercial rent and other rent, interest on capital and all other periodic payments;
2. claims in connection with delivery of foodstuffs, payments for board and lodging and hotel expenses;

2 In other respects the provisions governing computation of time limits for performance also apply to prescription.

Art. 133

II. Effect on accessory claims

When the principal claim prescribes, so too do all claims for interest and other accessory claims.

Art. 134

³ The specific provisions of debt collection and bankruptcy law are unaffected.

Art. 135

The prescriptive period is interrupted:

Art. 136⁵⁷

² Where the prescriptive period for the principal debtor is interrupted, it is likewise interrupted for the surety, provided the interruption is due to an act by the creditor.

³ However, where the prescriptive period for the guarantor is interrupted, it is not interrupted for the principal debtor.

⁴ An interruption effective against an insurer is also effective against the debtor and vice-versa, provided there is a direct claim against the insurer.

IV. Interruption of prescriptive period

1. Grounds for interruption

2. Effect of interruption on co-obligors

⁵⁴ Inserted by No I of the FA of 15 June 2018 (Revision of the Law on Prescription), in force since 1 Jan. 2020 (AS 2018 5343; BBl 2014 235).

2 If the claim has been acknowledged by public deed or confirmed by court judgment, the new prescriptive period is always ten years.

Art. 138

b. By action of the creditor

1 Where the prescriptive period has been interrupted by an application for conciliation, or the submission of a statement of claim or defence, a new prescriptive period commences when the dispute is settled before the relevant court.⁵⁸

2 Where the prescriptive period has been interrupted by debt enforcement proceedings, a new prescriptive period commences as of each step taken in the proceedings.

3 Where the prescriptive period has been interrupted by a petition for bankruptcy, a new prescriptive period commences as of the time specified by bankruptcy law at which it once again becomes possible to assert the claim.

Art. 139⁵⁹

V. Prescription of the right of recourse

Where two or more debtors are jointly and severally liable, the right of recourse of each debtor who has satisfied the creditor prescribes three years from date on which he satisfies the creditor and is aware of his co-debtors.

Art. 140

VI. Prescription of a charge on chattels

The existence of a charge on chattels does not prevent the prescription of a claim, although the fact of its prescription does not prevent the creditor from asserting his right under the charge.

Art. 141

VII. Waiver of the prescription defence⁶⁰

1 The debtor may waive the right to object on the grounds of prescription, in each case for a maximum of ten years from the start of the prescriptive period.⁶¹

^{1bis} The waiver must be made in writing. Only the user of general terms and conditions of business may waive the defence of prescription in such terms and conditions.⁶²

² A waiver granted by a joint and several debtor does not bind the other joint and several debtors.

³ The same applies to co-obligors of an indivisible debt and to the surety in the event of waiver by the principal debtor.

⁴ A waiver granted by a debtor shall bind the debtor's insurers and vice-versa, provided a direct claim exists against the insurer.⁶³

Art. 142

VIII. Application A court may not apply the prescriptive defence of its own accord.

Title Four: Special Relationships relating to Obligations

Section One: Joint and Several Obligations

Art. 143

A. Joint and several debtors
I. Requirement

¹ Debtors become jointly and severally liable for a debt by stating that each of them wishes to be individually liable for performance of the entire obligation.

² Without such a statement of intent, debtors are joint and severally liable only in the cases specified by law.

Art. 144

II. Relationship between creditor and debtor
1. Effect
a. Liability of the debtors

¹ A creditor may at his discretion request partial performance of the obligation from each joint and several debtor or else full performance from any one of them.

² All the debtors remain under the obligation until the entire claim has been redeemed.

Art. 145

b. Objections by the debtors

¹ A joint and several debtor may raise against the creditor only those objections that are based either on his personal relationship with the creditor or on the nature of or collective reason for the joint and several obligation.

⁶² Inserted by No I of the FA of 15 June 2018 (Revision of the Law on Prescription), in force since 1 Jan. 2020 (AS 2018 5343; BBl 2014 235).

⁶³ Inserted by No I of the FA of 15 June 2018 (Revision of the Law on Prescription), in force since 1 Jan. 2020 (AS 2018 5343; BBl 2014 235).

² Each joint and several debtor is liable to the others if he fails to raise the objections which all of them are entitled to raise.

Art. 146

c. Action taken by individual debtors

Unless otherwise provided, a joint and several debtor must not take any action which might impair the position of his fellows.

Art. 147

2. Extinction of the joint and several obligation

¹ Where one joint and several debtor satisfies the creditor by payment or set-off, the others are discharged to that extent.

² Where one joint and several debtor is released from liability without satisfaction of the creditor, such release does not benefit the others save to the extent justified by the circumstances or the nature of the obligation.

Art. 148

III. Relationship between joint and several debtors

1. Participation

¹ Unless the legal relationship between the joint and several debtors indicates otherwise, each of them assumes an equal share of the payment made to the creditor.

² A joint and several debtor who pays more than his fair share has recourse against the others for the excess.

³ Amounts that cannot be recovered from one joint and several debtor must be borne in equal shares by the others.

Art. 149

2. Subrogation

¹ A joint and several debtor with right of recourse against his fellow debtors is subrogated to the rights of the creditor to the extent the latter has been satisfied.

² The creditor is liable if he favours the legal position of one joint and several debtor to the detriment of the others.

Art. 150

B. Joint and several creditors

¹ Multiple creditors become joint and several creditors where the debtor states that he wishes to grant each of them the right to receive full performance of the debt and in the cases prescribed by law.

² Performance made to one joint and several creditor discharges the debtor as against all of them.

³ The debtor may choose which joint and several creditor he makes the payment to, provided none of them has initiated legal proceedings against him.

Section Two: Conditional Obligations

Art. 151

A. Condition precedent
I. In general

¹ A contract is conditional if its binding nature is made dependent on the occurrence of an event that is not certain to happen.

² The contract takes effect as soon as this condition precedent occurs, unless the parties clearly intended otherwise.

Art. 152

II. Before the condition occurs

¹ Until such time as the condition precedent occurs, the conditional obligor must refrain from any act which might prevent the due performance of his obligation.

² A conditional obligee whose rights are jeopardised is entitled to apply for the same protective measures as if his claim were unconditional.

³ On fulfilment of the condition precedent, dispositions made before it occurred are void to the extent that they impair the effect of the condition precedent.

Art. 153

III. Benefits enjoyed in the interim

¹ A creditor into whose possession a promised object has been delivered before the condition precedent occurred may, on fulfilment of the condition precedent, keep any benefits obtained from it in the interim.

² If the condition precedent fails to occur, he is obliged to return such benefits.

Art. 154

B. Condition subsequent

¹ A contract whose termination is made dependent on the occurrence of an event that is not certain to happen lapses as soon as that condition is fulfilled.

² As a rule, there is no retroactive effect.

Art. 155

C. Joint provisions
I. Fulfilment of the condition

If the condition consists of an act by one of the parties and that act need not be carried out in person, it may also be carried out by the party's heirs.

Art. 156

II. Prevention in bad faith

A condition is deemed fulfilled where one of the parties has prevented its fulfilment by acting in bad faith.

Art. 157

III. Inadmissible conditions

Where a condition is attached with the intention of encouraging an unlawful or immoral act or omission, the conditional claim is void.

Section Three:
Earnest Money, Forfeit Money, Salary Deductions and Contractual Penalties

Art. 158

A. Earnest and forfeit money

¹ Earnest money paid on entering into a contract is deemed a mark of the party's intention to honour the contract rather than a forfeit.

² Unless otherwise stipulated by agreement or local custom, the earnest money is retained by the recipient without being deducted from his claim.

³ Where a sum of forfeit money has been agreed, the party that paid the sum may withdraw from the contract by relinquishing it and the party that received it by returning twice the amount.

Art. 159⁶⁴

B. ...

Art. 160

C. Contractual penalty
I. Rights of the creditor
1. Relation between penalty and contractual performance

¹ Where a penalty is promised for non-performance or defective performance of a contract, unless otherwise agreed, the creditor may only compel performance or claim the penalty.

² Where the penalty is promised for failure to comply with the stipulated time or place of performance, the creditor may claim the penalty in addition to performance provided he has not expressly waived such right or accepted performance without reservation.

³ The foregoing does not apply if the debtor can prove that he has the right to withdraw from the contract by paying the penalty.

Art. 161

2. Relation between penalty and damage

¹ The penalty is payable even if the creditor has not suffered any damage.

⁶⁴ Repealed by No II Art. 6 No 1 of the FA of 25 June 1971, with effect from 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

² Where the damage suffered exceeds the penalty amount, the creditor may claim further compensation only if he can prove that the debtor was at fault.

Art. 162

3. Forfeiture of part payments

¹ Any agreement that part payments are forfeited to the creditor in the event the contract is terminated shall be determined in accordance with the provisions governing contractual penalties.

² ...⁶⁵

Art. 163

II. Amount, nullity and reduction of the penalty

¹ The parties are free to determine the amount of the contractual penalty.

² The penalty may not be claimed where its purpose is to reinforce an unlawful or immoral undertaking or, unless otherwise agreed, where performance has been prevented by circumstances beyond the debtor's control.

³ At its discretion, the court may reduce penalties that it considers excessive.

Title Five: Assignment of Claims and Assumption of Debt

Art. 164

A. Assignment of claims
I. Requirements
1. Voluntary assignment
a. Admissibility

¹ A creditor may assign a claim to which he is entitled to a third party without the debtor's consent unless the assignment is forbidden by law or contract or prevented by the nature of the legal relationship.

² The debtor may not object to the assignment on the grounds that it was excluded by agreement against any third party who acquires the claim in reliance on a written acknowledgement of debt in which there is no mention of any prohibition of assignment.

Art. 165

b. Form of the contract

¹ An assignment is valid only if done in writing.

² No particular form is required for an undertaking to enter into an assignment agreement.

⁶⁵ Repealed by Annex 2 No II 1 to the FA of 23 March 2001 on Consumer Credit, with effect from 1 Jan. 2003 (AS 2002 3846; BBl 1999 III 3155).

Art. 166

2. Assignment by law or court order

Where legal provisions or a court judgment require a claim to be assigned to another person, the assignment is effective towards third parties without need for any particular form or even for a statement of intent by the former creditor.

Art. 167

II. Effect of assignment

1. Position of the debtor

a. Payment made in good faith

Where, before the assignment has been brought to his attention by the assignor or the assignee, the debtor makes payment in good faith to his former creditor or, in the case of multiple assignments, to a subsequent assignee who acquired the claim, he is validly released from his obligation.

Art. 168

b. Refusal of payment and deposit

¹ In the event of dispute as to entitlement, the debtor may refuse payment and discharge his obligation by depositing the payment with the court.

² He makes payment at his own risk if he does so with knowledge of the dispute.

³ Where legal action is pending and the debt is due, each party may require the debtor to deposit the payment with the court.

Art. 169

c. Objections raised by the debtor

¹ Any objection that could have been made to the assignor's claim may also be made to the assignee if it applied at the time the debtor first learned of the assignment.

² If the debtor held a countervailing claim that was not yet due at that time, he may nonetheless set it off against the assigned claim provided it did not fall due any later than the assigned claim.

Art. 170

2. Transfer of preferential and accessory rights, documents and evidence

¹ The assignment of a claim includes all preferential and accessory rights except those that are inseparable from the person of the assignor.

² The assignor is bound to surrender to the assignee the legal document pertaining to the debt together with all available evidence thereof and to furnish him with all information necessary to assert the claim.

³ Arrears of interest are presumed assigned with the main debt.

Art. 171

3. Warranty
a. In general

¹ Where assignment is made for valuable consideration, the assignor warrants that the claim exists at the time of assignment.

² However, he does not warrant that the debtor is solvent unless he has undertaken to do so.

³ Where there is no valuable consideration for the assignment, the assignor does not even warrant that the claim exists.

Art. 172

b. In the case of assignment by way of satisfaction

Where a creditor has assigned his claim in payment without fixing the amount at which the claim should be credited, the assignee need credit only the amount that he actually receives from the debtor or would have been able to obtain by exercising all due diligence.

Art. 173

c. Scope of liability

¹ The assignor is liable under warranty only for the valuable consideration received plus interest and in addition for the costs of the assignment and of any unsuccessful proceedings against the debtor.

² Where a claim is assigned by operation of law, the previous creditor warrants neither the existence of the claim nor the solvency of the debtor.

Art. 174

III. Special provisions

Where the law envisages special provisions governing the assignment of claims, these are unaffected.

Art. 175

B. Assumption of debt
I. Debtor and debt acquirer

¹ A person who promises to answer for the debt of another assumes an obligation to release the debtor from his obligation either by satisfying the creditor or by taking the debtor's place with the consent of the creditor.

² The debtor may not compel performance of the obligation by the party assuming the debt until the debtor has discharged his obligations under the debt assumption contract.

³ If the previous debtor is not released from his debt, he may request that the new debtor furnish security.

Art. 176

II. Contract between debt acquirer and creditor
1. Offer and acceptance

¹ The accession of the debt acquirer to the debt relationship in lieu of and with the release of the previous debtor is effected by means of a contract between the debt acquirer and the creditor.

² An offer to enter into the contract may consist of notification of the creditor that the debt is to be assumed. Notification must be made either by the debt acquirer or, on his authority, by the previous debtor.

³ The creditor's acceptance may be express or implied by the circumstances and is presumed once the creditor unreservedly takes receipt of a payment from the debt acquirer or consents to some other act performed by him in the capacity of debtor.

Art. 177

2. Lapse of offer
- ¹ The creditor may declare his acceptance at any time, but the debt acquirer and the former debtor may set the creditor a time limit for acceptance and where this expires without communication from the creditor, he is deemed to have refused the offer.
- ² If the creditor agrees some other debt assumption arrangement before the offer has been accepted and the new prospective debt acquirer has also made an offer to the creditor, the party that made the previous offer is no longer bound thereby.

Art. 178

- III. Effect of change of debtor
1. Accessory rights
- ¹ The rights that are accessory to the debt remain unaffected by the change of debtor save to the extent that they are inseparable from the person of the previous debtor.
- ² However, pledges and sureties provided by third parties remain in place in favour of the creditor only provided the pledgor or surety has consented to the assumption of the debt.

Art. 179

2. Objections
- ¹ Any defences arising from the debt relationship are available to the new debtor as they were to the former.
- ² The new debtor may not invoke the defences personally available to the old debtor against the creditor, unless otherwise provided in the contract with the creditor.
- ³ Where the debt acquirer has defences arising against the debtor from the legal relationship underlying the assumption of debt, these may not be invoked against the creditor.

Art. 180

- IV. Failure of debt assumption contract
- ¹ In the event of the failure of the debt assumption contract, the previous debtor's obligation is revived with all accessory rights, subject to the rights of bona fide third parties.
- ² The creditor may also claim damages from the would-be debt acquirer for any damage suffered as a result of the loss of security previously obtained or for similar reasons, unless the would-be debt acquirer can prove that he was in no way to blame for the failure of the debt assumption contract or the damage caused to the creditor.

Art. 181

V. Assignment of assets or a business with assets and liabilities

¹ A person to whom assets or a business with assets and liabilities are assigned automatically becomes liable to the creditors of the debts encumbering such assets or business on notification of the assignment to the creditors by him or by publication in official journals.

² However, the previous debtor remains jointly and severally liable with the new debtor for three years, commencing on the date of notification or publication in the case of claims already due and on the maturity date in the case of claims falling due subsequently.⁶⁶

³ In other respects, an assumption of debt of this kind has the same effect as the assumption of an individual debt.

⁴ The takeover by assignment of assets or businesses of commercial enterprises, cooperatives, associations, foundations or sole proprietorships registered in the commercial register is governed by the provisions of the Mergers Act of 3 October 2003^{67,68}

Art. 182⁶⁹

VI. ...

Art. 183

VII. In relation to division of estate and land purchase

The special provisions governing assumption of debt when dividing estates or disposing of pledged immovable property are unaffected.

³ The price is deemed sufficiently determined where it can be determined from the circumstances.

Art. 185

B. Benefits and risks

¹ The benefit and risk of the object pass to the buyer on conclusion of the contract, except where otherwise agreed or dictated by special circumstance.

² Where the object sold is defined only in generic terms, the seller must select the particular item to be delivered and, if it is to be shipped, must hand it over for dispatch.

³ In a contract subject to a condition precedent, benefit and risk of the object do not pass to the buyer until the condition has been fulfilled.

Art. 186

C. Reservation of cantonal law

Cantonal law may limit or exclude the right to bring claims in connection with retail sales of alcoholic beverages, including hotel bills.

Section Two: The Chattel Sale

Art. 187

2. Transport costs

¹ Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, if the object sold must be transported to a place other than the place of performance, the buyer bears the costs of such transport.

² The seller is presumed to have borne the transport costs where free delivery has been agreed.

³ Where delivery free of shipping costs and duties has been agreed, the seller is deemed to have assumed the export, transit and import duties payable during transport but not the consumer tax levied on receipt of the object.

Art. 190

3. Delivery default
a. Withdrawal from commercial transactions

¹ Where in commercial transactions the contract specifies a time limit for delivery and the seller is in default, the presumption is that the buyer will forego delivery and claim damages for non-performance.

Art. 191

b. Liability for and computation
of damages

¹ A seller who fails to discharge his contractual obligation is liable for the resultant damage to the buyer.

² The buyer in a commercial transaction is entitled to compensation of the difference between the sale price and the price he has paid in good faith to replace the object that was not delivered to him.

³ In the case of goods with a market or stock exchange price, the buyer need not buy the replacement object but is entitled to claim as damages the difference between the contractual sale price and the market price at the time of performance.

Art. 192

II. Warranty of

1. Warranty obligation

¹ The seller is obliged to transfer the purchased goods to the buyer free from any rights enforceable by third parties against the buyer that already exist at the time the contract is concluded.

² Where on conclusion of the contract the buyer was aware of the existence of such rights, the seller is not bound unless by any express warranty given.

³ Any agreement to exclude or limit the warranty obligation is void if the seller has intentionally omitted to mention the right of a third party.

Art. 193⁷⁰

2. Procedure

Art. 194

b. Surrender of object without court decision

¹ The seller remains subject to the warranty obligation even if the buyer has in good faith acknowledged the right of a third party without waiting for a court decision or if he has agreed to submit to arbitration, provided that the seller was warned of the arbitration proceedings in good time but declined an invitation to engage therein.

² The same applies if the buyer proves that he was compelled to surrender the object.

Art. 195

3. Rights of the buyer
a. Full dispossession

¹ In the case of full dispossession, the contract of sale is deemed terminated and the buyer has the right to claim:

1. restitution of the price paid, with interest, less the value of any fruits the buyer has obtained or neglected to obtain from the object and other benefits derived therefrom;
2. reimbursement of his expenditures on the object, to the extent this cannot be obtained from the third party with the superior right;
3. reimbursement of all judicial and extra-judicial costs arising from the proceedings, apart from those he would have avoided by serving third-party notice on the seller;
4. compensation for all other damage directly caused by the dispossession.

² The seller is also obliged to make good any further loss suffered by the buyer unless the seller can prove that he is not at fault.

Art. 196

b. Partial dispossession

¹ Where the buyer is dispossessed of only part of the purchased object or it is encumbered with a charge in rem for which the seller is guarantor, the buyer may not seek termination of the contract of sale but may only claim damages for being thus dispossessed.

² However, where in the circumstances there is cause to presume that he would not have entered into the contract if he had foreseen such a partial dispossession, he has the right to request its termination.

³ In this case, he must return to the seller that part of the item of which he has not been dispossessed together with the benefits he obtained from it in the interim.

Art. 196a⁷²

c. Objects of cultural heritage

In the case of objects of cultural heritage within the meaning of Article 2 paragraph 1 of the Cultural Property Transfer Act of 20 June 2003⁷³, actions for breach of warranty of title prescribe one year after the buyer discovered the defect of title but in any event 30 years after the contract was concluded.

Art. 197

III. Warranty of quality and fitness

1. Object of the warranty
a. In general

¹The seller is liable to the buyer for any breach of warranty of quality and for any defects that would materially or legally negate or substantially reduce the value of the object or its fitness for the designated purpose.

² He is liable even if he was not aware of the defects.

Art. 198

b. In livestock trading

There is no warranty obligation in sales of livestock (horses, donkeys, mules, cattle, sheep, goats or pigs) unless the seller has given express warranty in writing to the buyer or has intentionally misled the buyer.

Art. 199

2. Exclusion of warranty

Any agreement to exclude or limit the warranty obligation is void if the seller has fraudulently concealed the failure to comply with warranty from the buyer.

Art. 200

3. Defects known to the buyer

¹ The seller is not liable for defects known to the buyer at the time of purchase.

² He is not liable for defects that any normally attentive buyer should have discovered unless he assured the buyer that they do not exist.

Art. 201

4. Notice of defects
a. In general

¹ The buyer must inspect the condition of the purchased object as soon as feasible in the normal course of business and, if he discovers defects for which the seller is liable under warranty, must notify him without delay.

² Should he fail to do so, the purchased object is deemed accepted except in the case of defects that would not be revealed by the customary inspection.

⁷² Inserted by Art. 32 No 2 of the Cultural Property Transfer Act of 20 June 2003, in force since 1 June 2005 (AS 2005 1869; BBl 2002 535).

⁷³ SR 444.1

³ Where such defects come to light subsequently, the seller must be notified immediately, failing which the object will be deemed accepted even in respect of such defects.

Art. 202

b. In livestock trading

¹ Where in a sale of livestock a written assurance includes no time limit and does not warrant that an animal is pregnant, the seller is not liable to the buyer unless a defect is discovered and notified within nine days of delivery or of the notice of default in taking delivery and an application is made to the competent authority within the same time limit to have the animal examined by experts.

² The court evaluates the experts' report at its discretion.

³ In other respects the procedure is governed by regulations enacted by the Federal Council.

Art. 203

5. Intentional deceit

Where the seller has wilfully misled the buyer, liability for breach of warranty is not limited by any failure on the buyer's part to give prompt notice of defects.

Art. 204

6. Remote sale and purchase

¹ A buyer who complains that an object sent from another place is defective is obliged to place it in temporary storage, provided the seller has no representative in the place in which it was received, and cannot simply return it to the seller.

² The buyer is obliged to have the condition of the object duly and promptly witnessed, failing which he will bear the burden of proving that the alleged defects already existed when he took receipt of the object.

³ Where there is a risk that the object will rapidly deteriorate, the buyer has the right and, should the interests of the seller so require, the obligation to arrange its sale with the assistance of the competent authority of the place where the object is located, but must notify the seller of such sale as soon as possible to avoid rendering himself liable in damages.

Art. 205

7. Types of action
a. Rescission or reduction

¹ In claims for breach of warranty of quality and fitness, the buyer may sue either to rescind the contract of sale for breach of warranty or to have the sale price reduced by way of compensation for the decrease in the object's value.

² Even where the buyer has brought action for rescission the court is free to order a reduction in the price of the object if it does not consider rescission justified by the circumstances.

³ If the decrease in the object's value is equal to the sale price, the buyer may only sue for rescission.

Art. 206

b. Substitute performance

¹ Where the contract of sale is for delivery of a specified quantity of fungibles, the buyer may choose to bring action either for rescission or for a reduction in the sale price or to request other acceptable goods of the same kind.

² Where the purchased objects have not been sent from another place, the seller may discharge his obligation to the buyer by immediately delivering acceptable items of the same kind and making good any damage the buyer has suffered.

Art. 207

c. Rescission when the object is destroyed

¹ Action for rescission of the contract of sale may be brought if the object has been destroyed as a result of its defects or by accident.

² In such cases the buyer must return only that which remains of the object.

³ If the object is destroyed through the fault of the buyer or has been sold on or transformed by him, his only claim is for compensation for the decrease in value.

Art. 208

8. Rescission of the contract of sale
a. In general

¹ In the event of rescission of the contract of sale the buyer must return the object to the seller together with any benefits derived from it in the interim.

² The seller must reimburse to the buyer the sale price paid together with interest and, in accordance with the provisions governing full dispossession, compensation for litigation costs, expenses and the damage incurred by the buyer as a result of the delivery of defective goods.

³ The seller is obliged to compensate the buyer for any further damage unless he can prove that no fault is attributable to him.

Art. 209

b. For sales of batches or sets of objects

¹ Where the sale involves a batch or set of objects of which only some are defective, action for rescission may be brought only in respect of the defective items.

² However, where the defective items cannot be separated from the unflawed items without substantial prejudice to the buyer or the seller, rescission of the contract of sale must extend to the entire batch or set.

³ Rescission in respect of the main sale object necessarily involves rescission in respect of all accessory objects even if they are priced separately, whereas rescission in respect of accessory objects does not extend to the main object.

Art. 210⁷⁴

9. Prescription

¹ An action for breach of warranty of quality and fitness prescribes two years after delivery of the object to the buyer, even if he does not discover the defects until later, unless the seller has assumed liability under warranty for a longer period.

² The period amounts to five years where defects in an object that has been incorporated in an immovable work in a manner consistent with its nature and purpose have caused the work to be defective.

³ In the case of cultural property within the meaning of Article 2 paragraph 1 of the Cultural Property Transfer Act of 20 June 2003⁷⁵, actions for breach of warranty of quality and fitness prescribe one year after the buyer discovered the defect but in any event 30 years after the contract was concluded.

⁴ An agreement to reduce the prescriptive period is null and void if:

- a. the prescriptive period is reduced to less than two years, or less than one year in the case of second-hand goods;
- b. the object is intended to be used by the buyer or his or her family; and
- c. the seller is acting in the course of his or her professional or commercial activities.

⁵ The defence of defective goods remains available to the buyer provided he has notified the seller within the prescriptive period.

⁶ The seller may not invoke the prescriptive period if it is proved that he wilfully misled the buyer. The foregoing does not apply to the 30-year period under paragraph 3.

Art. 211

C. Obligations of the buyer I. Payment of the sale price and acceptance of the object

¹ The buyer has an obligation to pay the price in accordance with the terms of the contract and to accept the sale object provided it is offered to him by the seller as contractually agreed.

⁷⁴ Amended by No I of the FA of 16 March 2012 (Prescription of Guarantee Claims. Extension and Coordination), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2012 5415; BBl 2011 2889 3903).
⁷⁵ SR 444.1

² Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, such acceptance must take place immediately.

Art. 212

II. Fixing the price

¹ Where the buyer places a firm order without indicating the sale price, the price is presumed to be the average current market price at the place of performance.

² Where the price is based on the weight of the goods, the weight of the packaging (tare) is deducted.

³ The foregoing does not apply to special commercial customs whereby the gross weight of certain resale merchandise is reduced by a set amount or percentage or the price is based on the gross weight including packaging.

Art. 213

III. Time when price falls due, interest

¹ The price falls due as soon as the property passes into the buyer's possession, unless some other juncture is agreed.

² Regardless of the provision governing default on expiry of a specified time limit, interest accrues on the sale price even if no reminder is issued where such practice is customary or the buyer may derive fruits or other benefits from the purchased object.

Art. 214

IV. Buyer in default
1. Seller's right of withdrawal

¹ Where the property is to be delivered against advance payment of the price in full or in instalments and the buyer is in default on such payment, the seller is entitled to withdraw from the contract without further formality.

² However, if he intends to exercise this right he must notify the buyer immediately.

³ Where the purchased object has passed into the buyer's possession prior to payment, the seller may withdraw from the contract on the grounds that the buyer is in default and demand the return of the object only if he has expressly reserved the right to do so.

Art. 215

2. Liability for and computation of damages

¹ Where the buyer in a commercial transaction fails to discharge his payment obligation, the seller is entitled to compensation for the difference between the sale price and the price at which he has subsequently sold the object in good faith.

² In the case of goods with a market or stock exchange price, the seller is entitled to claim as damages the difference between the contractual sale price and the market price at the time of performance without needing to sell the object on.

Section Three: The Sale of Immovable Property

Art. 216

A. Formal requirements

² A preliminary contract and an agreement conferring a right of pre-emption, purchase or repurchase in relation to immovable property is valid only if done as a public deed.⁷⁶

³ An agreement conferring a right of pre-emption without fixing a price is valid if done in writing.⁷⁷

Art. 216a⁷⁸

Abis. Duration and priority notice

Art. 216b⁷⁹

Ater. Inheritance and assignment

¹ Unless otherwise agreed, contractual rights of pre-emption, purchase and repurchase may be inherited but not assigned.

² Where assignment is permitted by contractual agreement, it is subject to the same formal requirements as apply to the establishment of the right.

Art. 216c⁸⁰

Aquater. Rights of pre-emption
I. Pre-emption events

¹ A right of pre-emption may be exercised on the sale of the immovable property or any other legal transaction economically equivalent to a sale (pre-emption event).

² In particular, the following are not pre-emption events: allocation to an heir in the division of an estate, forced sale, or acquisition in performance of public duties.

Art. 216^{a81}

II. Effect of pre-emption, conditions

¹ The seller must inform persons with a right of pre-emption of the conclusion and content of any contract of sale entered into.

² Where the contract of sale is terminated after the right of pre-emption has been exercised or if necessary permission is refused for reasons pertaining to the person of the buyer, such termination or refusal has no effect on the person to whom the right of pre-emption accrues.

³ Unless the pre-emption agreement provides otherwise, the person with the right of pre-emption may purchase the property on the conditions agreed by the seller with the third party.

Art. 216^{e82}

III. Exercise, forfeiture

A person wishing to exercise his right of pre-emption must give notice of his intention within three months to the seller or, if it is entered in the land register, to the owner. This time limit commences on the day on which the person with the right of pre-emption became aware of the conclusion and content of the contract of sale.

Art. 217

B. Conditional purchase and reservation of ownership

¹ Conditional purchases of immovable property are not entered in the land register until the condition has been fulfilled.

² A reservation of ownership may not be entered in the land register.

Art. 218⁸³

C. Agricultural properties

The Federal Act of 4 October 1991⁸⁴ on Rural Land Rights applies to the sale of agricultural properties.

⁸⁴ SR 211.412.11

² Where the property is not of the size entered in the land register based on an official survey, the seller must compensate the buyer only where he gave express warranty to that effect.

³ The warranty obligation in respect of defects in a building prescribes five years after ownership is acquired.

Art. 220

E. Benefits and risks

Where the agreement stipulates a date on which the buyer is to take possession of the property, the presumption is that the associated benefits and risks do not pass to the buyer until that date.

Art. 221

F. Reference to chattel sale

In other respects, the provisions governing chattel sale apply mutatis mutandis to the sale and purchase of land.

Section Four: Special Types of Sale

Art. 222

A. Sale by sample

² In any event the other party is entitled to prove that the sample is not the same one.

³ If the sample has been spoiled or been destroyed while in the possession of the buyer, even if he was not at fault, the onus is not on the seller to prove that the object conforms with the sample, but on the buyer to prove the contrary.

Art. 223

B. Sale on approval or inspection

¹ In a sale on approval or inspection, the buyer is free to accept or refuse the object.

I. Effect

² Until it is accepted, the seller remains its owner even if it has passed into the buyer's possession.

Art. 224

II. Inspection on the seller's premises

¹ Where the object is to be inspected on the premises of the seller, he is released from his obligation if the buyer fails to accept the object within the agreed or customary time limit.

² In the absence of any such time limit the seller may, after an appropriate interval, call on the buyer to declare whether he accepts the object, and the seller is released from his obligation if the buyer fails to make such declaration immediately on request.

Art. 225

III. Inspection on the buyer's premises

¹ Where the object has been delivered to the buyer prior to inspection, the sale is deemed to have been approved if the buyer neither declares that he rejects the object nor returns it within the agreed or customary time limit or, in the absence of any such time limit, immediately on demand by the seller.

² The sale is similarly treated as completed, if the buyer pays the whole or part of the price without reservation or if he deals with the property otherwise than was necessary for its inspection.

D. Auctions
I. Conclusion of the purchase

¹ At a compulsory auction, a contract of sale is concluded when the official auctioneer knocks the object down to the highest bidder.

² In the case of a voluntary auction that has been publicly announced and is open to all bidders, a contract of sale is concluded when the seller accepts the bid of the highest bidder.

³ Unless the seller has expressed some other intention, the auctioneer is deemed to have the authority to knock the object down to the highest bidder.

Art. 230

II. Avoidance

¹ Any interested party may within ten days bring a claim for avoidance in respect of an auction whose outcome has been influenced by unlawful or immoral means.

² In the case of a compulsory auction, the avoidance claim must be brought before the supervisory authority, and in all other cases before the court.

Art. 231

III. Binding nature of bids at auction

1. In general

¹ A bidder is bound by his offer according to the auction terms and conditions.

² Unless these provide otherwise, he is released from his obligation if a higher bid is made or if his own bid is not accepted immediately after the usual call has been made.

Art. 232

2. Immovable property

¹ In the case immovable property, the highest bid must be accepted or refused at the auction itself.

² Any condition whereby the bidder is bound to maintain his bid after the auction is void, other than in the case of compulsory auctions or sales of land or buildings that require official approval.

Art. 233

IV. Cash payment

¹ The successful bidder must pay in cash unless the auction terms and conditions provide otherwise.

² The seller may immediately withdraw from the transaction if payment is not tendered in cash or in accordance with the auction terms and conditions.

Art. 234

V. Warranty

¹ Sale at compulsory auction is without warranty, apart from special assurances given or where the bidders are intentionally deceived.

² The successful bidder acquires the object in the condition and with the attendant rights and encumbrances indicated in the public registers or the lot description and/or those that exist by operation of law.

³ In sales at voluntary public auction, the seller has the same liability as in any other sale, but in the lot description he may disclaim any warranty obligation with the exception of liability for intentional deceit.

Art. 235

VI. Transfer of ownership

¹ The successful bidder for a chattel acquires title to it as soon as it is knocked down to him, whereas ownership of immovable property is not transferred until the entry is made in the land register.

² The official auctioneers immediately notify the land registry of the sale at auction by reference to the formal auction record.

³ The provisions governing acquisition of ownership at compulsory auction are reserved.

Art. 236

VII. Cantonal provisions

The cantons may enact other provisions governing sale at public auction within the bounds of federal law.

Section Five: The Contract of Exchange

Art. 237

A. Reference to provisions governing purchase

The rules governing contracts of sale also apply to contracts of exchange in the sense that each party to the exchange is treated as seller in respect of the object promised by him and as buyer in respect of the object promised to him.

Art. 238

- B. Warranty A party to the exchange who is dispossessed of the object received or has returned it as defective may either claim for damages or for the return of the object that he delivered.

Title Seven: The Gift

Art. 239

- A. Definition 1 A gift is any inter vivos disposition in which a person uses his assets to enrich another without receiving an equivalent consideration.

Art. 240

- B. Personal capacity
 I. Of the donor 1 A person with capacity to act may make gifts of his assets within the bounds imposed by matrimonial property law and inheritance law.

 3 ...⁹⁵

Art. 241

 2 However, the gift is not acquired or is annulled where his legal representative forbids him to accept it or instructs him to return it.

Art. 242

- C. Establishing the gift
 I. From hand to hand 1 A gift from hand to hand is made when the donor presents the object to the recipient.

⁹⁴ Amended by Annex No 10 of the FA of 19 Dec. 2008 (Adult Protection, Law of Persons and Law of Children), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2011 725; BBl 2006 7001).

² Gifts of title or rights in rem to immovable property are not effective until an entry is made in the land register.

³ The entry presupposes a valid promise to give.

Art. 243

II. Promise of a gift

¹ The promise of a gift is valid only if done in writing.

² A promise to give title or rights in rem to immovable property is valid only if done as a public deed.

² A gift whose occurrence is made contingent on the donor's death is subject to the provisions governing testamentary dispositions.

Art. 246

II. Fulfilment of provisos

¹ The donor may bring action for fulfilment of a proviso that has been accepted by the recipient.

² Where fulfilment of the proviso is in the public interest, the competent authority may compel fulfilment after the death of the donor.

³ The recipient may refuse to fulfil the proviso if the value of the gift does not cover the expenses occasioned by the proviso and he is not reimbursed for the shortfall.

Art. 247

III. Reversion clause

¹ The donor may provide that the object given shall revert to him in the event that the recipient dies before he does.

² A reversionary right attached to a gift of title or rights in rem to immovable property may be entered under priority notice in the land register.

2. if the recipient has grossly neglected his duties under family law towards the donor or any of the latter's dependants;
3. if the recipient has failed without good cause to fulfil the provisions attached to the gift.

Art. 250

II. Revocation and invalidation of a promise to give

¹ The donor who has made a promise to give may revoke the promise and refuse to fulfil it:

1. on the same grounds as justify a claim for return of the object given in the case of a gift from hand to hand;
2. where since the promise was made the donor's financial situation has altered to such an extent that making the gift would cause serious hardship;
3. where since the promise was made the donor has acquired duties under family law that previously did not exist or were significantly less onerous.

² All promises to give are annulled when a certificate of loss is issued against the donor or he is declared bankrupt.

Art. 251

III. Prescription and heirs' right of action

¹ Revocation may take place at any time in the year commencing on the day on which the grounds for revocation came to the donor's attention.

² If the donor dies before the end of this one-year period, his right of action passes to his heirs for the remainder of the period.

³ The donor's heirs may revoke the gift if the recipient wilfully and unlawfully caused the donor's death or prevented him from exercising his right of revocation.

⁹⁶ Amended by Annex No 2 to the FA of 26 June 1998, in force since 1 Jan. 2000 (AS 1999 1118; BBl 1996 I 1).

Art. 253b

2. Provisions on protection against unfair rents

¹ The provisions governing protection against unfair rents (Art. 269 et seq.) apply mutatis mutandis to non-agricultural leases and to other contracts whose essential purpose is to regulate the transfer of the use of residential or commercial premises against valuable consideration.

² They do not apply to the lease of luxury apartments and single-occupancy residential units with six or more bedrooms and reception rooms (not including the kitchen).

³ The provisions governing challenges to unfair rents do not apply to residential premises made available with public sector support for which rent levels are set by a public authority.

Art. 254

B. Tie-in transactions

A tie-in transaction linked to a lease of residential or commercial premises is void where the conclusion or continuation of the lease is made conditional on such transaction and, under its terms, the tenant assumes an obligation towards the landlord or a third party which is not directly connected with the use of the leased premises.

Art. 255

- C. Duration
- 1 Leases may be concluded for a limited or indefinite duration.
 - 2 Where the intention is that they should end without notice on expiry of the agreed duration, they have a limited duration.
 - 3 Other leases are deemed to be of indefinite duration.

Art. 256

- D. Obligations of the landlord
- I. In general
- 1 The landlord or lessor is required to make the object available on the agreed date in a condition fit for its designated use and to maintain it in that condition.
 - 2 Clauses to the contrary to the detriment of the tenant or lessee are void if they are set out:
 - a. in previously formulated general terms and conditions;
 - b. in leases for residential or commercial premises.

Art. 256a

- II. Duty of disclosure
- 1 If a report was drawn up on the return of the object at the end of the previous lease, the landlord or lessor must on request make this document available for perusal by the new tenant or lessee when the object is handed over to him.
 - 2 Similarly, the new tenant or lessee has the right to be informed of the amount of rent paid under the previous lease.

Art. 256b

- III. Charges and taxes
- The landlord or lessor bears all taxes and charges in connection with the leased object.

Art. 257

- E. Obligations of the tenant or lessee
- I. Payment of rent and accessory charges
1. Rent
- The rent is the consideration owed by the tenant or lessee to the landlord or lessor for the transfer of the use of the object.

2. Accessory charges
a. In general

Art. 257a

¹ Accessory charges are the consideration due for services provided by the landlord or lessor or a third party in connection with the use of the property.

² They are payable by the tenant or lessee only where this has been specifically agreed with the landlord or lessor.

b. Residential and commercial premises

Art. 257b

¹ Accessory charges for residential and commercial premises are the actual outlays made by the landlord for services connected with the use of the property, such as heating, hot water and other operating costs, as well as public taxes arising from the use of the property.

² The landlord must allow the tenant on his request to inspect the documentation for such outlays.

3. Payment deadlines

Art. 257c

The tenant or lessee must pay the rent and, where applicable, the accessory charges at the end of each month and at the latest on expiry of the lease, unless otherwise agreed or required by local custom.

4. Tenant in arrears

Art. 257d

¹ Where, having accepted the property, the tenant or lessee is in arrears with payments of rent or accessory charges, the landlord or lessor may set a time limit for payment and notify him that in the event of non-payment the landlord or lessor will terminate the lease on expiry of that time limit. The minimum time limit is ten days, and 30 days for leases of residential or commercial premises.

² In the event of non-payment within the time limit the landlord or lessor may terminate the contract with immediate effect or, for leases of residential and commercial premises, subject to at least 30 days' notice ending on the last day of a calendar month.

II. Security furnished by the tenant

Art. 257e

¹ Where the tenant of residential or commercial premises furnishes security in the form of cash or negotiable securities, the landlord must deposit it in a bank savings or deposit account in the tenant's name.

² In residential leases, the landlord is not entitled to ask for more than three months' rent by way of security.

³ The bank may release such security only with the consent of both parties or in compliance with a final payment order or final decision of the court. On expiry of one year following the end of the lease, the tenant or lessee may request that the security be returned to him by the bank if no claim has been brought against him by the landlord or lessor.

⁴ The cantons may enact further provisions.

Art. 257f

III. Care and consideration

¹ The tenant or lessee must use the object with all due care.

² Where the lease relates to immovable property, the tenant must show due consideration for others who share the building and for neighbours.

³ If, despite written warning from the landlord or lessor, the tenant or lessee continues to act in breach of his duty of care and consideration such that continuation of the lease becomes unconscionable for the landlord or lessor or other persons sharing the building, the landlord or lessor may terminate the contract with immediate effect or, for leases of residential and commercial premises, subject to at least 30 days' notice ending on the last day of a calendar month.

⁴ However, leases of residential and commercial premises may be terminated with immediate effect if the tenant intentionally causes serious damage to the property.

Art. 257g

IV. Duty of notification

¹ On learning of defects which he himself is not obliged to remedy, the tenant or lessee must inform the landlord or lessor.

² Failure to notify renders the tenant or lessee liable for any damage incurred by the landlord or lessor as a result.

Art. 257h

V. Duty of tolerance

¹ The tenant or lessee must tolerate works intended to remedy defects in the object or to repair or prevent damage.

² The tenant or lessee must permit the landlord or lessor to inspect the object to the extent required for maintenance, sale or future leasing.

³ The landlord or lessor must inform the tenant or lessee of works and inspections in good time and take all due account of the latter's interests when they are carried out; all claims of the tenant or lessee for reduction of the rent (Art. 259d) and for damages (Art. 259e) are reserved.

Art. 258

F. Non-performance or defective performance when object handed over

¹ Where the landlord or lessor fails to hand over the property on the agreed date or hands it over with defects rendering it wholly or partly unfit for its designated use, the tenant or lessee may sue for non-performance of contractual obligations pursuant to Articles 107–109 above.

² Where the tenant or lessee accepts the object despite such defects but insists that the contract be duly performed, he may make only such claims as would have accrued to him had the defects arisen during the lease (Art. 259a–259i).

³ The tenant or lessee may bring the claims pursuant to Articles 259a–259i below even if, when handed over to him, the object has defects:

- a. which render the object less fit for its designated use, albeit not substantially so;
- b. which the tenant or lessee would have to remedy at his own expense during the lease (Art. 259).

Art. 259

G. Defects during the contract
I. Obligation of tenant to carry out minor cleaning and repairs

The tenant or lessee must remedy defects which can be dealt with by minor cleaning or repairs as part of regular maintenance and, depending on local custom, must do so at his own expense.

Art. 259a

II. Rights of the tenant
1. In general

¹ Where defects arise in the object which are not attributable to the tenant or lessee and which he is not obliged to remedy at his own expense, or where he is prevented from using the object as contractually agreed, he may require that the landlord or lessor:

- a. repair the object;
- b. reduce the rent proportionately;
- c. pay damages;
- d. assume responsibility for litigation against a third party.

² In addition, a tenant of immovable property may pay rent on deposit rather than to the landlord.

Art. 259b

2. Remedy of defects
a. General principle

Where the landlord is aware of a defect and fails to remedy it within a reasonable time, the tenant may:

- a. terminate the contract with immediate effect if the defect renders the leased property unfit or significantly less fit for its designated use or renders a chattel less fit for purpose;
- b. arrange for the defect to be remedied at the landlord's or lessor's expense if it renders the object less fit for its designated use, albeit not substantially so.

Art. 259c

- b. Exception The tenant or lessee is not entitled to rectification of the defect where the landlord or lessor provides full compensation for the defective object within a reasonable time.

Art. 259d

3. Reduction of rent Where the object is rendered unfit or less fit for its designated use, the tenant or lessee may require the landlord or lessor to reduce the rent proportionately from the time when the landlord or lessor became aware of the defect until the defect is remedied.

Art. 259e

4. Damages Where the defect has caused damage to the tenant or lessee, the landlord or lessor is liable in damages unless he can prove that he was not at fault.

Art. 259f

5. Assumption of litigation Where a third party claims a right over the object that is incompatible with the rights of the tenant or lessee, on notification by the latter the landlord or lessor is obliged to assume responsibility for the litigation.

Art. 259g

6. Deposit of rent
a. General principle
- 1 A tenant of immovable property requesting that a defect be remedied must, in writing, set the landlord a reasonable time limit within which to comply with such request and may warn him that, in the event of failure to comply, on expiry of the time limit the tenant will deposit his future rent payments with an office designated by the canton. He must notify the landlord in writing of his intention to pay rent on deposit.
- 2 Rent paid on deposit is deemed duly paid.

Art. 259h

- b. Release of deposited rent
- 1 The landlord becomes entitled to the rent paid on deposit if the tenant or lessee does not bring claims against him before the conciliation authority within 30 days of the due date for the first rent payment paid into deposit.
- 2 On being notified by the tenant that he intends to pay rent on deposit as it falls due, the landlord may apply to the conciliation authority for release of rent unjustly paid on deposit.

Art. 259⁹⁸

c. Procedure

The procedure is governed by the CPO⁹⁹.Art. 260H. Renovations and modificationsI. By the landlord

¹ The landlord or lessor may renovate or modify the object only where conscionable for the tenant or lessee and the lease has not been terminated.

² In carrying out such works, the landlord or lessor must give due consideration to the tenant or lessee's interests; all claims of the tenant or lessee for reduction of the rent (Art. 259*d*) and for damages (Art. 259*e*) are reserved.

Art. 260a

II. By the tenant

¹ The tenant or lessee may renovate or modify the object only with the written consent of the landlord or lessor.

² Once such consent has been given, the landlord or lessor may require the restoration of the object to its previous condition only if this has been agreed in writing.

³ Where at the end of the lease the object has appreciated significantly in value as a result of renovations or modifications to which the landlord or lessor consented, the tenant or lessee may claim appropriate compensation for such appreciation, subject to any written agreements providing for higher levels of compensation.

Art. 261J. Change of ownershipI. Alienation of the object

¹ Where after concluding the contract the landlord alienates the object or is dispossessed of it in debt collection or bankruptcy proceedings, the lease passes to the acquirer together with ownership of the object.

² However, the new owner may:

- a. serve notice to terminate a lease on residential or commercial premises as of the next legally admissible termination date if he claims an urgent need of such premises for himself, his close relatives or in-laws;
- b. serve notice to terminate a rental agreement in respect of other objects as of the next legally admissible termination date unless the contract allows for earlier termination.

⁹⁸ Amended by Annex 1 No II 5 of the Civil Procedure Code of 19 Dec. 2008, in force since 1 Jan. 2011 (AS 2010 1739; BBl 2006 7221).

³ If the new owner terminates sooner than is permitted under the contract with the existing landlord or lessor, the latter is liable for all resultant losses.

⁴ The provisions governing compulsory purchase are unaffected.

Art. 261a

II. Conferral of limited rights in rem

Where the landlord or lessor grants a third party a limited right in rem and this is tantamount to a change of ownership, the provisions governing alienation of the object apply mutatis mutandis.

Art. 261b

III. Entry under priority notice in the land register

¹ The parties to a lease may agree to have it entered under priority notice in the land register.

² The effect of such entry is that every future owner must allow the property to be used in accordance with the lease.

Art. 262

K. Sub-letting

¹ A tenant may sub-let all or part of the property with the landlord's consent.

² The landlord may refuse his consent only if:

- a. the tenant refuses to inform him of the terms of the sub-lease;
- b. the terms and conditions of the sub-lease are unfair in comparison with those of the principal lease;
- c. the sub-letting gives rise to major disadvantages for the landlord.

³ The tenant is liable to the landlord for ensuring that the sub-tenant uses the property only in the manner permitted to the tenant himself. To this end the landlord may issue reminders directly to the sub-tenant.

Art. 263

L. Transfer of lease to a third party

¹ The tenant of commercial premises may transfer his lease to a third party with the landlord's written consent.

² The landlord may withhold consent only for good cause.

³ Once the landlord gives his consent, the third party is subrogated to the rights and obligations of the tenant under the lease.

⁴ The tenant is released from his obligations towards the landlord. However, he remains jointly and severally liable with the third party until such time as the lease ends or may be terminated under the contract or by law, but in any event for no more than two years.

M. Early return of the object

Art. 264

¹ Where the tenant or lessee returns the object without observing the notice period or the deadline for termination, he is released from his obligations towards the landlord or lessor only if he proposes a new tenant or lessee who is acceptable to the landlord or lessor, solvent and willing to take on the lease or rental agreement under the same terms and conditions.

² Otherwise, the tenant or lessee must continue to pay the rent until such time as the lease ends or may be terminated under the contract or by law.

³ Against the rent owing to him, the landlord or lessor must permit account to be taken of:

- a. any expenses he has saved, and
- b. any earnings which he has obtained, or intentionally failed to obtain, from putting the object to some other use.

Art. 265

N. Set-off

The landlord or lessor and the tenant or lessee may not waive in advance their right to set off claims arising from the lease.

Art. 266

O. End of lease
I. Expiry of agreed duration

¹ Where the parties have expressly or tacitly agreed to a limited duration, the lease comes to an end on expiry thereof without any need for notice to be given.

² If the lease is tacitly continued, its duration becomes indefinite.

Art. 266a

II. Notice of termination and termination dates
1. In general

¹ The parties may give notice to terminate a lease of indefinite duration by observing the legally prescribed notice periods and termination dates, except where they have agreed a longer notice period or a different termination date.

² Where the prescribed notice period or termination date is not observed, termination will be effective as of the next termination date.

Art. 266b

2. Immovable and movable structures

A party may terminate a lease of chattels by giving three days' notice expiring at any time.

Art. 266gIII. Extraordinary notice
1. Good cause

1 Where performance of the contract becomes unconscionable for the parties for good cause, they may terminate the lease by giving the legally prescribed notice expiring at any time.

2 The court determines the financial consequences of early termination, taking due account of all the circumstances.

Art. 266h

2. Bankruptcy of the tenant or lessee

1 Where the tenant or lessee becomes bankrupt after taking possession of the property, the landlord or lessor may call for security for future rent payments. He must grant the tenant or lessee and the bankruptcy administrators an appropriate time limit in which to furnish it.

2 Where no such security is furnished to the landlord or lessor, he may terminate the contract with immediate effect.

Art. 266i

3. Death of the tenant or lessee

In the event of the death of the tenant or lessee, his heirs may terminate the contract by giving the legally prescribed notice expiring on the next admissible termination date.

Art. 266k

4. Chattels

Art. 266l

IV. Required form of notice for residential and commercial premises

1. In general

¹ Notice to terminate leases of residential and commercial premises must be given in writing.

² The landlord must give notice of termination using a form approved by the canton which informs the tenant how he must proceed if he wishes to contest the termination or apply for an extension of the lease.

Art. 266m

2. Family residence
a. Notice given by the tenant

¹ Where the leased property serves as the family residence, one spouse may not terminate the lease without the express consent of the other.

² If the spouse cannot obtain such consent or it is withheld without good cause, he or she may apply to the court.

³ The same provisions apply mutatis mutandis to registered partners.¹⁰⁰

Art. 266n¹⁰¹

b. Notice given by the landlord

Notice of termination given by the landlord and any notification of a time limit for payment accompanied by a warning of termination in the event of non-payment (Art. 257d) must be served separately on the tenant and on his spouse or registered partner.

Art. 266o

3. Void notice

Notice of termination is void if it does not conform to Articles 266l–266n.

Art. 267

P. Return of the object
I. In general

¹ At the end of the lease, the tenant or lessee must return the object in a condition that accords with its contractually designated use.

² Any clause whereby the tenant or lessee undertakes to pay compensation on termination of the lease is void except insofar as such compensation relates to possible damage.

¹⁰⁰ Inserted by Annex No 11 to the Same-Sex Partnership Act of 18 June 2004, in force since 1 Jan. 2007 (AS 2005 5685; BBl 2003 1288).

1 When the object is returned, the landlord or lessor must inspect its condition and immediately inform the tenant or lessee of any defects for which he is answerable.

2 If the landlord or lessor fails to do so, he forfeits his claims save in respect of defects not detectable on customary inspection.

3 Where the landlord or lessor discovers such defects subsequently, he must inform the tenant or lessee immediately.

Art. 268

Q. Landlord's special lien
I. Scope

1 As security for rent for the past year and the current six-month period, a landlord of commercial premises has a special lien on chattels located on the leased premises and either used as fixtures or required for the use of the premises.

2 The landlord's special lien also extends to property brought onto the premises by a sub-tenant to the extent that he has not paid his rent.

3 Goods not subject to attachment by creditors of the tenant are not subject to the lien.

Art. 268a

II. Objects belonging to third parties

1 The rights of third parties to objects which the landlord knew or should have known do not belong to the tenant and to stolen, lost, missing or otherwise mislaid objects take precedence over the landlord's special lien.

2 Where the landlord learns only during the lease that objects brought onto the premises by the tenant are not the latter's property, his lien on them is extinguished unless he terminates the lease as of the next admissible termination date.

Art. 268b

III. Exercise of lien

1 Where the tenant wishes to vacate the premises or intends to remove the objects located thereon, the landlord may, with the assistance of the competent authority, retain such objects as are required to secure his claim.

2 Items removed secretly or by force may, with police assistance, be brought back onto the premises within ten days of their removal.

Section Two:
Protection against Unfair Rents or other Unfair Claims by the Landlord in Respect of Leases of Residential and Commercial Premises

Art. 269

A. Unfair rent
I. General rule

Rents are unfair where they permit the landlord to derive excessive income from the leased property or where they are based on a clearly excessive sale price.

Art. 269a

II. Exceptions

In particular, rents are not generally held to be unfair if:

- a. they fall within the range of rents customary in the locality or district;
- b. they are justified by increases in costs or by additional services provided by the landlord;
- c. in the case of a recently constructed property, they do not exceed the range of gross pre-tax yield required to cover costs;
- d. they serve merely to balance out a rent decrease previously granted as part of a reallocation of funding costs at prevailing market rates and they are set out in a payment plan made known to the tenant in advance;
- e. they serve merely to balance out the inflation on the risk capital;
- f. they do not exceed the levels recommended in master agreements drawn up by landlords' and tenants' associations or organisations representing similar interests.

Art. 269b

B. Index-linked rent

An agreement to link rent to an index is valid only where the lease is contracted for at least five years and the benchmark is the Swiss consumer prices index.

Art. 269c

C. Periodical rent increases

An agreement to increase the rent periodically by fixed amounts is valid only where:

- a. the lease is contracted for at least three years;
- b. the rent is increased no more than once a year; and
- c. the amount by which it is increased is fixed in francs.

Art. 269d

D. Rent increases and other unilateral amendments by the landlord

¹ The landlord may at any time increase the rent with effect from the next termination date. He must give notice of and reasons for the rent increase at least ten days before the beginning of the notice period for termination using a form approved by the canton.

² The rent increase is void where:

- a. it is not communicated using the prescribed form;
- b. no reasons are given;
- c. notification of the increase is accompanied by notice to terminate or a threat of termination.

³ Paragraphs 1 and 2 also apply where the landlord intends to make other unilateral amendments to the lease to the detriment of the tenant, for example by reducing the services provided or adding new accessory charges.

Art. 270

E. Challenge to rent
I. Request for rent reduction
1. Initial rent

¹ Within 30 days of taking possession of the property, the tenant may challenge the initial rent as unfair within the meaning of Articles 269 and 269a before the conciliation authority and request said authority to order a reduction of the rent:

- a. if the tenant felt compelled to conclude the lease agreement on account of personal or family hardship or by reason of the conditions prevailing on the local market for residential and commercial premises; or
- b. if the initial rent required by the landlord is significantly higher than the previous rent for the same property.

² In the event of a housing shortage, the cantons may make it obligatory in all or part of their territory to use the form stipulated in Article 269d when contracting any new lease.

Art. 270a

2. During the lease

¹ The tenant may challenge the rent as unfair and request its reduction as of the next termination date where he has good cause to suppose that, because of significant changes to the calculation basis and most notably a reduction in costs, the return derived by the landlord from the leased property is now excessive within the meaning of Articles 269 and 269a.

² The tenant must present his request for a rent reduction in writing to the landlord, who has 30 days in which to respond. Where the landlord does not accede to the request in full or in part or does not respond in good time, the tenant may apply to the conciliation authority within 30 days.

³ Paragraph 2 does not apply if the tenant is simultaneously challenging a rent increase and requesting a rent reduction.

Art. 270b

II. Challenging rent increases and other unilateral amendments by the landlord

¹ Within 30 days of receiving notice of a rent increase, the tenant may challenge it before the conciliation authority as unfair within the meaning of Articles 269 and 269a.

² Paragraph 1 also applies where the landlord makes other unilateral amendments to the lease to the detriment of the tenant, in particular by reducing the services provided or adding new accessory charges.

Art. 270c

III. Challenging index-linked rent

Without prejudice to the right to challenge the initial rent, a party may argue before the conciliation authority only that the rent increase or reduction requested by the other party is not justified by a corresponding change in the index.

Art. 270d

IV. Challenging periodical rent increases

Without prejudice to the right to challenge the initial rent, the tenant may not challenge periodical rent increases.

Art. 270e

F. Continued validity of lease during challenge proceedings

The existing lease remains in force without change:

- a. during conciliation proceedings, where the parties fail to reach agreement;
- b. during court proceedings, subject to provisional measures ordered by the court.

Section Three: Protection against Termination of Leases of Residential and Commercial Premises

Art. 271

A. Notice open to challenge
I. In general

¹ Notice of termination may be challenged where it contravenes the principle of good faith.

² On request, reasons for giving notice must be stated.

Art. 271a

II. Notice served by the landlord

¹ Notice of termination served by the landlord may be challenged in particular where it is given:

- a. because the tenant is asserting claims arising under the lease in good faith;
- b. because the landlord wishes to impose a unilateral amendment of the lease to the tenant's detriment or to change the rent;
- c. for the sole purpose of inducing the tenant to purchase the leased premises;
- d. during conciliation or court proceedings in connection with the lease, unless the tenant initiated such proceedings in bad faith;
- e. within three years of the conclusion of conciliation or court proceedings in connection with the lease in which the landlord:
 1. was largely unsuccessful,
 2. withdrew or considerably reduced his claim or action,
 3. declined to bring the matter before the court,
 4. reached a settlement or some other compromise with the tenant;
- f. because of changes in the tenant's family circumstances which do not give rise to any significant disadvantage to the landlord.

² Paragraph 1 let. e. is also applicable where the tenant can produce documents showing that he reached a settlement with the landlord concerning a claim in connection with the lease outside conciliation or court proceedings.

³ Paragraph 1 let. d. and e. are not applicable where notice of termination is given:

- a. because the landlord urgently needs the property for his own use or that of family members or in-laws;
- b. because the tenant is in default on his payments (Art. 257*d*);
- c. because the tenant is in serious breach of his duty of care and consideration (Art. 257*f* para. 3 and 4);
- d. as a result of alienation of the leased premises (Art. 261);
- e. for good cause (Art. 266*g*);
- f. because the tenant is bankrupt (Art. 266*h*).

Art. 272

B. Extension of the lease
I. Tenant's entitlement

¹ The tenant may request the extension of a fixed-term or open-ended lease where termination of the lease would cause a degree of hardship for him or his family that cannot be justified by the interests of the landlord.

² When weighing the respective interests, the competent authority has particular regard to:

- a. the circumstances in which the lease was contracted and the terms of the lease;
- b. the duration of the lease;
- c. the personal, family and financial circumstances of the parties, as well as their conduct;
- d. any need that the landlord might have to use the premises for himself, his family members or his in-laws and the urgency of such need;
- e. the conditions prevailing on the local market for residential and commercial premises.

³ Where the tenant requests a second extension, the competent authority must also consider whether the tenant has done everything that might reasonably be expected of him to mitigate the hardship caused by the notice of termination.

Art. 272a

II. Exclusion of extension

¹ No extension is granted where notice of termination is given:

- a. because the tenant is in default on his payments (Art. 257d);
- b. because the tenant is in serious breach of his duty of care and consideration (Art. 257f para. 3 and 4);
- c. because the tenant is bankrupt (Art. 266h);
- d. in respect of a lease expressly concluded for a limited period until refurbishment or demolition works begin or the requisite planning permission is obtained.

² As a general rule, no extension is granted where the landlord offers the tenant equivalent residential or commercial premises.

Art. 272b

III. Length of extension

¹ A lease may be extended by up to four years in the case of residential premises and by up to six years for commercial premises. Within these overall limits, one or two extensions may be granted.

² Where the parties agree to an extension of the lease, they are not bound by a maximum duration and the tenant may waive a second extension.

Art. 272c

IV. Continued validity of lease

¹ Either party may ask the court to modify the lease in line with changed circumstances when deciding on the lease extension.

² Where the lease is not varied in the decision on the lease extension, it remains in force during the extension period, subject to other means of variation envisaged by law.

Art. 272d

V. Notice given during extension

Unless the decision on extension or the extension agreement stipulates otherwise, the tenant may terminate the lease:

- a. by giving one month's notice expiring at the end of a calendar month in cases where the extension does not exceed one year;
- b. by giving three months' notice expiring on an admissible termination date in cases where the extension exceeds one year.

Art. 273C. Time limits and procedure¹⁰²

¹ A party wishing to challenge termination must bring the matter before the conciliation authority within 30 days of receiving the notice of termination.

² A tenant wishing to apply for a lease extension must submit his request to the conciliation authority:

- a. within 30 days of receiving the notice of termination, where the lease is open-ended;
- b. not later than 60 days before expiry of the lease, where it is of limited duration.

³ A tenant requesting a second extension must submit his request to the conciliation authority not later than 60 days before expiry of the first extension.

⁴ The procedure before the conciliation authority is governed by the CPO^{103,104}

² However, leases of residential and commercial premises may be terminated with immediate effect if the tenant intentionally causes serious damage to the property.

Art. 286

² Once such consent has been given, the lessor may require the restoration of the object to its previous condition only if this has been agreed in writing.

the lessor, solvent and willing to take on the lease on the same terms and conditions.

³ Against the rent owing to him the lessor must permit the following to be brought into account:

² If the usufructuary lease is tacitly continued, it is deemed to have been extended on the same terms and conditions for a further year unless otherwise agreed.

³ A party may terminate the extended usufructuary lease by giving the legally prescribed period of notice expiring at the end of a lease year.

Art. 296

II. Notice of termination and termination dates

¹ The parties may terminate an open-ended usufructuary lease by giving six months' notice expiring on any date of their choosing unless otherwise stipulated by agreement or local custom and unless the nature of the leased object implies that the parties intended otherwise.

² The parties may terminate an open-ended usufructuary lease of residential or commercial premises by giving at least six months' notice expiring on a date fixed by local custom or, absent in the absence of such custom, at the end of a three-month lease period. The parties may agree a longer notice period or another termination date.

³ Where the prescribed notice period or termination date is not observed, termination will be effective as of the next termination date.

Art. 297

III. Extraordinary notice
1. Good cause

¹ Where performance of the contract becomes unconscionable for the parties for good cause, they may terminate the usufructuary lease by giving the legally prescribed notice expiring at any time.

² The court determines the financial consequences of early termination, taking due account of all the circumstances.

Art. 297a

2. Bankruptcy of the lessee

¹ Where the lessee becomes bankrupt after taking possession of the property, the lease ends on commencement of bankruptcy proceedings.

² However, where the lessor has received sufficient security for the current year's rent and the inventory, he must continue the lease until the end of the lease year.

3. Death of the lessee

In the event of the death of the lessee, his heirs and the lessor may terminate the contract by giving the legally prescribed notice expiring on the next admissible termination date.

Art. 298

IV. Required form of notice for residential and commercial premises

¹ Notice to terminate usufructuary leases of residential or commercial premises must be given in writing.

² The lessor must give notice of termination using a form approved by the canton which informs the lessee how he must proceed if he wishes to contest the termination or apply for an extension of the lease.

³ Notice to terminate is void if it does not fulfil the above requirements.

Art. 299

N. Return of the object

¹ At the end of the usufructuary lease, the lessee must return the object together with all items listed in the inventory in the condition they are in at that time.

² He is entitled to compensation for improvements which result:

- a. from endeavours exceeding the normal degree of diligence due in managing the object;
- b. for renovations or modifications to which the lessor gave his written consent.

³ He must compensate the lessor for any deterioration that could have been prevented by diligent management of the object.

⁴ Any agreement whereby the lessee undertakes to pay compensation on termination of the lease is void except insofar as such compensation relates to possible damage.

Art. 299a

II. Inspection of object and notification of lessee

- 1 When the object is returned, the lessor must inspect its condition and immediately inform the lessee of any defects for which he is answerable.
- 2 If the lessor fails to do so, he forfeits his claims save in respect of defects not detectable on customary inspection.
- 3 Where the lessor discovers such defects subsequently, he must inform the lessee immediately.

Art. 299b

III. Replacement of inventory items

- 1 Where items listed in the inventory were valued when the object was originally handed over to the lessee, he must return an inventory of items of the same type and estimated value or pay compensation for any reduction in value.
- 2 The lessee is not obliged to pay compensation for missing items if he can prove that they were lost through the fault of the lessor or force majeure.
- 3 The lessee is entitled to compensation for added value resulting from his outlays and his labour.

Art. 299c

Art. 303

II. Liability

¹ Unless otherwise provided by agreement or local custom, the tenant farmer is liable for damage to the leased livestock unless he can prove that such damage could not have been avoided even with all due care and attention.

³ The tenant farmer must inform the lessor as soon as possible of serious accidents or illness.

Art. 304

III. Liability of joint borrowers

Persons who have jointly borrowed a single object are jointly and severally liable for it.

² The lender is entitled to reclaim the object before that time if the borrower uses it for a purpose contrary to the agreement, if he damages it, if he permits a third party to use it or if unforeseen developments occur which leave the lender in urgent need of the object.

Art. 310

Where the contract stipulates neither the purpose nor the duration of the loan, the lender may reclaim the loaned object whenever he sees fit.

² Unless otherwise agreed, the promised interest is payable annually.

² Any agreement to the contrary is void.

Art. 318

D. Timing of repayment

Title Ten:¹¹³ The Employment Contract

Section One: The Individual Employment Contract

Art. 319

A. Definition and conclusion

² A contract whereby an employee undertakes to work regularly in the employer's service by hours, half-days or days (part-time work) is likewise deemed to be an individual employment contract.

Art. 320

II. Creation

¹ Except where the law provides otherwise, the individual employment contract is not subject to any specific formal requirement.

² It is deemed to have been concluded where the employer accepts the performance of work over a certain period in his service which in the circumstances could reasonably be expected only in exchange for salary.

³ Where an employee performs work in good faith for the employer under a contract which is subsequently found to be invalid, both parties must discharge their obligations under the employment relationship as if the contract had been valid until such time as one party terminates the relationship on grounds of the invalidity of the contract.

Art. 321

B. Obligations of the employee
I. Duty to work in person

The employee must carry out the contractually assumed tasks in person, unless otherwise required by agreement or the circumstances.

¹¹³ Amended by No I of the FA of 25 June 1971, in force since 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Transitional and Final Provisions of Title X Art. 7 at the end of this Code.

⁴ For the duration of the employment relationship the employee must not exploit or reveal confidential information obtained while in the employer's service, such as manufacturing or trade secrets; he remains bound by such duty of confidentiality even after the end of the employment relationship to the extent required to safeguard the employer's legitimate interests.

Art. 321b

III. Disclosure and hand-over of benefits received and work produced

¹ The employee is accountable to his employer for everything, and in particular sums of money, he receives from third parties in the performance of his contractual activities and must hand it over to the employer immediately.

² He must likewise immediately hand over to the employer all work produced in the course of his contractual activities.

Art. 321c

IV. Overtime

¹ If more hours of work are required than envisaged under the employment contract or provided for by custom, standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the employee is obliged to perform such overtime to the extent that he is able and may conscientiously be expected to do so.

² In consultation with the employee, the employer may compensate him within an appropriate period for the overtime worked by granting him time off in lieu of at least equal length.

³ Where the overtime is not compensated by time off in lieu and unless otherwise agreed in writing or under a standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the employer must compensate the employee for the overtime worked by paying him his normal salary and a supplement of at least one-quarter thereof.

Art. 321d

V. Compliance with general directives and instructions

¹ The employer is entitled to issue general directives and specific instructions regarding the performance of the work and the conduct of employees in his business or household.

Art. 321e

VI. Employee's liability

1 The employee is liable for any damage he causes to the employer whether wilfully or by negligence.

2 The extent of the duty of care owed by the employee is determined by the individual employment contract, taking due account of the occupational risk, level of training and technical knowledge associated with the work as well as the employee's aptitudes and skills of which the employer was or should have been aware.

Art. 322C. Obligations of the employer
I. Salary

1. Type and amount in general

1 The employer must pay the agreed or customary salary or the salary that is fixed by standard employment contract or collective employment contract.

2 Where the employee lives in the employer's household, his board and lodgings are part of the salary unless agreement or custom provide otherwise.

Art. 322a

2. Share in the business results

1 Where the employee is by contract entitled to a share in the profits, the turnover or the results of the business expressed in some other manner, such share is calculated on the basis of the results for the financial year as defined by statutory provision and generally recognised commercial principles.

2 The employer must furnish all the necessary information to the employee or, in his stead, to an expert designated by both employer and employee or appointed by the court and must grant the employee or the expert such access to the accounts as is required for verification of the business results.

3 In addition, where a share in the profits of the business has been agreed, a copy of the profit and loss account must be made available to the employee on request.¹¹⁴

Art. 322b3. Commission
a. Entitlement

1 Where the employee is by contract entitled to commission on particular transactions, his entitlement is established as soon as the transaction with the third party enters into force.

2 In the case of transactions involving performance in instalments and insurance policies, it may be agreed in writing that such entitlement arises as each instalment falls due or is performed.

¹¹⁴ Amended by No I 3 of the FA of 23 Dec. 2011 (Financial Reporting Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2012 6679; BBl 2008 1589).

³ The entitlement to commission lapses subsequently if through no fault of his the employer fails to carry out the transaction or the third party fails to fulfil his obligations; in the event of only partial performance, the commission is reduced proportionately.

Art. 322c

b. Statement

¹ Where the terms of the contract do not require the employee to draw up a statement of commission due to him, on each date on which commission falls due, the employer must provide him with a written statement including a breakdown of the transactions on which it is payable.

² The employer must furnish all the necessary information to the employee or, in his stead, to an expert designated by both employer and employee or appointed by the court, and must grant the employee or the expert such access to the books of account or supporting documents as is required for verification of the commission statement.

Art. 322d

4. Bonuses

¹ Where the employer pays a bonus over and above the salary on particular occasions, such as at Christmas or the end of the financial year, the employee is entitled to such bonus where it is contractually stipulated.

² If the employment relationship ends prior to the occasion on which the bonus is paid, the employee is entitled to a pro rata bonus where the contract so provides.

Art. 323

II. Payment of salary

1. Payment terms and periods

¹ Unless shorter periods or other payment terms have been agreed or are customary and unless otherwise provided by standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the salary is paid to the employee at the end of each month.

² Unless a shorter payment period has been agreed or is customary, commission is paid at the end of each month; however, where execution of a transaction takes more than half a year, the due date of the commission payable on it may be deferred by written agreement.

⁴ If an employee is in hardship and requests an advance against salary due for work already performed, the employer must advance such sum as may reasonably be expected of him.

Art. 323a

2. Withholding of salary

¹ To the extent provided for by individual agreement, custom, standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the employer may withhold part of the salary.

² The amount withheld on any given payment date must not exceed one-tenth of the salary due and the cumulative amount withheld must not exceed the salary due for one week's work; however, a higher amount may be withheld under the terms of a standard employment contract or collective employment contract.

³ Unless otherwise provided by individual agreement, custom, standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the salary withheld is deemed to be security for the employer's claims arising from the employment relationship rather than a contractual penalty.

Art. 323b

3. Salary protection

¹ Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, the salary must be paid to the employee in legal tender during working hours; a written salary statement must be provided to the employee.

² Where the employer holds claims against the employee, he may set them off against the employee's salary claim only to the extent that such salary claim is subject to attachment, although claims for compensation of intentional damage may be set off without restriction.

³ Any agreement whereby the salary must be used for the employer's benefit is void.

Art. 324

III. Salary in the event work is not possible

1. Failure by employer to accept performance

¹ Where the employer is at fault in preventing performance of the work or fails to accept its performance for other reasons, he remains obliged to pay the salary but the employee is not obliged to make up the time thus lost.

² The salary payable in this event is reduced by any amounts that the employee saved as a result of being prevented from working or that he earned by performing other work or would have earned had he not intentionally foregone such work.

Art. 324a

2. Employee prevented from working
a. General principle

¹ Where the employee is prevented from working by personal circumstances for which he is not at fault, such as illness, accident, legal obligations or public duties, the employer must pay him his salary for a limited time, including fair compensation for lost benefits in kind, provided the employment relationship has lasted or was concluded for longer than three months.

³ The employer has the same obligation in the event that an employee becomes pregnant.¹¹⁵

⁴ A written agreement, standard employment contract or collective employment contract may derogate from the above provisions provided it gives the employee terms of at least equivalent benefit.

Art. 324b

b. Exceptions

¹ If the employee has compulsory insurance prescribed by law against the financial consequences of being prevented from working by personal circumstances for which he is not at fault, the employer is not obliged to pay his salary where the insurance benefits for that limited period cover at least four-fifths of the salary income lost over that period.

² Where the insurance benefits are less, the employer must pay the difference between them and four-fifths of the salary.

³ Where the insurance benefits are paid only after a waiting period, the employer must pay at least four-fifths of the salary during that period.¹¹⁶

Art. 325¹¹⁷

IV. Assignment and pledge of salary claims

¹ The employee may assign or pledge his future salary claims as security for maintenance or support obligations under family law only to the extent that such claims are subject to attachment; at the request of an interested party the debt collection office at the employee's domicile determines the amount that is not subject to attachment in accordance with Article 93 of the Federal Act of 11 April 1889¹¹⁸ on Debt Collection and Bankruptcy.

² Any assignment or pledge of future salary claims as security for other obligations is void.

3 If the rate of pay for such time work is not fixed by individual agreement, standard employment contract or collective employment contract, the employer must pay the employee the average salary he previously earned on a piece work basis.

3 Any agreement whereby the employee must bear all or part of such necessary expenses is void.

In particular, he must ensure that employees are not sexually harassed and that any victim of sexual harassment suffers no further adverse consequences.¹²⁰
- ² In order to safeguard the personal safety, health and integrity of his employees he must take all measures that are shown by experience to be necessary, that are feasible using the latest technology and that are appropriate to the particular circumstances of the workplace or the household, provided such measures may reasonably be expected of him in the light of each specific employment relationship and the nature of the work.^{121 122}

⁶ Where married persons divorce before the benefits fall due, the early withdrawal is deemed a transferable benefit and is divided in accordance with Article 123 of the Civil Code¹⁶³, Articles 280 and 281 CPO¹⁶⁴ and Articles 22–22b of the Vested Benefits Act of 17 December 1993¹⁶⁵. The same applies in the event of judicial dissolution of a registered partnership.¹⁶⁶

¹⁶² Amended by Annex No 1 of the FA of 19 June 2015 (Pension Equality on Divorce), in force since 1 Jan. 2017 (AS 2016 2313; BBl 2013 4887).

⁷ If the early withdrawal or pledge of entitlements jeopardises the liquidity of the benefits scheme, the fund may defer execution of the requests concerned. The benefits scheme must lay down in its regulations the order of priority in which early withdrawals or pledges of entitlements will be deferred in such an event. The Federal Council regulates the details.

⁸ In other respects Articles 30*d*, 30*e*, 30*g* and Article 83*a* of the Federal Act of 25 June 1982¹⁶⁷ on Occupational Old Age, Survivors' and Invalidity Pension Provision are applicable.¹⁶⁸

Art. 331^{f169}

3. Restrictions if the benefits scheme has a cover deficit

¹ The benefits scheme may provide in its regulations that the pledges of assignments, early withdrawals and repayments may be subject to time or volume restrictions or even refused while the fund has a cover deficit.

² The Federal Council determines the conditions under which the restrictions stipulated in paragraph 1 are permissible and the scope thereof.

Art. 332¹⁷⁰

E. Right to inventions and designs

¹ Inventions and designs produced by the employee alone or in collaboration with others in the course of his work for the employer and in performance of his contractual obligations belong to the employer, whether or not they may be protected.

² By written agreement, the employer may reserve the right to acquire inventions and designs produced by the employee in the course of his work for the employer but not in performance of his contractual obligations.

³ An employee who produces an invention or design covered by paragraph 2 must notify the employer thereof in writing; the employer must inform the employee within six months if he wishes to acquire the invention or design or release it to the employee.

⁴ Where it is not released to the employee, the employer must pay him separate, appropriate remuneration to be determined with due regard to all pertinent circumstances and in particular the economic value of the invention or design, the degree to which the employer contributed, any reliance on other staff and on the employer's facilities, the expenses incurred by the employee and his position in the company.

employment re-

^{1bis} Where the transferred relationship is governed by a collective employment contract, the acquirer is obliged to abide by it for one year unless it expires or is terminated sooner.¹⁷⁴

² In the event that the employee refuses the transfer, the employment relationship ends on expiry of the statutory notice period; until then, the acquirer and the employee are obliged to perform the contract.

³ The former employer and the acquirer are jointly and severally liable for any claims of an employee which fell due prior to the transfer or which fall due between that juncture and the date on which the employment relationship could normally be terminated or is terminated following refusal of the transfer.

⁴ Moreover, the employer may not transfer the rights arising from an employment relationship to a third party unless otherwise agreed or dictated by the circumstances.

Art. 333a¹⁷⁵

2. Consultation

- a. the reason for the transfer;
- b. its legal, economic and social consequences for the employees.

² Where measures affecting the employees are envisaged as a result of such transfer, the organisation that represents the employees or, where there is none, the employees themselves must be consulted in good time before the relevant decisions are taken.

 1. Maturity of claims

- ¹ When the employment relationship ends, all claims arising therefrom fall due.
² In the case of claims for commission on transactions performed partly or entirely after the end of the employment relationship, the due date may be deferred by written agreement, albeit generally for no more than six months, or for no more than one year in the case of transactions involving performance in instalments, and for no more than two years in the case of insurance policies and transactions whose execution takes more than half a year.
³ The claim for a share of the business results becomes due in accordance with Article 323 paragraph 3.

Art. 339a

2. Return

- ¹ By the time the employment relationship ends, each contracting party must return to the other everything received from him or from third parties for his account during the employment relationship.
² In particular, the employee must return motor vehicles and travel tickets and repay advances against salary and expenses to the extent that they exceed his claims.
³ The contracting parties' rights of lien are unaffected.

²¹¹ Amended by Annex No 11 to the Same-Sex Partnership Act of 18 June 2004, in force since 1 Jan. 2007 (AS 2005 5685; BBl 2003 1288).

Art. 339b

3. Severance allowance
a. Requirements

¹ Where an employment relationship with an employee of at least 50 years of age comes to an end after twenty years or more of service, the employer must pay the employee a severance allowance.

² If the employee dies during the employment relationship, such allowance is paid to the surviving spouse, registered partner or children who are minors or, in the absence of such heirs, other persons to whom he had a duty to provide support.²¹²

Art. 339c

b. Amount and due date

¹ The amount of the severance allowance may be fixed by written individual agreement, standard employment contract or collective employment contract but may never be less than two months' salary for the employee.

² Where the amount of the severance allowance is not fixed, the court has discretion to determine it taking due account of all the circumstances, although it must not exceed the equivalent of eight months' salary for the employee.

³ The severance allowance may be reduced or dispensed with if the employee has terminated the employment relationship without good cause or the employer himself has terminated it with immediate effect for good cause or where the payment of such allowance would inflict financial hardship on him.

⁴ The severance allowance is due on termination of the employment relationship, but the due date may be deferred by written individual agreement, standard employment contract or collective employment contract or by court order.

Art. 339d

c. Benefits in lieu of allowance

¹ Where the employee receives benefits from an occupational benefits scheme, these may be deducted from the severance allowance to the extent that they were funded by the employer either directly or through his contributions to the occupational benefits scheme.²¹³

² The employer is likewise released from his obligation to make a severance allowance to the extent that he gives a binding commitment to make future benefits contributions on the employee's behalf or has a third party give such a commitment.

²¹² Amended by Annex No 11 to the Same-Sex Partnership Act of 18 June 2004, in force since 1 Jan. 2007 (AS 2005 5685; BBl 2003 1288).

²¹³ Amended by Annex No 2 to the FA of 25 June 1982 on Occupational Old Age, Survivors' and Invalidity Pension Provision, in force since 1 Jan. 1985 (AS 1983 797 827 Art. 1 Abs. 1; BBl 1976 I 149).

Art. 340VII. Prohibition of competition
1. Requirements

¹ An employee with capacity to act may give the employer a written undertaking to refrain from engaging in any activity that competes with the employer once the employment relationship has ended and in particular to refrain from running a rival business for his own account or from working for or participating in such a business.

² The prohibition of competition is binding only where the employment relationship allows the employee to have knowledge of the employer's clientele or manufacturing and trade secrets and where the use of such knowledge might cause the employer substantial harm.

Art. 340a

2. Restrictions

¹ The prohibition must be appropriately restricted with regard to place, time and scope such that it does not unfairly compromise the employee's future economic activity; it may exceed three years only in special circumstances.

² The court may at its discretion impose restrictions on an excessive prohibition of competition, taking due account of all the circumstances; in particular it will have due regard to any consideration made by the employer.

Art. 340b3. Consequences of infringement

¹ An employee who infringes the prohibition of competition must provide compensation for the resultant damage to the employer.

² Where an employee who infringes the prohibition is liable to pay a contractual penalty, unless otherwise agreed he may exempt himself from the prohibition by paying it; however, he remains liable in damages for any further damage.

³ Where expressly so agreed in writing, in addition to the agreed contractual penalty and any further damages, the employer may insist that the situation that breaches the contract be rectified to the extent justified by the injury or threat to the employer's interests and by the conduct of the employee.

Art. 340c

4. Extinction

¹ The prohibition of competition is extinguished once the employer demonstrably no longer has a substantial interest in its continuation.

² The prohibition is likewise extinguished if the employer terminates the employment relationship without the employee having given him any good cause to do so, or if the employee terminates it for good cause attributable to the employer.

Art. 341

H. No right of waiver and prescription

¹ For the period of the employment relationship and for one month after its end, the employee may not waive claims arising from mandatory provisions of law or the mandatory provisions of a collective employment contract.

² General provisions governing prescriptive periods are applicable to claims under the employment relationship.

Art. 342

I. Reservation of public law and effects under civil law

- a.²¹⁴ the provisions of the Confederation, cantons and communes regarding employment relationships under public law, except in respect of Article 331 paragraph 5 and Articles 331a–331e;
- b. the public law provisions of the Confederation and the cantons governing work and vocational training.

² Where federal or cantonal provisions governing work and vocational training impose an obligation under public law on the employer or employee, the other party has a claim under civil law for performance of said obligation if it is susceptible to inclusion in the individual employment contract.

³ While the apprentice is still under the age of 20, the employer must grant him a holiday entitlement of at least five weeks per year of apprenticeship.

⁴ He may allocate work outside the relevant vocational field and piece work to the apprentice only insofar as such work is related to the vocation in which the apprentice is being instructed and the training is not thereby impaired.

Art. 346

III. Termination

1. Early termination

² The apprenticeship relationship may be terminated with immediate effect for good cause within the meaning of Article 337, and in particular where:

² Any employee who is not primarily engaged in itinerant activities or who works only occasionally or temporarily for the employer or who acts as a travelling salesman for his own account is not considered a commercial traveller.

Art. 347a

2. Conclusion and content

¹ The employment relationship is defined by written contract which stipulates in particular:

- a. the duration and termination of the employment relationship;
- b. the commercial traveller's authority;
- c. the remuneration and reimbursement of expenses;

d. the applicable law and the forum, where one of the parties is resident abroad.

² In the absence of a written contract, the matters specified in the previous paragraph are determined by statutory provision and customary working conditions.

³ An oral agreement is valid only with regard to the commencement of service, the nature and location of the commercial travel and other terms that do not contradict the statutory provisions or the written contract.

Art. 348

II. Obligations and authority of the commercial traveller
1. Special obligations

¹ The commercial traveller must visit the clients in the prescribed manner unless there is just cause to vary it; he may neither broker nor conclude transactions on his own behalf or on behalf of a third party without the written consent of the employer.

² Where the commercial traveller is authorised to conclude transactions, he must comply with the prescribed prices and other terms and conditions and must declare that any changes thereto are subject to approval by the employer.

Art. 348a

2. Del credere

¹ Any agreement whereby the commercial traveller is made liable for the client's payment or any other type of performance of the client's obligations or for all or part of the recovery costs is void.

³ In the case of insurance policies the travelling insurance broker may by means of a written undertaking assume liability for at most one-half of the recovery costs where a single-payment premium or premium instalments are not paid and he seeks their recovery by way of legal action or compulsory execution.

Art. 348b

3. Authority

¹ Unless otherwise agreed in writing, a commercial traveller only has authority to broker transactions.

² Where the commercial traveller is authorised to conclude transactions, his powers extend to all legal procedures normally associated with their execution; however, without special authority he may not take receipt of payments from clients nor approve payment periods.

³ Article 34 of the Federal Act of 2 April 1908²¹⁷ on Insurance Policies is reserved.

Art. 349

III. Special obligations of the employer

1. Area of activity

¹ Where a particular area or clientele is allocated to the commercial traveller, it is deemed to have been allocated to him exclusively unless otherwise agreed in writing; however, the employer remains authorised to enter into transactions personally within the area or clientele allocated to the commercial traveller.

² The employer may unilaterally vary the contractually stipulated area or clientele where legitimate reasons require such variation before expiry of the notice to terminate the contract; however, where this is the case, the commercial traveller is entitled to compensation and has good cause for termination of the employment relationship.

Art. 349a

2. Salary
a. In general

¹ The employer must pay the commercial traveller a salary consisting of a fixed salary component with or without commission.

² A written agreement whereby the salary consists exclusively or principally of commission is valid only if such commission gives appropriate remuneration for the services of the commercial traveller.

³ The salary may be freely determined by written agreement for a probation period of no more than two months.

Art. 349b

b. Commission

¹ Where an area or clientele is allocated exclusively to a commercial traveller, the agreed or customary commission is payable to him on all transactions concluded by him or his employer within such area or clientele.

² If a particular area or clientele has not been allocated exclusively to him, the commercial traveller is entitled to commission only on transactions that he personally brokered or concluded.

³ Where it is not yet possible to calculate the precise value of a transaction when the commission falls due, the initial commission payable is based on the minimum value calculated by the employer, with the balance falling due at the latest when the transaction is executed.

Art. 349c

c. Prevention from travelling

¹ Where the commercial traveller through no fault of his own is prevented from travelling and his salary must nonetheless be paid to him by law or by contract, it is calculated on the basis of the fixed salary component plus appropriate compensation for loss of commission.

² Where the commission makes up less than one-fifth of the salary, it may be agreed in writing that no compensation for loss of commission is owed to him should he be prevented from travelling through no fault of his own.

³ Where a commercial traveller who is prevented from travelling through no fault of his own receives his full salary, at the employer's request he must carry out work on the business premises to the extent he is capable of such work and it may reasonably be required of him.

Art. 349d

3. Expenses

¹ Where the commercial traveller works for several employers at the same time and there is no written agreement stipulating how expenses are to be divided, each employer must reimburse an equal share.

² Any agreement stipulating that the fixed salary component or commission includes reimbursement of all or part of the expenses is void.

Art. 349e

4. Special lien

¹ By way of securing claims due to him under the employment relationship and, in the event that the employer becomes insolvent, claims that are not yet due, the commercial traveller has a special lien on chattels and securities and on any payments received from clients by virtue of an authority to collect with which he has been vested.

² The lien does not extend to travel tickets, price lists, client lists and other documents.

Art. 350

IV. Termination
1. In special circumstances

¹ Where commission makes up at least one-fifth of a commercial traveller's salary and is subject to major seasonal fluctuations, and where the commercial traveller has worked for the employer since the end of the previous season, any notice of termination served on him by the employer during the following season may not expire until the end of the second month following the month in which it was served.

² On the same conditions, where a commercial traveller has been retained by an employer until the end of one season any notice of termination given by him during the period prior to the beginning of the following season may not expire until the end of the second month following the month in which it was served.

Art. 350a

2. Special consequences

¹ At the end of the employment relationship, the commercial traveller is entitled to commission on all the transactions that he concluded or brokered and on all orders passed on to the employer before the end of the employment relationship, whatever the date of their acceptance or execution.

² The commercial traveller must return to the employer all samples, patterns and models, price lists, customer lists and other documents supplied to him for his work activities by the end of the employment relationship, subject to the right of lien.

C. The Homeworker's ContractArt. 351

I. Definition and conclusion

1. Definition

Art. 351a

2. Notification of conditions

¹ Before each work assignment is given to the homeworker, the employer must inform him of the applicable conditions and specifications to the extent these are not already covered by the general terms and conditions of employment; he must specify the materials to be procured by the homeworker and state in writing the amounts to be reimbursed for such materials and the salary.

² If information regarding the salary and the amounts to be reimbursed for materials procured by the homeworker is not given in writing before the work is allocated, the customary terms and conditions of employment are applicable.

Art. 352

II. Special obligations of the home worker

1. Performance of the work

¹ The homeworker must start the work he has accepted on time, finish it by the agreed deadline and deliver the results to the employer.

² If the work is defective and the homeworker is at fault, he is obliged to rectify it at his own expense to the extent that the defects can be removed.

Art. 352a

2. Materials and work tools

¹ The homeworker is obliged to treat the materials and tools supplied by the employer with all due care, to give account of how they are used and to return tools and unused materials to the employer.

² Where in the course of his work the homeworker notes defects in the materials or tools supplied, he must inform the employer immediately and await further instructions before continuing work.

³ Where the materials or tools supplied have been damaged through the fault of the homeworker, he is liable to the employer at most for the replacement cost.

Art. 353

III. Special obligations of the employer

1. Acceptance of completed work

¹ The employer must inspect the completed work on delivery and notify the homeworker of any defects within one week.

² Where the employer fails to notify defects to the homeworker promptly, the work is deemed to have been accepted.

Art. 353a

2. Salary
a. Payment

² Each salary payment must be accompanied by a written statement giving the reasons for any salary deductions that have been made.

Art. 353b

b. When prevented from working

¹ An employer who engages the home worker on a continuous basis is obliged pursuant to Articles 324 and 324a to pay his salary in the event that the employer fails to accept his work or he is prevented from working by personal circumstances for which he is not at fault.

² In other cases the employer is not obliged to pay the salary pursuant to Articles 324 and 324a.

Art. 354

IV. Termination

¹ Where trial work is assigned to the homeworker, unless otherwise agreed the employment relationship is deemed to have been entered into on a trial basis for a fixed period.

² Unless otherwise agreed, where the homeworker is engaged by the employer on a continuous basis, the employment relationship is deemed to have been entered into for an indefinite period, and in all other cases it is deemed to have been entered into for a fixed period.

D. Applicability of General Provisions

Art. 355

The general provisions governing individual employment contracts are applicable by way of supplement to apprenticeship contracts, commercial traveller's contracts and homemaker's contracts.

Section Three: The Collective Employment Contract and the Standard Employment Contract

A. The Collective Employment Contract

Art. 356

I. Definition,
content, form and duration

1. Definition and content

¹ A collective employment contract is a contract whereby employers or employers' associations and employees' associations jointly lay down clauses governing the conclusion, nature and termination of employment relationships between the employers and individual employees.

² The collective employment contract may also contain other clauses, provided they pertain to the relationship between employers and employees or are limited to the formulation of such clauses.

Art. 356a

2. Freedom of association and freedom to practise a profession

¹ Any clause in a collective employment contract or individual agreement between the contracting parties intended to compel an employer or employee to join a contracting association is void.

² Any clause in a collective employment contract or individual agreement between the contracting parties intended to exclude or restrict the practice of a particular profession or occupation by an employee or his acquisition of the necessary vocational training is void.

³ The clauses and agreements referred to in the previous paragraph are valid by way of exception if they are justified by overriding interests that warrant protection, in particular personal health and safety or the quality of work; however, denial of access to the profession is not an interest that warrants protection.

Art. 356b

3. Accession

¹ Individual employers and individual employees in the service of employers bound by the collective employment contract may accede to it with the consent of the contracting parties, whereupon they become participating employers and employees.

² The collective employment contract may stipulate the rules governing such accession. Unreasonable conditions attaching to accession, such as unreasonable monetary contributions, may be declared void or limited to an admissible level by the court; however, clauses and agreements intended to set contributions in favour of one individual contracting party are always void.

³ Any clause in a collective employment contract or individual agreement between the contracting parties intended to compel members of associations to accede to the collective employment contract is void if such associations are not entitled to become party to it or to conclude an analogous contract.

Art. 356c

4. Form and duration

¹ The conclusion of a collective employment contract, its amendment and termination by mutual agreement, the accession of a new contracting party and notice to terminate the contract are valid only if done in writing, as are declarations of accession by individual employers or employees, the consent to such accession by the contracting parties pursuant to Article 356b paragraph 1 and notice to withdraw from the contract.

² Where the collective employment contract is open-ended and does not provide otherwise, after one year has elapsed any of the contracting parties may withdraw from it at any time by giving six months' notice, which is effective for all other parties. The same applies mutatis mutandis to parties subsequently acceding to the contract.

Art. 357

II. Effects

1. On participating employers and employees

¹ Unless otherwise stipulated in the collective employment contract, its provisions relating to the formation, nature and termination of individual employment relationships are binding on the participating employers and employees for the duration of the contract and may not be derogated.

² Any agreement between participating employers and employees that contradicts the compulsory provisions of the collective employment contract is void and replaced by those provisions; however, such an agreement may be valid if it is to the benefit of the employee.

Art. 357a

2. On the contracting parties

¹ The contracting parties are obliged to ensure compliance with the collective employment contract; to this end associations must exert their influence on their members and, where required, have recourse to the means placed at their disposal by their articles of association and the law.

² Each contracting party has a duty to maintain harmonious industrial relations and in particular to refrain from any hostile action on matters regulated by the collective employment contract; such duty applies without restriction only where expressly so agreed.

Art. 357b

3. Joint enforcement

¹ A collective employment contract concluded between associations may stipulate that each contracting party has an actionable claim against the other parties in the event that they fail to discharge their duty to ensure that the participating employers and employees abide by the contract as regards the following matters:

- a. the formation, nature and termination of employment relationships, in respect of which the claim is for a declaratory judgment only;
- b. the payment of contributions to equalisation funds or other institutions in connection with the employment relationship, the representation of employees within businesses and the maintenance of harmonious industrial relations;
- c. monitoring activities, the provision of security and contractual penalties in relation to the provisions set out in letters a and b.

² Clauses within the meaning of the previous paragraph may be agreed where the contracting parties are expressly authorised so to do by their articles of association or resolution passed by their governing body.

³ Unless otherwise stipulated in the collective employment contract, the provisions governing simple partnerships apply mutatis mutandis to relations between the contracting parties.

Art. 358

III. Relationship to mandatory law

The mandatory law of the Confederation and the cantons takes precedence over the collective employment contract; however, other provisions may be agreed to the benefit of employees provided they do not conflict with mandatory law.

B. The Standard Employment Contract

Art. 359

I. Definition and content

¹ The standard employment contract is a contract in which clauses governing the formation, nature and termination of certain types of employment relationship are laid down.

² The cantons shall draw up standard employment contracts for agricultural workers and domestic staff to regulate in particular working hours, leisure time and employment conditions for female employees and minors.

³ Article 358 is applicable mutatis mutandis to the standard employment contract.

Art. 359a

II. Competent authorities and procedure

¹ Where the scope of application of a standard employment contract extends over more than one canton, the Federal Council is responsible for issuing it, but otherwise the canton is responsible.

² Before being issued, the standard employment contract shall be published in an appropriate manner and a time limit set within which interested parties may submit their comments in writing; furthermore, the relevant professional associations and public bodies shall be consulted.

³ The standard employment contract comes into force once it has been issued in accordance with the provisions governing official publications.

⁴ The same procedure applies to the rescission or amendment of a standard employment contract.

Art. 360

III. Effects

¹ Unless otherwise agreed, the standard employment contract applies directly to the employment relationships that it governs.

² The standard employment contract may stipulate that agreements derogating from certain of its provisions must be done in writing.

Art. 360a²¹⁹

IV. Minimum wage 1. Requirements

¹ Where the wages that are customary for a geographical area, occupation or industry are repeatedly and unfairly undercut within a particular occupation or economic sector and there is no collective employment contract laying down a minimum wage that may be declared universally binding, on application by the tripartite commission as defined in Article 360*b*, the competent authority may issue a fixed-term standard employment contract providing for a minimum wage varied by region and, where applicable, by locality in order to combat or prevent abusive practices.

² The minimum wage must not conflict with the public interest or prejudice the legitimate interests of other economic sectors or sections of the population. It must have due regard to the minority interests of the economic sectors or occupations concerned that stem from regional and business diversity.

³ In the case of repeated infringements of the provisions on the minimum wage in a standard employment contract in accordance with paragraph 1 or if there is evidence that no longer using the standard employment contract may lead to further abusive practices in terms of paragraph 1, at the request of the tripartite commission, the competent authority may extend the standard employment contract for a limited period.²²⁰

Art. 360*b*²²¹

2. Tripartite commissions

¹ The Confederation and each canton shall establish a tripartite commission consisting of an equal number of employers' and employees' representatives in addition to representatives of the state.

² Employers' and employees' associations have the right to put forward candidates for selection as their representatives within the meaning of paragraph 1.

⁴ If labour market conditions in the affected sectors change, the tripartite commission petitions the competent authority to amend or rescind the standard employment contract.

²²⁰ Inserted by No II of the FA of 30 Sept. 2016, in force since 1 April 2017 (AS 2017 2077; BBl 2015 5845).

²²¹ Inserted by Annex No 2 to the FA of 8 Oct. 1999 on Workers posted to Switzerland, in force since 1 June 2003 (AS 2003 1370; BBl 1999 6128).

⁶ Where necessary for the conduct of their investigations, on application the tripartite commissions may obtain personal data contained in corporate collective employment contracts from the Federal Statistical Office.²²²

Art. 360c²²³

3. Official secrecy

¹ The members of tripartite commissions are subject to official secrecy; in particular they are obliged to keep secret from third parties any information of a commercial or private nature gained in the exercise of their office.

² Such duty of secrecy remains in force even after membership of the tripartite commission has ceased.

Art. 360a²²⁴

4. Effects

¹ The standard employment contract as defined in Article 360a also applies to employees who work only temporarily within its geographical scope and to employees whose services have been loaned out.

² It is not permissible to derogate from a standard employment contract as defined in Article 360a to the detriment of the employee.

Art. 360e²²⁵

5. Associations' right of action

Employers' and employees' associations have the right to apply for a declaratory judgment as to whether an employer is in compliance with the standard employment contract as defined in Article 360a.

Art. 360f²²⁶

6. Notification

A canton issuing a standard employment contract pursuant to Article 360a must forward a copy to the competent federal office²²⁷.

Title Eleven: The Work Contract

Art. 363

A. Definition

A work contract is a contract whereby the contractor undertakes to produce a piece of work and the customer undertakes to pay the contractor for that work.

Art. 364

B. Effects

I. Contractor's obligations

1. In general

¹ The contractor generally has the same duty of care as the employee in an employment relationship.²⁴⁹

²⁴⁷ Now: the employer.

²⁴⁸ Amended by No I of the FA of 18 March 1988, in force since 1 Jan. 1989 (AS 1988 1472; BBl 1984 II 551).

²⁴⁹ Amended by No II Art. 1 No 6 of the FA of 25 June 1971, in force since 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

² The contractor is obliged to carry out the work in person or to have it carried out under his personal supervision, unless the nature of the work is such that his personal involvement is not required.

³ Unless otherwise required by agreement or custom, the contractor is obliged to supply the resources, tools and machinery necessary for producing the work at his own expense.

Art. 365

2. Regarding materials

¹ Where the contractor is responsible for supplying the materials, he is liable to the customer for their quality and has the same warranty obligation as a seller.

² Where materials are supplied by the customer, the contractor must treat them with all due care, give account of how they are used and return any that remain unused to the customer.

³ If, when producing the work, the contractor notes defects in the materials supplied or in the designated construction site or if any other circumstance arises which might compromise the correct or timely production of the work, he must inform the customer immediately, failing which he shall himself be liable for any adverse consequences.

Art. 366

3. Prompt commencement and contractual production of the work

¹ Where the contractor does not begin the work on time or delays its production in breach of contract or, through no fault of the customer, falls so far behind that there is no longer any prospect of completing the work on time, the customer is entitled to withdraw from the contract without waiting for the agreed delivery date.

² Where during the production of the work it becomes evident that, through the fault of the contractor, the work will be produced in a manner that is defective or otherwise contrary to the contract, the customer may set the contractor or have the contractor set an appropriate time limit within which to take remedial action and notify him that any failure to do so will result in the hire of a third party to take such remedial action or to complete the work at the risk and expense of the contractor.

Art. 367

4. Liability for defects
a. Identification of defects

¹ The customer must inspect the condition of the delivered or completed work as soon as feasible in the normal course of business and must inform the contractor of any defects discovered.

² Each party is entitled to request that the work be inspected by experts at his own expense and that a legal record be made of their findings.

Art. 368

b. Rights of the customer in the event of defects

1 Where the work is so defective or deviates from the contractual terms to such an extent that the customer has no use for it or cannot reasonably be expected to accept it, the customer may refuse acceptance and, if the contractor is at fault, seek damages.

2 In the case of minor defects in the work or only slight deviations from the contractual terms, the customer may reduce the price in proportion to the decrease in its value or require the contractor to rectify the work at his own expense and to pay damages if he was at fault, provided such rectification is possible without excessive cost to the contractor.

3 In the case of works produced on the customer's land or property which by their nature cannot be removed without disproportionate detriment, the customer has only the rights stipulated in paragraph 2.

Art. 369

c. Customer's liability

The rights accruing to the customer in respect of defects in the work are forfeited if he is at fault for such defects due to having given instructions concerning production of the work that were contrary to the express warnings of the contractor or for any other reason.

Art. 370

d. Approval of the work

1 Once the completed work has been expressly or tacitly approved by the customer, the contractor is released from all liability save in respect of defects which could not have been discovered on acceptance and normal inspection or were deliberately concealed by the contractor.

2 Tacit approval is presumed where the customer omits to inspect the work and give notice of defects as provided by law.

3 Where defects come to light only subsequently, the customer must notify the contractor as soon as he becomes aware of them, otherwise the work is deemed to have been approved even in respect of such defects.

Art. 371²⁵⁰

e. Prescription

1 The right of the customer to bring claims due to defects in the work prescribes two years from acceptance of the work. However, the prescriptive period amounts to five years where defects in a movable object that has been incorporated in an immovable work in a manner consistent with its nature and purpose have caused the work to be defective.

2 The customer's claims in respect of defects in an immovable work against both the contractor and any architect or engineer who provided services in connection with such work prescribe five years after completion of the work.

³ Otherwise the rules governing prescription of the corresponding rights of a buyer apply mutatis mutandis.

Art. 372

II. Customer's obligations

1. Due date for payment

¹ The customer must pay for the work on completion or delivery.

² Where the work is delivered in stages and payment in instalments has been agreed, the amount due for each stage of the work is payable on delivery thereof.

Art. 373

2. Amount of payment
a. Firm commitment

¹ Where the payment was fixed in advance as an exact amount, the contractor is obliged to produce the work for the agreed amount and may not charge more even if the work entailed more labour or greater expense than predicted.

² However, where production of the work was prevented or seriously hindered by extraordinary circumstances that were unforeseeable or excluded according to the conditions assumed by both parties, the court may at its discretion authorise an increase in the price or the termination of the contract.

³ The customer must pay the full price even where the work has entailed less labour than predicted.

Art. 374

b. By the value of the work

Where the price was not fixed in advance or fixed only as an approximate amount, it is determined according to the value of the work produced and the expenses incurred by the contractor.

Art. 375

C. Termination
I. Withdrawal because estimate exceeded

¹ Where an estimate agreed with the contractor is exceeded by a disproportionate amount through no fault of the customer, he has the right to withdraw from the contract before or after completion.

² In the case of construction work carried out on his land or property, the customer is entitled to an appropriate reduction in the price or, if the work is not yet complete, to call a halt to the work and withdraw from the contract against equitable compensation for work already done.

Art. 376

II. Destruction of the work

¹ If the work is destroyed by accident prior to completion or delivery, the contractor is not entitled to payment for work done or of expenses incurred unless the customer is in default on acceptance of the work.

² In this case any loss of materials is borne by the party that supplied them.

³ Where the work has been destroyed either due to a defect in the materials supplied or in the construction site designated by the customer or as a result of the method of production that he prescribed, the contractor shall be entitled to payment for the work already done and of expenses incurred that were not included in the price, provided he alerted the customer to the risks in good time, and also to damages if the customer was at fault.

Art. 377

III. Withdrawal by the customer against indemnity

The customer may withdraw from the contract at any time before the work is completed provided he pays for work already done and indemnifies the contractor in full.

Art. 378

IV. Impossibility of performance for reasons attributable to the customer

¹ Where completion of the work is rendered impossible by chance occurrence affecting the customer, the contractor is entitled to payment for the work already done and of expenses incurred that were not included in the price.

² Where the customer is at fault for the impossibility of performance, the contractor may also claim damages.

Art. 379

V. Death or incapacity of the contractor

¹ Where the contractor dies or becomes incapable of finishing the work through no fault of his own, the work contract becomes void if it was concluded in view of the personal attributes of the contractor.

² The customer is obliged to accept and pay for work already done to the extent it is of use to him.

Title Twelve: The Publishing ContractArt. 380

A. Definition

A publishing contract is a contract whereby the originator – the author of a literary or artistic work or his legal successor – undertakes to entrust the work to a publisher, who undertakes to reproduce and distribute it.

B. Effects
I. Transfer of copyright and warranty

Art. 381

¹ The author's rights to the work are transferred to the publisher to the extent and for as long as required for performance of the contract.

² The originator must give warranty to the publisher that he had the right to make the work available for publication at the time the contract was concluded and, where it is subject to copyright protection, that he holds the copyright.

³ Where all or part of the work has already been made available for publication to a third party or the originator is aware that it has already been published, he must inform the publisher before entering into the contract.

II. Originator's power of disposal

Art. 382

¹ As long as the editions of the work to which the publisher is entitled have not yet been exhausted, the originator may not make other arrangements regarding the work or parts thereof to the publisher's detriment.

² Newspaper articles or relatively short passages of magazine copy may be published elsewhere by the originator at any time.

³ Contributions to collections or anthologies and relatively lengthy magazine articles must not be published elsewhere by the originator within three months of the appearance in print of such contribution or article.

III. Number of editions

Art. 383

¹ Where no clause was agreed that stipulates the number of editions, the publisher is entitled to produce only one.

² Where nothing was agreed, the publisher determines the size of the edition but at the originator's request must print at least enough to generate reasonable sales, and once the first print run is completed, he must not print any further copies.

³ Where the publishing contract confers publishing rights for several or all editions of a work and the publisher fails to produce a new edition after the previous edition is exhausted, the originator may have the court set a time limit for the publication of a new edition, failing which the publisher forfeits such rights.

IV. Publication and sale

Art. 384

¹ The publisher is obliged to publish the work in an appropriate format without abridgment, addition or alteration, to take reasonable steps to publicise the work and to devote the customary resources in order to promote sales thereof.

² He must fix the price at his discretion but not so high as to hinder sales of the work.

- Art. 385
- V. Improvements and corrections
- 1 The author retains the right to correct and improve his work provided this does not prejudice the interests or increase the liability of the publisher, but must compensate the publisher for any unforeseen costs incurred as a result.
- 2 The editor may not produce a new version, edition or print run of the work without having previously given the author the opportunity to improve it.
- Art. 386
- VI. Collected and separate editions
- 1 The right to publish different works by the same author separately does not entail the right to publish them together in collected edition.
- 2 Similarly, the right to publish the complete works of an author or all of his works in a given genre does not give the publisher the right to publish the individual works separately.
- Art. 387
- VII. Translation
rights
- Unless otherwise agreed with the publisher, the originator retains the exclusive right to commission a translation of the work.
- Art. 388
- VIII. Author's remuneration
1. Amount
- 1 The originator is deemed entitled to remuneration where in the circumstances the presumption is that publication of the work would necessarily involve such remuneration.
- 2 The amount thereof is fixed by the court on the basis of expert opinion.
- 3 Where the publisher is entitled to produce several editions, the presumption is that the level of remuneration and the other terms and conditions for subsequent editions are the same as for the first edition.
- Art. 389
2. Due date for payment, record of sales and complimentary
copies
- 1 The remuneration is payable as soon as the complete work or, in the case of works appearing in separate parts (volumes, fascicles, issues), each part thereof is printed and ready for distribution.
- 2 Where the remuneration is made partly or entirely contingent on expected sales, the publisher is obliged to produce the customary record of sales with corroborating documentation.
- 3 Unless otherwise agreed, the originator is entitled to receive the customary number of complimentary copies.

Art. 390

C. Termination
I. Destruction of the work

¹ If the work is destroyed by chance after delivery to the publisher, he remains obliged to pay the author's remuneration.

² If the author has a second copy of the destroyed work, he must make it available to the publisher, and otherwise he must recreate the work where this is possible with little effort.

³ In either case he is entitled to appropriate compensation.

Art. 391

II. Destruction of the edition

¹ If an edition already produced by the publisher is partly or entirely destroyed by chance prior to its distribution, the publisher is entitled to replace the destroyed copies at his own expense without giving rise to a claim for additional remuneration on the part of the originator.

² The publisher is obliged to replace the destroyed copies where this is possible without disproportionate expense.

Art. 392

III. Grounds for termination pertaining to the person of the author or the publisher

¹ The contract is extinguished on the death or incapacity of the author before the work is completed or in the event that the author is prevented from completing it through no fault of his own.

² By way of exception, the court may authorise the full or partial continuation of the contract, where this is deemed both feasible and equitable, and order any necessary measures.

³ In the event of the publisher's bankruptcy, the originator may entrust the work to another publisher unless he is furnished with security for performance of the publishing obligations not yet due at the time bankruptcy proceedings were commenced.

Art. 393

D. Work on a project originated by the publisher

¹ Where one or more authors accept a commission to work on a project originated by a publisher, they are entitled only to the agreed remuneration.

² The publisher owns the copyright to the work as a whole.

Title Thirteen: The Mandate

Section One: The Simple Mandate

Art. 394

A. Definition

¹ A mandate is a contract whereby the mandatee undertakes to conduct certain business or provide certain services in accordance with the terms of the contract.

² Contracts for the provision of work or services not covered by any other specific type of contract are subject to the provisions governing mandates.

³ Remuneration is payable where agreed or customary.

Art. 395

B. Creation

A mandate is deemed to have been accepted where it has not been declined immediately and relates to business which is conducted by the mandatee by official appointment or on a professional basis or for which he has publicly offered his services.

Art. 396

C. Effects

I. Scope of the mandate

¹ Unless expressly defined, the scope of the mandate is determined by the nature of the business to which it relates.

² In particular, it includes the authority to carry out such transactions as are required for performance of the mandate.

³ The mandatee requires special authority to agree a settlement, accept an arbitration award, accept liabilities under a bill of exchange, alienate or encumber land or make gifts.²⁵¹

Art. 397

II. Obligations of the mandatee

I. Compliance with instructions

¹ A mandatee who has received instructions from the mandator on how to conduct the business entrusted to him may deviate from them only to the extent that circumstances prevent him from obtaining the mandator's permission and that he may safely assume such permission would have been forthcoming had the mandator been aware of the situation.

² Where such conditions are not satisfied and the mandatee nevertheless deviates from the mandator's instructions to the latter's detriment, the mandate is deemed to have been performed only if the mandatee accepts liability for the resultant damage.

²⁵¹ Amended by Annex 1 No II 5 of the Civil Procedure Code of 19 Dec. 2008, in force since 1 Jan. 2011 (AS 2010 1739; BBl 2006 7221).

Art. 397a²⁵²

1bis. Duty to notify

If it is anticipated that the mandator will become permanently incapable of judgement, the mandatee must notify the adult protection authority at the mandator's domicile if such notification appears appropriate in order to safeguard the interests concerned.

Art. 398

2. Faithful performance
a. In general

¹ The mandatee generally has the same duty of care as the employee in an employment relationship.²⁵³

² The mandatee is liable to the mandator for the diligent and faithful performance of the business entrusted to him.

³ He must conduct such business in person unless authorised or compelled by circumstance to delegate it to a third party or where such delegation is deemed admissible by custom.

Art. 399

b. In the event of delegation

¹ A mandatee who has delegated the business entrusted to him to a third party without authority is liable for the latter's actions as if they were his own.

² Where such delegation was authorised, he is liable only for any failure to act with due diligence when selecting and instructing the third party.

³ In both cases, claims held by the mandatee against the third party may be enforced by the mandator directly against the third party.

Art. 400

3. Account of agency

¹ The mandatee is obliged at the mandator's request, which may be made at any time, to give an account of his activities under the mandate and to return anything received for whatever reason as a result of such activities.

² He must pay interest on any sums which he is late in forwarding to the mandator.

Art. 401

4. Transfer of acquired rights

¹ Unless otherwise agreed or implied by the nature of the business, the mandate ends on loss of capacity to act, bankruptcy, death or declaration of presumed death of the mandator or the mandatee.²⁵⁴

² However, where termination of the mandate jeopardises the mandator's interests, the mandatee, his heir or his representative is obliged to continue conducting the business until such time as the mandator, his heir or his representative is able to conduct it himself.

²⁵⁴ Amended by Annex No 10 of the FA of 19 Dec. 2008 (Adult Protection, Law of Persons and Law of Children), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2011 725; BBl 2006 7001).

2 Except where otherwise agreed in writing, the agent may also act for other principals.

3 He may assume liability for the client's payment or any other type of performance of the client's obligations or for all or part of the costs of recovering receivables only by means of a written undertaking. The agent thereby acquires an inalienable entitlement to adequate special remuneration.

Art. 418d

II. Duty of discretion and prohibition of competition

1 The agent must not exploit or reveal the principal's trade secrets with which he has been entrusted or of which he became aware by reason of the agency relationship even after the end of the commercial agency contract.

Art. 418e

C. Powers of representation

1 The agent is considered to be authorised only to facilitate transactions, to receive notices of defects and other declarations whereby clients exercise or reserve their rights in respect of defective performance by the principal, and to exercise the principal's rights to secure evidence thereof.

2 By contrast, the agent is not considered to be authorised to accept payments, to grant time limits for payments or to agree other modifications of the contract with clients.

² He must notify the agent immediately if he anticipates that the number and/or volume of transactions that will be possible or desirable is likely to be substantially smaller than was agreed or to be expected in the circumstances.

³ Where a particular area or clientele is allocated to the agent, it is allocated to him exclusively unless otherwise agreed in writing.

Art. 418g

II. Commission
1. On business facilitated and concluded
a. Scope and entitlement

¹ The agent is entitled to the agreed or customary commercial agent's commission or sales commission on all transactions that he facilitated or concluded during the agency relationship and, unless otherwise agreed in writing, on transactions concluded during the agency relationship by the principal without the agent's involvement but with clients acquired by him for transactions of that kind.

² An agent to whom a particular area or clientele has been allocated exclusively is entitled to the agreed commission or, in the absence of such an agreement, the customary commission on all transactions concluded during the agency relationship with clients belonging to that area or clientele.

Art. 418h

b. Lapse of entitlement

¹ The agent's entitlement to commission lapses subsequently where the execution of a concluded transaction is prevented for reasons not attributable to the principal.

² By contrast, the agent is not entitled to any commission where no consideration is given in return for the principal's performance, or where the consideration is so limited that the principal cannot reasonably be expected to pay any commission.

Art. 418i

c. Due date

Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, the commission falls due at the end of the calendar half-year in which the transaction was concluded, whereas in insurance business the commission falls due when the first annual premium has been paid.

- Art. 418k
- d. Statement of commission
- 1 Where the agent is not obliged by written agreement to draw up a statement of commission, the principal must provide him with a written statement as at each due date indicating the transactions on which commission is payable.
- 2 On request, the agent must be granted access to the books of account or supporting documents that are relevant to such statement. The agent may not waive this right in advance.
- Art. 418l
2. Collection commission
- 1 Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, the agent is entitled to a collection commission on any amounts he collects and delivers to the principal in accordance with the latter's instructions.
- 2 At the end of the agency relationship the agent loses his authority to collect payments and his entitlement to further collection commission.
- Art. 418m
- III. Inability to work
- 1 The principal is obliged to pay the agent appropriate compensation if, in breach of his legal or contractual obligations, he is at fault in preventing the agent from earning the volume of commission that was agreed or to be expected in the circumstances. Any agreement to the contrary is void.
- 2 Where an agent who is permitted to represent only one principal at a time is prevented from working through no fault of his own by illness, Swiss compulsory military service or similar reasons, he is entitled for a relatively short period to adequate compensation for loss of income, provided the commercial agency contract has lasted for at least one year. The agent may not waive this right in advance.
- Art. 418n
- IV. Costs and expenses
- 1 Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, the agent is not entitled to reimbursement of costs and expenses incurred in the normal performance of his duties, but is entitled to reimbursement of those incurred as a result of special instructions issued by the principal or in the capacity of agent without authority for the principal, such as freight charges and customs duties.
- 2 The duty to reimburse costs and expenses obtains even where the transaction fails to materialise.

Art. 418o

V. Special lien

¹ By way of securing claims due to him under the commercial agency relationship and, in the event that the principal becomes insolvent, claims that are not yet due, the agent has a special lien on chattels and securities that he holds pursuant to the contract and on any payments received from clients by virtue of an authority to collect with which he has been vested, and this right of lien may not be waived in advance.

² The lien does not extend to price lists and client lists.

Art. 418pE. Termination
I. Expiry of duration

¹ Where the commercial agency contract was concluded for a fixed term or its duration is limited by virtue of its purpose, it ends without notice on expiry of that term.

² Where a fixed-term commercial agency contract is tacitly extended by both parties on expiry of its duration, it is deemed to have been renewed for the same duration subject to a maximum of one year.

³ Where termination is subject to prior notice, failure by both parties to give notice is deemed tacit renewal of the contract.

Art. 418qII. Notice of termination
1. In general

¹ Where the commercial agency contract was not concluded for a fixed term and its duration is not limited by virtue of its purpose, it may be terminated by either party during the first year of the contract by giving one month's notice expiring at the end of the following calendar month. Any agreement of a shorter notice period must be done in writing.

² Where the contract has lasted for at least one year, it may be terminated by giving two months' notice expiring at the end of a calendar quarter. However, the parties may agree a longer notice period or a different termination date.

³ The notice period must be the same for both the principal and the agent.

Art. 418r

2. For good cause

¹ The principal and the agent may at any time terminate the contract with immediate effect for good cause.

² The provisions governing service contracts apply mutatis mutandis.

Art. 418s

III. Death, incapacity, bankruptcy

¹ The agency relationship ends on the death or incapacity of the agent or the bankruptcy of the principal.

² Where in essence the agency relationship was entered into with the principal in person, it ends on his death.

Art. 418t

IV. Claims of the agent
1. Commission

¹ Unless otherwise provided by agreement or custom, the agent is entitled to commission on orders subsequently placed by a client acquired by him during the agency relationship only if such orders are placed before the end of the commercial agency contract.

² On termination of the agency relationship, all the agent's claims for commission or reimbursement of expenses fall due.

³ A later due date may be agreed in writing for commission on transactions to be performed in full or in part after the agency relationship has ended.

Art. 418u

2. Compensation for clientele

¹ Where the agent's activities have resulted in a substantial expansion of the principal's clientele and considerable benefits accrue even after the end of the agency relationship to the principal or his legal successor from his business relations with clients acquired by the agent, the agent or his heirs have an inalienable claim for adequate compensation, provided this is not inequitable.

² The amount of such claim must not exceed the agent's net annual earnings from the agency relationship calculated as the average for the last five years or, where shorter, the average over the entire duration of the contract.

³ No claim exists where the agency relationship has been dissolved for a reason attributable to the agent.

Art. 418v

V. Duty of restitution

By the time the agency relationship ends, each contracting party must return to the other everything received from him or from third parties for his account during the relationship. The contracting parties' rights of lien are unaffected.

Title Fourteen: Agency without AuthorityArt. 419

A. Rights and obligations of the agent
I. Manner of execution

Any person who conducts the business of another without authorisation is obliged to do so in accordance with his best interests and presumed intention.

II. Liability of the agent in general

Art. 420

- ¹ The agent is liable for negligence.
- ² However, where the agent acted in order to avert imminent damage to the principal, his liability is judged more leniently.
- ³ Where agency activities are carried out against the express or otherwise recognisable will of the principal and the prohibition was neither immoral nor illegal, the agent is also liable for chance occurrences unless he can prove that they would have occurred even without his involvement.

III. Liability of agents lacking capacity to enter into contracts

Art. 421

- ¹ Where the agent lacked the capacity to enter into contractual commitments, he is liable for his agency activities only to the extent that he is enriched or alienated the enrichment in bad faith.
- ² Further liability in tort is reserved.

B. Position of the principal
I. Agency in the principal's best interests

Art. 422

- ¹ Where agency activities were in the best interests of the principal, he is obliged to reimburse the agent for all expenses that were necessary or useful and appropriate in the circumstances plus interest, to release him to the same extent from all obligations assumed and to compensate him at the court's discretion for any other damage incurred.
- ² Provided the agent acted with all due care, the claim accrues to him even if the intended outcome was not achieved.
- ³ Where the agent's expenses are not reimbursed, he has the right of repossession in accordance with the provisions governing unjust enrichment.

II. Business conducted in the agent's interests

Art. 423

- ¹ Where agency activities were not carried out with the best interests of the principal in mind, he is nonetheless entitled to appropriate any resulting benefits.
- ² The principal is obliged to compensate the agent and release him from obligations assumed only to the extent the principal is enriched.

III. Approval of agency activities

Art. 424

Where the agent's actions are subsequently approved by the principal, the provisions governing mandates become applicable.

Title Fifteen: The Commission Contract

Art. 425

A. Buying and selling commission
I. Definition

1 A buying or selling commission agent is a person who, in return for a commission, buys or sells chattels or securities in his own name but for the account of another (the principal).

2 The provisions governing mandates apply to the commission agency relationship, unless otherwise provided in this Title.

Art. 426

II. Obligations of the commission agent
1. Duty of notification, insurance

1 The commission agent must keep the principal informed and in particular must notify him immediately of the performance of the commission contract.

2 He is obliged to insure the goods on commission only where so instructed by the principal.

Art. 427

2. Treatment of goods on commission

1 Where the goods for sale on commission are evidently defective, the commission agent must safeguard the rights of recourse against the carrier, secure evidence of the defective condition of the goods, preserve the goods where possible and notify the principal immediately.

2 If the commission agent omits to fulfil these obligations, he is liable for any damage caused by such omission.

3 Where there is a risk that the goods for sale on commission will rapidly deteriorate, the commission agent has the right and, should the interests of the principal so require, the obligation to arrange their sale with the assistance of the competent authority of the place where the goods are located.

Art. 428

3. Pricing by the principal

1 Where the commission agent sells goods below the minimum price instructed, he is liable to the principal for the difference unless he can prove that such sale averted damage that the principal would otherwise have incurred and that he was unable to seek the principal's instructions in the time available.

2 Furthermore, where the commission agent is at fault, he must compensate the principal for any other damage caused by the breach of contract.

3 Where the commission agent buys at a lower price or sells at a higher price than instructed by the principal, he is not permitted to retain the profit but must credit it to the principal.

Art. 429

4. Advances and loans to third parties

¹ A commission agent who makes cash advances or extends credit to a third party without the consent of the principal does so at his own risk.

² However, where sale on credit is the customary commercial practice at the place of sale, the commission agent is entitled to sell on credit unless the principal has instructed otherwise.

Art. 430

5. Del credere

¹ Except where he extends credit without authority, the commission agent is liable for the debtor's payment or performance of other obligations only to the extent that he has expressly assumed such liability or if this is a customary commercial practice at his place of business.

² A commission agent who assumes liability for performance by the debtor is entitled to special remuneration (del credere commission).

Art. 431

III. Rights of the commission agent

1. Reimbursement of advances and expenses

¹ The commission agent is entitled to reimbursement of all advances, expenses and other costs incurred on the principal's behalf plus interest on all such amounts.

² He may also claim remuneration for storage and transport costs, though not for the wages of his employees.

Art. 432

2. Commission
a. Entitlement

¹ The commission agent is entitled to commission on execution of the transaction or failure to execute it for a reason attributable to the principal.

² In the case of transactions that could not be executed for other reasons, the commission agent is entitled to remuneration for his endeavours only to the extent provided for by local custom.

Art. 433

b. Forfeiture and conversion into transaction for own account

¹ The commission agent forfeits his right to commission if he has acted improperly towards the principal and in particular if he has secured an inflated purchase price or a deflated sale price.

² Moreover, in both these cases the principal has the right to take action against the commission agent himself as buyer or seller.

Art. 434

3. Special lien

The commission agent has a special lien in respect of the goods on commission and the sale proceeds.

Art. 435

4. Sale of goods
at auction

¹ Where the goods on commission remain unsold or the order to sell is withdrawn and the principal fails to take them back or otherwise dispose of them within a reasonable time, the commission agent may apply to the competent authority at the place where the goods are located to arrange to have them sold at auction.

² The auction may be ordered without first hearing the principal if neither he nor a representative is present at that location.

³ However, official notice must be served on the principal before the auction is held, unless the goods in question are susceptible to rapid deterioration.

Art. 436

5. Agent acting for his own account
a. Pricing and
commission

¹ Unless otherwise instructed by the principal, a commission agent instructed to buy or sell goods, bills of exchange or other securities with a quoted exchange or market price is entitled, in his own capacity as seller, to deliver the goods he is instructed to buy or, in his own capacity as buyer, to purchase the goods he is instructed to sell.

² In both cases, the commission agent must account for the exchange or market price that applied at the time the instruction was executed and is entitled to both the usual commission and reimbursement of the expenses normally incurred in commission business.

³ In other respects the transaction is treated as a contract of sale.

Art. 437

b. Presumption of trading for own account

Where the commission agent is permitted to act for his own account and he notifies the principal that the instruction has been executed without naming another person as buyer or seller, the presumption is that he himself has assumed the obligations of the buyer or seller.

Art. 438

c. Lapse of right to trade for own account

The commission agent is not permitted to act as buyer or seller if the principal has withdrawn his mandate and the notice of withdrawal reached the commission agent before he dispatched the notice of execution.

Art. 439

B. Forwarding contract

A forwarding agent or carrier who in return for payment undertakes to carry or forward goods for the consignor's account but in his own name is regarded as a commission agent but is subject to the provisions governing contracts of carriage in relation to the forwarding of the goods.

Title Sixteen: The Contract of Carriage

Art. 440

² The consignor is liable for any detriment arising from missing or inaccurate details.

Art. 442

2. Packaging

¹ The consignor ensures that the goods are properly packaged.

² He is liable for the consequences of defects in packaging that are not externally apparent.

³ By contrast, the carrier is liable for the consequences of defects that were externally apparent if he accepted the goods without reservation.

Art. 443

3. Power of disposal over freight

¹ While the goods are in the carrier's possession, the consignor has the right to reclaim them against compensation for the carrier for expenses incurred and any detriment resulting from their repossession, except where:

1. a bill of lading has been issued by the consignor and delivered to the consignee by the carrier;
2. the consignor has arranged for an acknowledgement of receipt to be issued by the carrier and cannot return it;
3. the carrier has sent the consignee written notice that the goods have arrived and are ready for collection;
4. the consignee has requested delivery of the goods after they have arrived at destination.

² In these cases the carrier is obliged to comply solely with the consignee's instructions, although where the consignor has arranged for an acknowledgement of receipt to be issued by the carrier and the goods have not yet arrived at destination, the carrier is bound by such instructions only if the acknowledgement of receipt has been delivered to the consignee.

Art. 444

II. Position of the carrier
1. Treatment of freight
a. Delivery not possible

¹ Where the goods are rejected, the associated claims remain unpaid or the consignee cannot be contacted, the carrier must inform the consignor and in the interim place the goods in storage or deposit them with a third party at the risk and expense of the consignor.

² If neither consignor nor consignee disposes of the goods within a reasonable period, in the same manner as a commission agent the carrier may apply to the competent authority at the place where the goods are located to arrange to have them sold in favour of the rightful beneficiary.

Art. 445

b. Sale

¹ Where the goods are likely to deteriorate rapidly or their probable value does not cover the associated costs, the carrier must without delay arrange for official confirmation of that fact and may arrange for the sale of the goods in the same manner as when delivery is not possible.

² Where possible, the interested parties must be informed that such sale has been ordered.

Art. 446

c. Liability

When exercising the rights conferred on him with regard to the handling of the goods, the carrier must safeguard the interests of their owner to the best of his ability and is liable in damages for any fault on his part.

Art. 447

2. Liability of the carrier
a. Loss or destruction of the goods

¹ If the goods are lost or destroyed, the carrier must compensate their full value unless he can prove that the loss or destruction resulted from the nature of the goods or through the fault of the consignor or the consignee or occurred as a result of instructions given by either or of circumstances which could not have been prevented even by the diligence of a prudent carrier.

² The consignor is deemed to be at fault if he fails to inform the carrier of any especially valuable freight goods.

³ Agreements stipulating an interest in excess of the full value of the goods or an amount of compensation lower than their full value are reserved.

b. Delay, damage, partial destruction

Art. 448

¹ Subject to the same conditions and reservations as apply to the loss or destruction of goods, the carrier is liable for any damage resulting from late delivery, damage in transit or the partial destruction of the goods.

² Unless specifically agreed otherwise, the damages claimed may not exceed those for total loss.

c. Liability for sub-contractors

Art. 449

The carrier is liable for all accidents and errors occurring during the carriage of goods, regardless of whether he transports them to the final destination or sub-contracts the task to another carrier, subject to right of recourse against the sub-contractor to whom goods are entrusted.

3. Duty of notification

Art. 450

The carrier must notify the consignee immediately on arrival of the goods.

4. Lien

Art. 451

¹ Where the consignee disputes claims attaching to the goods, he may demand delivery only if the disputed amount is deposited with the court.

² The deposited amount replaces the goods with regard to the carrier's lien.

5. Forfeiture of liability claims

Art. 452

¹ Unconditional acceptance of the goods and payment of the freight charge extinguish all claims against the carrier, except in cases of deliberate deceit or gross negligence.

² Furthermore, the carrier remains liable for damage that is not externally apparent where such damage is discovered within the time in which, in the circumstances, the consignee was able or might reasonably be expected to inspect the goods, provided he notifies the carrier immediately on discovering such damage.

³ However, such notification must be given no later than eight days after delivery.

6. Procedure

Art. 453

¹ In any dispute, the competent authority at the place where the goods are located may, at the request of either party, order that the goods be deposited with a third party or, where necessary, sold after their condition has been established.

² The sale may be forestalled by satisfying all claims allegedly attaching to the goods or by depositing the amount of such claims with the court.

Art. 454

7. Prescription of actions for damages

¹ Actions for damages against the carrier prescribe one year after the scheduled delivery date in the case of destruction, loss or delay and one year after the date on which the goods were delivered to the consignee in the case of damage.

² The consignee and the consignor may always assert their claims against the carrier by way of defence, provided that objections are lodged within one year and that the claim is not extinguished by acceptance of the goods.

³ The above does not apply to cases of malice or gross negligence on the part of the carrier.

Art. 455

C. State-owned and licensed carriers

¹ Carriers operating under state licence are not empowered to exclude or restrict in advance the application of the provisions governing the carrier's liability to their own benefit by means of special agreement or regulations governing their operations.

² However, the parties may derogate contractually from said provisions to the extent permitted by this Title.

³ The special provisions governing contracts for the carriage of goods by providers of postal services, the railways and steamers are unaffected.²⁶⁸

Art. 456

D. Use of state transport facilities

¹ Any carrier or forwarding agent who uses a state transport facility to perform carriage obligations he has assumed or who assists in the carriage of goods by such a facility is subject to the special provisions governing freight transport that apply to that facility.

² However, any agreement to the contrary between the carrier or forwarding agent and the principal is unaffected.

³ This article does not apply to road hauliers.

Art. 457

E. Liability of the forwarding agent

A forwarding agent who uses a state transport facility in order to perform obligations under a contract of carriage may not deny liability on grounds of insufficient right of recourse where right of recourse was forfeited through his own fault.

Title Seventeen: Registered Power of Attorney and other Forms of Commercial Agency

Art. 458

A. Registered power of attorney
I. Definition and conferral

¹ A registered attorney is a person who has been expressly or tacitly granted the authority to conduct operations and to sign per procuracion on behalf of a trading, manufacturing or other commercial business by its owner.

² The owner of the business must give notice of the granting of the power of attorney for entry in the commercial register but is bound by the actions of the registered attorney even before it is entered.

³ The granting of authority to conduct other kinds of business or transactions also requires entry of the attorney in the commercial register.

Art. 459

II. Scope of authority

¹ In dealings with bona fide third parties, the registered attorney is deemed authorised to commit the owner of the business by signing bills of exchange and to carry out on his behalf all types of transaction that fall within the scope of the commercial operations and business affairs of the owner.

² The registered attorney is not authorised to alienate or encumber immovable property unless expressly vested with such powers.

Art. 460

III. Restrictions

¹ The registered power of attorney may be limited to the business affairs of a specific branch.

² It may be conferred on two or more persons collectively (joint power of attorney) such that the signature of one attorney is not binding on the principal unless others participate in the transaction as prescribed.

³ Other limitations of authority have no legal effect on bona fide third parties.

Art. 461

IV. Withdrawal

¹ Any withdrawal of the power of attorney must be entered in the commercial register, even where no entry was made of its conferral.

² As long as such withdrawal has not been registered and published, the registered power of attorney remains in force as against bona fide third parties.

Art. 462

B. Other forms of commercial agency

¹ Where the owner of a trading, manufacturing or other commercial establishment appoints a person to represent him in managing the affairs of the business as a whole or in carrying out certain transactions on behalf of the business without granting that person a registered power of attorney, the agency authority of the representative extends to all activities that fall within the normal scope of the commercial operations of the business or are normally connected with the transactions in question.

² However, a commercial agent is not authorised to sign bills of exchange, take out loans or conduct litigation unless expressly granted such powers.

Art. 463²⁶⁹

C. ...

Art. 464

D. Prohibition of competition

¹ A registered attorney or commercial agent appointed to manage the affairs of the business as a whole or employed by the owner of the business may not without the owner's consent engage in transactions for his own account or that of a third party in the economic sectors in which the owner himself is active.²⁷⁰

² In the event of any violation of this provision, the owner of the business may seek compensation for the resultant damage and appropriate the relevant transactions for his own account.

Art. 465

E. Extinction of power of attorney and other forms of commercial agency

¹ The registered power of attorney and authority to act as commercial agent may be revoked at any time without prejudice to rights accruing to the parties concerned under any existing individual contract of employment, partnership agreement, mandate or the like.²⁷¹

²⁶⁹ Repealed by No II Art. 6 No 1 of the FA of 25 June 1971, with effect from 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

²⁷⁰ Amended by No II Art. 1 No 10 of the FA of 25 June 1971, in force since 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

²⁷¹ Amended by No II Art. 1 No 11 of the FA of 25 June 1971, in force since 1 Jan. 1972 (AS 1971 1465; BBl 1967 II 241). See also the Final and Transitional Provisions of Title X, at the end of this Code.

² The death or incapacity of the owner of the business does not extinguish the registered power of attorney or authority to act as commercial agent.

Title Eighteen: The Payment Instruction

Art. 466

A. Definition

By means of a payment instruction, the recipient of the instruction (agent) is authorised to transfer money, securities or other fungibles for the account of the party issuing the instruction (principal) to the payee and the payee is authorised to receive them in his own name.

Art. 467

B. Effects

I. Relations between principal and payee

¹ Where the purpose of the payment instruction is to redeem a debt owed by the principal to the payee, the debt is redeemed only once the agent has made the transfer.

² However, where the payee has accepted a payment instruction, he may assert his claim against the principal only if he called for payment from the agent but did not receive it before expiry of the term stipulated in the payment instruction.

³ A creditor who does not wish to accept a payment instruction received from his debtor must notify the debtor immediately in order to avoid liability in damages.

Art. 468

II. Obligations of the agent

¹ An agent who notifies the payee that he accepts the payment instruction unreservedly is obliged to pay the payee and may raise against him only such objections as arise from their personal relationship or from the terms of the payment instruction, not objections arising from his relationship with the principal.

² An agent who is indebted to the principal is obliged to comply with the payment instruction, provided that in doing so his own position is in no way prejudiced.

³ Even in this case the agent is not obliged to declare his acceptance prior to payment, unless otherwise agreed with the principal.

Art. 469

III. Duty to notify non-payment

Where the agent refuses to make the payment called for by the payee or declares in advance that he will not make it, the payee must notify the principal immediately in order to avoid liability in damages.

Art. 470

C. Revocation

1 The principal may revoke the payment instruction as against the payee unless he issued it in order to redeem a debt to the payee or otherwise in favour of the latter.

2 He may revoke it as against the agent provided the agent has not notified the payee of his acceptance.

2^{bis} Unless the regulations of a payment system provide otherwise, a payment instruction in a cashless transaction becomes irrevocable as soon as the transfer amount is debited from the principal's account.²⁷²

3 In the event of bankruptcy proceedings against the principal, payment instructions that have not yet been accepted are deemed revoked.

Art. 471

D. Payment instructions relating to securities

1 The provisions of this Title apply to payment instructions made out to the bearers of negotiable securities on the premise that each such bearer is considered to be the payee in relation to the agent, whereas the rights as between the principal and the payee are established only in respect of each transferor and transferee.

2 The special provisions governing cheques and payment instructions similar in nature to bills of exchange are unaffected.

Title Nineteen: The Contract of BailmentArt. 472A. Bailment in general
I. Definition

1 A contract of bailment is a contract in which the bailee undertakes to take receipt of a chattel entrusted to him by the bailor and to keep it in a safe place.

2 The bailee may claim remuneration only where this has been expressly stipulated or was to be expected in the circumstances.

Art. 473

II. Obligations of the bailor

1 The bailor must reimburse the bailee for expenses incurred in performance of the contract.

2 He is liable to the bailee for damage caused by the bailment unless he can prove that such damage occurred through no fault of his own.

²⁷² Inserted by Annex No 3 of the Uncertificated Securities Act of 3 Oct. 2008, in force since 1 Oct. 2009 (AS 2009 3577; BBl 2006 9315).

Art. 474III. Obligations of the bailee1. Prohibition of use

¹ The bailee may not use the deposited chattel without the bailor's consent.

² If he does, he must pay the bailor adequate compensation and is liable for any chance occurrence unless he can prove that such occurrence would have affected the chattel in any event.

Art. 475

2. Return

a. Rights of the bailor

¹ The bailor may reclaim the bailed chattel together with any growth or accrual thereto at any time, even where a fixed term was agreed for the bailment.

² However, the bailor must reimburse the bailee for expenses incurred with a view to bailment over the agreed term.

Art. 476b. Rights of the bailee

¹ The bailee may return the bailed chattel before expiry of the stipulated term only where unforeseen circumstances render the bailee unable to keep the chattel safely or without detriment to himself.

² Where no term was agreed for the bailment, the bailee may return the chattel at any time.

Art. 477

c. Place of return

The bailed chattel is returned at the risk and expense of the bailor at the same place where it was to be kept.

Art. 4783. Liability of joint bailees

Where several bailees have jointly received a chattel in bailment, they are jointly and severally liable.

Art. 4794. Third-party rights of title

¹ If a third party claims title to the bailed chattel, the bailee remains obliged to return it to the bailor unless it has been attached by court order or the third party has brought action to establish title against the bailor.

² In this event, the bailee must inform the bailor immediately.

Art. 480IV. Official receiver

Where two or more persons, with a view to protecting their rights, deposit an object whose legal status is disputed or uncertain in bailment with a third party (official receiver), the latter may return it only with the consent of the interested parties or as directed by the court.

Art. 481

B. Bailment of fungibles

1 Where money is deposited with the express or tacit agreement that the bailee is not obliged to return precisely the same notes and coin but merely the same sum of money, all attendant risks and benefits pass to the bailee.

2 A tacit agreement is presumed if the sum of money was unsealed and open when deposited.

3 Where other fungibles or securities are deposited in bailment, the bailee has power to dispose of them only if expressly authorised so to do by the bailor.

Art. 482

C. Warehousing business

I. Right to issue documents of title to goods

1 A warehouse keeper who publicly offers warehousing services may apply to the competent authority for the right to issue documents of title to the goods kept in storage.

2 These documents of title to goods are securities that confer the right to take delivery of the goods stored.

3 They may be made out to a named person, to order or to bearer.

Art. 483

II. Warehouse keeper's duty of safe-keeping

1 A warehouse keeper has the same duty of care in relation to stored goods as a commission agent.

2 Where feasible, he must inform the bailor of any changes in the condition of the goods that call for further measures.

3 He must allow the bailor to inspect the goods and to take test samples during business hours and to take measures necessary to preserve the goods at any time.

Art. 484

III. Intermingling of stored goods

1 A warehouse keeper may mix fungibles with other items of the same kind and quality only if expressly authorised so to do.

2 Each bailor may reclaim a number corresponding to his deposit from any goods thus intermingled.

3 The warehouse keeper may make the required division without the involvement of the other bailors.

Art. 485

IV. Rights of the warehouse keeper

1 The warehouse keeper is entitled to the agreed or customary warehouse fee and to reimbursement of all expenses not resulting from the actual storage of the goods (freight charges, customs duties, repairs).

² Such expenses must be reimbursed immediately, whereas the warehouse fee is payable in arrears for every three months of storage and in any event whenever all or some of the goods are reclaimed.

³ The warehouse keeper's claims are secured by a lien on the goods, provided he remains in possession of the goods or may dispose of them by means of a document of title to goods.

Art. 486

V. Return of the goods

¹ The warehouse keeper has the same obligation to return the goods as an ordinary bailee, except that he remains bound to observe the contractual storage duration even where an ordinary bailee would be entitled to return them sooner owing to unforeseen circumstances.

² Where a document of title to goods has been issued, the warehouse keeper is entitled and obliged to release the goods only to the beneficiary named therein.

Art. 487

D. Inns, hotels and stables
I. Liability of hoteliers
1. Conditions and scope

¹ Innkeepers and hoteliers who provide accommodation for persons not known to them are liable for any damage, destruction or misappropriation of personal effects brought onto the premises by their guests unless they can prove that such damage is attributable to the guest himself or to his visitors, companions or staff or to force majeure or to the nature of the objects in question.

² However, the liability for personal effects brought onto the premises by guests is subject to an upper limit of 1,000 francs for each guest where no fault can be ascribed to the innkeeper or hotelier or his staff.

Art. 488

2. Specific liability for valuables

¹ Where valuables, large sums of money or securities are not deposited with the innkeeper or hotelier, the latter is only liable for them if he or his staff are at fault.

² Where he accepts or declines the deposit of such items, he is liable for their full value.

³ Where the guest cannot reasonably be expected to deposit such items, the innkeeper or hotelier is liable for them as for the other personal effects of the guest.

Art. 489

3. End of liability

¹ The guest's claims are forfeited if he fails to report any damage to the innkeeper or hotelier immediately.

² The innkeeper or hotelier may not exempt himself from liability by posting disclaimer notices on the premises or making such liability dependent on conditions not specified in law.

Art. 490

II. Liability of stable owners

¹ Owners of stables are liable for any damage, destruction or misappropriation of animals, vehicles and their appurtenances entrusted to or otherwise received by them or by their staff unless they can prove that such damage is attributable to the bailor or his visitors, companions or staff or to force majeure or to the nature of the animals or objects deposited.

² However, liability for animals, vehicles and appurtenances accommodated in stables is subject to a maximum of 1,000 francs for each bailor where no fault can be ascribed to the stable owner or his staff.

Art. 491

III. Lien

¹ Innkeepers, hoteliers and stable owners have a lien on the animals and objects brought onto their premises as security for their claims in connection with accommodation and storage.

² The provisions governing the landlord's or lessor's right of lien apply mutatis mutandis.

Title Twenty:²⁷³ The Contract of Surety

Art. 492

A. Requirements
I. Definition

¹ Under a contract of surety, the surety undertakes as against the creditor of the principal debtor to vouch for performance of the obligation.

² A contract of surety presupposes the existence of a valid primary obligation. A future or conditional obligation may be guaranteed by means of a contract of surety provided that the primary obligation takes effect.

⁴ Unless the law provides otherwise, the surety may not waive in advance the rights conferred on him under this Title.

²⁷³ Amended by No 1 of the FA of 10 Dec. 1941, in force since 1 July 1942 (AS 58 279 644; BBl 1939 II 841). See also the Transitional provisions for this Title at the end of this Code.

Art. 493

II. Form

² Where the surety is a natural person, his declaration must additionally be done in the form of a public deed in conformity with the rules in force at the place where the instrument is drawn up. Where the liability under surety does not exceed the sum of 2,000 francs, it is sufficient for the surety to indicate the amount for which he is liable and the existence of joint and several liability, if any, in his own hand in the surety bond itself.

³ Contracts of surety in favour of the Confederation or its public institutions or in favour of a canton for the performance of public law obligations, such as customs duties, taxes and the like, and for freight charges merely require the written declaration of the surety and an indication in the surety bond itself of the amount for which he is liable.

⁶ The formal requirements applicable to the contract of surety also apply to the conferral of special authority to enter into a contract of surety and the promise to stand surety for the contracting party or a third party. The parties may agree in writing to limit the surety's liability to that portion of the principal obligation that is satisfied first.

⁷ The Federal Council may cap the fee payable for drawing up the surety bond as a public deed.

Art. 494

III. Spouse's consent

² ... ²⁷⁴

²⁷⁴ Repealed by No I of the FA of 17 June 2005 (Sureties. Spouse's consent), with effect from 1 Dec. 2005 (AS 2005 5097; BBl 2004 4955 4965).

³ The spouse's consent to subsequent amendments of a contract of surety is required only where the total liability is to be increased or a simple surety is to be transformed into a joint and several surety, or where the effect of the amendment is to diminish the level of security substantially.

⁴ The same applies mutatis mutandis to registered partners.²⁷⁵

Art. 495

B. Substance
I. Particularities of different types
of surety
1. Simple surety

¹ The creditor may resort to a simple surety only if, after the surety was provided, the debtor is declared bankrupt or obtains a debt restructuring moratorium, or is the object of debt enforcement proceedings instigated with due diligence by the creditor which have resulted in the issue of a definitive certificate of loss, or has relocated his domicile abroad and can no longer be sued in Switzerland, or legal action against him in foreign courts has been substantially impeded as a result of such relocation.

² Where the claim is secured by pledges, a simple surety may require that the creditor satisfy his claim first from such pledges, provided the debtor has not been declared bankrupt or obtained a debt restructuring moratorium.

³ Where the surety has undertaken solely to cover any shortfall suffered by the creditor (indemnity bond), he may not be sued unless a definitive certificate of loss has been issued against the principal debtor or the latter has relocated his domicile abroad and can no longer be sued in Switzerland, or legal action against him in foreign courts has been substantially impeded as a result of such relocation. Where a composition agreement has been concluded, the surety may be sued for the remitted portion of the principal obligation immediately on the entry into force of the composition agreement.

⁴ Agreements to the contrary are reserved.

Art. 496

2. Joint and several surety

¹ Where a person stands surety for an obligation by appending the words "joint and several" or an equivalent phrase, the creditor may resort to him before suing the principal debtor and before realising property given in pledge provided the principal debtor has defaulted on his debt payments and has been issued with payment reminders to no avail or is manifestly insolvent.

² The creditor may resort to the surety before realising pledged chattels and debts only to the extent that these are deemed by the court unlikely to cover the debt or where such sequence was agreed or where the debtor has been declared bankrupt or obtained a debt restructuring moratorium.

²⁷⁵ Amended by Annex No 11 to the Same-Sex Partnership Act of 18 June 2004, in force since 1 Jan. 2007 (AS 2005 5685; BBl 2003 1288).

Art. 497

3. Co-surety

¹ Where two or more persons stand surety for a single divisible principal obligation, each of them is liable as simple surety for his share and as collateral surety for the shares of the others.

² Where they have assumed joint and several liability by agreement with the principal debtor or among themselves, each of them is liable for the whole obligation. However, a co-surety may refuse to pay more than his share where debt enforcement proceedings have not been commenced against all other jointly and severally liable co-sureties who entered into the contract of surety before him or at the same time and who may be sued for the obligation in Switzerland. He has the same right if his co-sureties have paid their share or furnished real security. Unless otherwise agreed, a co-surety who has paid his share has a right of recourse against other jointly and severally liable co-sureties to the extent that each of them has not yet paid his share. This right may be exercised before recourse against the principal debtor.

⁴ Where several persons have independently agreed to stand surety for the same principal obligation, each of them is liable for the whole amount of his own commitment. However, unless otherwise agreed, a surety who pays such amount has a right of recourse against the others for their respective shares.

Art. 498

4. Collateral surety and counter-surety

¹ A collateral surety who stands surety to the creditor for performance of the obligation assumed by the primary surety is liable together with the latter in the same way as a simple surety is liable with the principal debtor.

² A counter-surety stands surety for the right of recourse against the debtor accruing to the primary surety who honours his commitment.

Art. 499
 II. Common provisions
 1. Relationship between the surety and the creditor
 a. Scope of liability

¹ In all cases, the surety's liability is limited to the maximum amount indicated in the surety bond.

² Unless otherwise agreed, he is liable up to this limit for:

1. the amount of the principal obligation, including the legal consequences of any fault or default on the part of the principal debtor, but not for damage resulting from the extinction of the contract and any contractual penalty unless this was expressly agreed;

2. the costs of debt enforcement proceedings and legal action brought against the principal debtor, provided that the surety was given timely opportunity to avoid them by satisfying the creditor, and, where applicable, for the costs of delivering pledges and transferring liens;
3. interest at the contractually agreed rate up to a maximum of the interest payable for the current year and the previous year or, where applicable, for the annual payments due for the current year and the previous year.

³ Unless otherwise provided by the contract or dictated by the circumstances, the surety is liable only for the principal debtor's obligations arising after the contract of surety was concluded.

Art. 500

b. Reduction of liability by court order

¹ Unless otherwise agreed at the outset or by subsequent amendment, the amount for which a surety who is a natural person is liable decreases every year by three per cent or, where the claim is secured by mortgage, by one per cent of the original maximum liability. In all cases where the surety is a natural person, the amount decreases in at least the same proportion as the obligation.

² This does not apply to contracts of surety in favour of the Confederation or its public institutions or in favour of a canton for the performance public law obligations such as customs duties, taxes and the like, and for freight charges, or to contracts of surety for the performance of official and civil service obligations or for obligations of variable amount, such as current accounts and contracts for delivery by instalments, and for periodic, recurrent obligations.

Art. 501

c. Resort to the surety

¹ The creditor may not apply to the surety in respect of the principal obligation before the date fixed for its payment even if such date is brought forward following the principal debtor's bankruptcy.

² Under a contract of surety of any type, in exchange for furnishing real security, the surety may request that the court suspend the debt enforcement proceedings against him until all pledges have been realised and a definitive certificate of loss has been issued against the principal debtor or a composition agreement has been concluded with the creditors.

³ Where the principal obligation may not fall due without notice being served by the creditor or the principal debtor, the time limit for the surety does not commence until the date on which he receives such notice.

⁴ Where the obligation of a principal debtor residing abroad is annulled or restricted by foreign legislation, such as by provisions relating to clearing systems or a ban on currency transfers, a surety resident in Switzerland may also rely on such legislation unless he has waived this defence.

Art. 502

d. Defences

¹ The surety is entitled and obliged to plead against the creditor all defences open to the principal debtor or his heirs which are not based on the insolvency of the principal debtor. Suretyship for obligations that are not binding on the principal debtor owing to error or incapacity to make a contract or for time-barred obligations is reserved.

² Where the principal debtor waives a defence that is open to him, the surety may nevertheless plead it.

⁴ A person who stands surety for an obligation that is not actionable because it stems from gambling or betting may plead the same defences as are open to the principal debtor even if he was aware of that defect.

Art. 503

e. Creditor's duty of diligence and duty to release documents and pledges

¹ Where the liens and other securities and preferential rights furnished when the contract of surety is concluded or subsequently obtained from the principal debtor for the specific purpose of securing the claim under surety are reduced by the creditor to the detriment of the surety, the latter's liability is decreased by an equal amount unless it can be proven that the damage is less. Claims for restitution of the over-paid amount are unaffected.

² Moreover, in the case of contracts of surety for the performance of official and civil service obligations, the creditor is liable to the surety if, as a result of his failure to supervise the employee as required or to act with the diligence that could reasonably be expected of him, the obligation arose or increased to an extent that it would not have otherwise reached.²⁷⁶

³ On being satisfied by the surety, the creditor is required to furnish him with such documents and information as are required to exercise his rights. The creditor must also release to him the liens and other securities furnished when the contract of surety was concluded or subsequently obtained from the principal debtor for the specific purpose of securing the claim under surety or must take the requisite measures to facilitate their transfer. This does not apply to liens and rights of pledge held by the creditor in relation to other claims where they take precedence over those of the surety.

4 Where the creditor refuses without just cause to take such measures or has alienated the available evidence or the pledges and other securities for which he is responsible in bad faith or through gross negligence, the surety is released from his liability. He may demand the return of sums already paid and seek compensation for any further damage incurred.

Art. 504

f. Right to demand acceptance of payment

1 As soon as the principal obligation falls due, even as a result of the bankruptcy of the principal debtor, the surety may at any time demand that the creditor accept satisfaction from him. Where several persons stand surety for an obligation, the creditor is obliged to accept even a part payment, provided it at least equals the share of the surety offering payment.

2 Where the creditor refuses without just cause to accept payment, the surety is released from his liability. In this event the liability of all other jointly and severally liable co-sureties is decreased by the amount of his share.

3 If the creditor is prepared to accept satisfaction, the surety may pay him even before the principal obligation falls due. However, the surety has no right of recourse against the principal debtor until the obligation falls due.

Art. 505

g. Creditor's duty to notify and to register his claim in bankruptcy and composition proceedings

1 Where the debtor is six months in arrears in the payment of capital, interest accrued over half a year or an annual repayment, the creditor must notify the surety. The creditor must inform the surety of the status of the principal obligation on request.

2 In the event of bankruptcy or composition proceedings concerning the principal debtor, the creditor must register his claim and do everything conscionable to safeguard his rights. He must inform the surety of the bankruptcy or debt restructuring moratorium as soon as he himself learns of it.

3 Should the creditor fail to take any of these actions, he forfeits his claims against the surety to the extent of any damage to the latter resulting from such failure.

2. Relationship between surety and principal debtor
 a. Right to security and release

Art. 506

The surety may require that the principal debtor furnish security and demand his release from liability once the principal obligation falls due:

1. where the principal debtor breaches the agreements made with the surety, and in particular his promise to release the surety by a certain date;
2. where the principal debtor is in default or has relocated his domicile abroad and legal action against him in foreign courts has been substantially impeded as a result;
3. where the surety faces substantially greater risks than when he agreed to offer the surety because of a deterioration in the principal debtor's financial situation, a decrease in the value of the security furnished or the fault of the principal debtor.

Art. 507

b. Surety's right of recourse
 aa. In general

¹ The surety is subrogated to the creditor's rights to the extent that he has satisfied him. The surety may exercise these as soon as the obligation falls due.

³ Special claims and defences arising from the legal relationship between the surety and the principal debtor are reserved.

⁵ The prescriptive period for the surety's right of recourse commences on satisfaction of the creditor by the surety.

⁶ The surety has no right of recourse against the principal debtor for payment of any obligation that is not actionable or not binding on the principal debtor as a result of error or incapacity to make a contract. However, if he has assumed liability for a time-barred obligation at the behest of the principal debtor, the latter is liable to him pursuant to the provisions governing mandates.

Art. 508

bb. Surety's duty to notify

¹ Where the surety pays the principal obligation in full or in part, he must notify the principal debtor.

² If he fails to do so and the principal debtor pays it again because he was not and could not be expected to be aware of the surety's payment, the surety forfeits his right of recourse against the principal debtor.

³ This does not affect any claim against the creditor for unjust enrichment.

Art. 509

C. Termination of the contract of surety
I. By operation of law

¹ The surety is released as soon as the principal obligation is extinguished for whatever reason.

² Where the same person is both principal debtor and surety, the creditor retains the special privileges conferred by the contract of surety.

³ Any surety given by a natural person is extinguished once twenty years have elapsed from the date on which the contract was entered into. This does not apply to contracts of surety in favour of the Confederation or its public institutions or in favour of a canton for the performance of public law obligations such as customs duties, taxes and the like, and for freight charges, or to contracts of surety for the performance of official and civil service obligations and for periodic, recurrent obligations.

⁵ The contract of surety may be extended by means of a written declaration by the surety for an additional period of no more than ten years. However, the written declaration is valid only if done no earlier than one year before the contract expires.

⁶ Where the principal obligation becomes payable less than two years before the contract of surety expires and the creditor was unable to give notice to terminate it sooner, under a contract of surety of any type the creditor is entitled to resort to the surety without prior recourse to the principal debtor or the pledges. However, the surety has a right of recourse against the principal debtor even before the principal obligation becomes payable.

Art. 510

II. Fixed-term contract of surety; revocation

¹ A contract of surety for a future obligation may be revoked by the surety at any time by means of a written declaration to the creditor, provided that the obligation has not yet arisen, where the principal debtor's financial situation has substantially deteriorated since the contract was concluded or where it subsequently transpires that his financial situation is substantially worse than the surety had in good faith assumed. Contracts of surety for the performance of official and civil service obligations may no longer be revoked once the official or civil service relationship has come into being.

² The surety is liable to compensate the creditor for any damage resulting from the fact that he relied in good faith on the contract of surety.

⁴ Where the obligation is not due at that juncture, the surety may exempt himself from liability only by furnishing real security.

⁵ If he fails to do so, the contract of surety remains valid, subject to the provision governing the maximum duration of contracts of surety, as if the agreed duration had been until the obligation falls due.

Art. 511

III. Open-ended contract of surety

¹ Where a contract of surety is concluded for an indefinite term, once the principal debtor's obligation falls due the surety may, where action may be brought only on such conditions, request that the creditor assert his claim within a period of four weeks, instigate proceedings to realise any existing pledges and pursue his claim without significant interruption.

² In the case of claims that fall due on expiry of a period of notice served by the creditor, once one year has elapsed since the contract of surety was concluded, the surety has the right to request that the creditor serve notice and, once the obligation is due, exercise his rights in accordance with para. 1.

³ The surety is released if the creditor does not comply with such request.

Art. 512

IV. Contracts of surety for official and civil service obligations

¹ A contract of surety for the performance of official obligations concluded for an indefinite term may be terminated subject to one year's notice expiring at the end of a term of office.

² Where there is no fixed term of office, the surety may terminate the contract by giving one year's notice expiring at the end of a four-year period commencing when the office was taken up.

³ A person standing surety for the performance of civil service obligations for an indefinite term has the same right to give notice of termination as under an open-ended contract of surety for official obligations.

⁴ Agreements to the contrary are unaffected.

Title Twenty-One: Gambling and Betting

Art. 513

A. No actionable claim

1 Gambling and betting do not give rise to a claim.

2 The same applies to advances or loans knowingly made for the purposes of gambling or betting and to contracts for difference and transactions for delivery of commodities or securities that are speculative in character.

Art. 514

B. Debentures and voluntary payment

1 A promissory note or bill of exchange signed by the gambler or bettor to cover the sum gambled or bet may not be enforced even following delivery of the instrument, subject to the rights that securities confer on bona fide third parties.

2 A voluntary payment may be reclaimed only where the intended gambling or betting activity could not take place as a result of chance occurrence or the actions of the recipient, or where the latter has committed an impropriety.

Art. 515

C. Lotteries and prize draws

1 Lotteries and prize draws give rise to a claim only where they have been approved by the competent authority.

2 In the absence of such approval, the claim is treated as a gambling claim.

3 Lotteries or draws authorised abroad do not enjoy legal protection in Switzerland unless the competent Swiss authority has authorised the sale of tickets.

Art. 515^{a277}

D. Gambling in casinos, loans from casinos

Games of chance in casinos give rise to claims where they take place in a casino licensed by the competent authority.

Title Twenty-Two: Life Annuity and the Lifetime Maintenance Agreements

Art. 516

A. Life annuity agreement
I. Nature

¹ A life annuity may be created for the lifetime of the annuitant, the grantor or a third party.

² In the absence of any specific agreement, the presumption is that it is settled for the life of the annuitant.

³ Unless otherwise agreed, an annuity settled for the life of the grantor or of a third party passes to the heirs of the annuitant.

Art. 517

II. Formal requirement

The life annuity agreement is valid only if done in writing.

Art. 518

III. Rights of the annuitant
1. Exercise of entitlement

¹ Unless otherwise agreed, the life annuity is payable every six months in advance.

² If the person on whom the life annuity is settled dies before the end of the period for which it is payable in advance, the grantor owes the full amount.

³ If the grantor is declared bankrupt, the annuitant may assert his entitlements by bringing a capital claim for the amount that would be required at the time the grantor is declared bankrupt to establish an equivalent contract of annuity with a reputable annuity institution.

Art. 519

2. Assignment²⁷⁸

² ...²⁷⁹

Art. 520

IV. Life annuities under the law governing insurance policies

²⁸⁰ SR 221.229.1

B. Lifetime maintenance agreement
I. Definition

Art. 521

¹ A lifetime maintenance agreement is a contract in which the beneficiary undertakes to transfer an estate or individual assets to the settlor in return for an undertaking to provide maintenance and care for his lifetime.

² If the settlor is appointed heir to the beneficiary, the entire relationship is subject to the provisions governing contracts of succession.

II. Conclusion
1. Form

Art. 522

¹ The lifetime maintenance agreement must be done in the same form as a contract of succession, even where it does not involve the designation of an heir.

² However, where it is concluded with a licensed care home on conditions approved by the competent authority, written form is sufficient.

2. Security

Art. 523

A beneficiary who transfers land to the other party retains a statutory lien on the property as security for his claims in the same manner as a seller.

III. Content

Art. 524

¹ The beneficiary becomes part of the settlor's household and the settlor is obliged to provide him such benefits as he might reasonably expect to receive in the light of the value of the assets transferred and his previous standard of living.

² The settlor is obliged to provide the beneficiary with appropriate accommodation and maintenance and, in the event of his illness, with the necessary care and medical treatment.

³ Subject to approval by the competent authority, care homes may adopt house rules whereby such benefits are incorporated as generally binding contractual terms.

IV. Challenge and reduction

Art. 525

¹ A lifetime maintenance agreement may be challenged by persons to whom the beneficiary has a legal duty of maintenance where conclusion of the agreement would deprive the beneficiary of the means of discharging such duty.

² Instead of rescinding the agreement, the court may order the settlor to maintain such persons, with any such maintenance being brought into account against the benefits owed to the beneficiary under the lifetime maintenance agreement.

³ Actions in abatement by heirs and legal challenges by creditors are reserved.

Art. 526

V. Termination
1. Notice

¹ The lifetime maintenance agreement may be terminated by either party at any time subject to six months' notice, where according to the agreement the performance of one party is substantially greater in value than that of the other and the party benefiting from such imbalance cannot show that the other intended it as a gift.

² The decisive criterion here is the relation between the capital and the life annuity according to the principles applied by any reputable annuity institution.

³ Performance already rendered at the time of termination is returned after its capitalised value plus interest has been set off.

Art. 527

2. Unilateral termination

² Where the agreement is terminated on such grounds, the party at fault must pay adequate compensation to the innocent party in addition to returning the performance received.

³ Instead of rescinding the agreement, at the request of one party or of its own accord the court may dissolve the joint household and award a life annuity to the beneficiary by way of compensation.

Art. 528

3. Termination on the death of the settlor

¹ On the death of the settlor the beneficiary may within one year insist that the agreement be terminated.

² In this event, he has a claim against the heirs equivalent to the claim he would have in the event of the settlor's bankruptcy.

Art. 529

VI. Non-transferable claim, asserting claim in the event of bankruptcy and seizure

² In the event of the settlor's bankruptcy, the beneficiary has a claim equivalent to the capital that would be required to acquire from a reputable annuity institution a life annuity equal in value to the benefits owed to him by the settlor.

³ In the case of debt enforcement by attachment, the beneficiary may participate in the attachment in respect of this claim without need to bring prior enforcement proceedings.

Title Twenty-Three: The Simple Partnership

Art. 530

A. Definition

¹ A partnership is a contractual relationship in which two or more persons agree to combine their efforts or resources in order to achieve a common goal.

² A simple partnership within the meaning of this Title is any partnership that does not fulfil the distinctive criteria of any of the other types of partnership codified herein.

Art. 531

B. Relationship between partners I. Contributions

¹ Each partner must make a contribution, which may be money, objects, claims or labour.

² Unless otherwise agreed, contributions must be equal and of the nature and size required to achieve the partnership's purpose.

³ The bearing of risk by and warranty obligations of the partners are governed mutatis mutandis by the rules on leases where a contribution involves the transfer by an individual partner of the use of an object, and by the rules governing contracts of sale where it involves transfer of title.

Art. 532

II. Profit and loss 1. Profit sharing

Each partner is obliged to share with his fellow partners any profit which by nature belongs to the partnership.

Art. 533

2. Participation in profits and losses

¹ Unless otherwise agreed, each partner has an equal share in profits and losses regardless of the nature and amount of his contribution.

² Where only the partner's share in the profits or his share in the losses is agreed, such agreement applies to both.

³ It is permitted to agree that a partner whose contribution to the common purpose consists of labour will participate in the profits but not in the losses.

Art. 534

III. Partnership resolutions

¹ Partnership resolutions are made with the consent of all partners.

² Where the partnership agreement provides for resolutions to be passed by majority vote, it is defined as a numerical majority of the partners.

Art. 535

IV. Management of partnership business

¹ All partners have the right to manage the partnership unless the task is entrusted exclusively to one or more partners or to third parties by agreement or resolution.

² Where all or several partners have the right to manage the partnership, each of them may act without the involvement of the others, although every other partner authorised to manage the partnership has the right to object to and thereby forestall any management action before it is carried out.

³ The unanimous consent of all the partners is required to appoint a general attorney or to carry out transactions which transcend the scope of ordinary business, unless there is risk in delay.

Art. 536

V. Liability between partners
1. Prohibition of competition

No partner may carry out transactions for his own benefit which thwart or obstruct the purpose of the partnership.

Art. 537

2. Claims arising from partnership activities

¹ Where one partner incurs expenses or contracts liabilities in connection with affairs conducted on behalf of the partnership or suffers losses as a direct consequence of his management activities or the intrinsically associated risks, the other partners share his liability.

² A partner who makes cash advances on behalf of the partnership may claim interest as of the date on which they were made.

³ By contrast, he is not entitled to remuneration for his personal services.

Art. 538

3. Due diligence

¹ Each partner must conduct partnership affairs with the diligence and care that he would normally devote to his own affairs.

² He is liable to the other partners for any damage caused through his fault and may not set off against such damage the benefits obtained for the partnership in his other activities.

³ Managing partners who are remunerated for their management services are liable in accordance with the provisions governing mandates.

Art. 539

VI. Withdrawal and restriction of management authority

¹ The management authority granted to one of the partners under the partnership agreement may not be withdrawn or restricted by the other partners without good cause.

² Where good cause exists, authority may be withdrawn by each of the other partners even where the partnership agreement provides otherwise.

³ In particular, good cause is deemed to exist where the managing partner is guilty of a serious breach of his duties or has become incapable of proper management of the partnership's affairs.

Art. 540

VII. Managing partners and other partners
1. In general

¹ Unless this Title or the partnership agreement provides otherwise, the relationship between the managing partners and the other partners is subject to the provisions governing mandates.

² Where a partner who lacks management authority conducts business on the partnership's behalf or a managing partner exceeds his management authority, the provisions governing agency without authority apply.

Art. 541

2. Right to information on the affairs of the partnership

¹ A partner who lacks management authority has the right to receive information on the status of the partnership's affairs, to inspect its books and documents and to obtain a summary statement of its financial position for his personal information.

² Any contrary agreement is void.

Art. 542

VIII. Admission of new partners and sub-participation

¹ No partner may admit a third party into the partnership without the consent of the other partners.

² Where a partner unilaterally grants a third party a participation in his own share in the partnership or assigns his entire share to the third party, the latter does not become a partner and in particular does not acquire any right to information on partnership affairs.

Art. 543

C. Relationship between partners and third parties
I. Representation

¹ A partner who deals with a third party on behalf of the partnership but in his own name acquires rights and obligations as against that third party in a purely individual capacity.

² Where a partner deals with a third party in the name of the partnership or all the partners, the other partners acquire rights and obligations as against that third party only to the extent envisaged by the provisions governing representation.

³ A partner is presumed empowered to represent the partnership or all the partners in dealings with third parties as soon as management authority is conferred on him.

Art. 544

II. Effects of representation

¹ Objects, rights in rem and claims transferred to or acquired for the partnership belong jointly to the partners as stipulated in the partnership agreement.

² Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the creditors of a partner may claim only the share in the proceeds of liquidation of that partner by way of satisfaction.

³ Subject to contrary agreement, partners are jointly and severally liable for obligations to third parties contracted jointly or through representatives.

Art. 545

D. Dissolution
I. Grounds for dissolution
1. In general

1. where the purpose of the partnership has been achieved or become impossible to achieve;
2. on the death of one of the partners, unless it was previously agreed that the partnership would continue with his heirs;
- 3.²⁸¹ where the share in the proceeds of liquidation of a partner is subject to compulsory sale or one of the partners is declared bankrupt or made subject to a general deputyship;
4. by unanimous decision of the partners;
5. on expiry of the period for which the partnership was established;
6. by notice of termination served by one of the partners, where such right was reserved in the partnership agreement or the partnership was established for an indefinite duration or for the lifetime of one of the partners;
7. by court²⁸² judgment in cases of dissolution for good cause.

² The dissolution of the partnership may be requested for good cause before the duration of the partnership agreement expires or, where it was established for an indefinite duration, with immediate effect.

²⁸¹ Amended by Annex No 10 of the FA of 19 Dec. 2008 (Adult Protection, Law of Persons and Law of Children), in force since 1 Jan. 2013 (AS 2011 725; BBl 2006 7001).

²⁸² Amendment not relevant to the English text.

Art. 546

2. Partnership of indefinite duration

1 Where the partnership was established for an indefinite duration or for the lifetime of one of the partners, each partner may terminate the partnership by giving six months' notice.

2 Notice must be given in good faith and not at an inopportune juncture and, where an annual accounting period is envisaged, it must expire at the end of a financial year.

3 Where on expiry of the term for which it had been established the partnership is tacitly continued, it is deemed renewed for an indefinite duration.

Art. 547

II. Effect of dissolution on business management

1 Where the partnership is dissolved for any reason other than notice of termination, a partner retains his authority to manage the partnership's business until he learns of the dissolution or ought to have learned of it had he shown due diligence.

2 Where the partnership is dissolved on the death of a partner, the heir of the deceased must inform the other partners of his death without delay and continue in good faith to attend to the partnership affairs of the deceased until the requisite arrangements have been made.

3 The other partners must likewise continue to manage the partnership's business in the interim.

Art. 548

III. Liquidation
1. Treatment of contributions

1 Contributions to the partnership do not simply revert to those who made them in the liquidation that the partners must carry out after the partnership is dissolved.

2 However, each partner is entitled to the value for which his contribution was accepted.

3 Where no such value was determined, his claim is for the value of the contribution at the time it was made.

Art. 549

2. Division of surplus and deficit

1 Where a surplus remains after satisfaction of partnership debts, reimbursement of the expenses incurred and advances made by each partner and return of the value of contributions, it is divided as profit among the partners.

2 Where, after satisfaction of debts and the reimbursement of expenses and advances, the partnership's assets are not sufficient to cover the return of contributions, the shortfall is borne equally by the partners as a loss.

3. Liquidation method

Art. 550

¹ The liquidation following the dissolution of the partnership must be carried out jointly by all partners, including those without management authority.

² However, where the partnership agreement related only to certain specific transactions to be carried out by one partner in his own name but on behalf of the partnership, that partner must carry out such transactions and give account of them to the other partners even after the partnership has been dissolved.

IV. Liability towards third parties

Art. 551

The dissolution of the partnership does not affect obligations entered into with third parties.

² Any contrary agreement between partners is void as against third parties.

³ However, a partner may not be held personally liable for a partnership debt, even after he leaves the partnership, unless he has been declared bankrupt or the partnership has been dissolved or debt enforcement proceedings have been brought against it without success. This does not apply to a partner's liability under a joint and several contract of surety concluded in favour of the partnership.

Art. 569

II. Liability of new partners

¹ A person joining a general partnership is jointly and severally liable with his entire assets together with the other partners even for the partnership's obligations that predate his accession.

² Any contrary agreement between partners is void as against third parties.

Art. 570

III. Insolvency of the partnership

¹ The partnership's creditors are entitled to satisfaction from the partnership's assets to the exclusion of the personal creditors of the individual partners.

² Partners have no claim as creditors in insolvency for their capital contributions and accrued interest, but may assert claims for interest already due, fees and any expenses incurred on the partnership's behalf.

Art. 571

IV. Insolvency of the partnership and bankruptcy of the partners

¹ The insolvency of the partnership does not result in the bankruptcy of the partners.

² Likewise, the bankruptcy of one of the partners does not result in the insolvency of the partnership.

³ The rights of partnership creditors in the event of the bankruptcy of a partner are governed by the Debt Collection and Bankruptcy Act of 11 April 1889²⁸⁹.

Art. 572

D. Position of personal creditors of partners

¹ The personal creditors of a partner have no rights to the partnership's assets for the purposes of satisfying or securing their claims.

² Enforcement proceedings brought by them are limited to the interest, fees, profit and share in the proceeds of liquidation payable to their debtor in his capacity as partner.

Art. 573

E. Set off

³ Where an action for dissolution of the partnership is brought, on application by one of the parties the court may order provisional measures.

Art. 575

B. Termination by personal creditors

¹ In the event of the bankruptcy of a partner, the bankruptcy administration may petition for dissolution of the partnership by giving at least six months' notice even where the partnership was formed for a fixed term.

² The same right accrues to a creditor who has attached the share in the proceeds of liquidation of a partner indebted to him.

³ However, until such dissolution has been entered in the commercial register, the partnership or the other partners may prevent the notice from taking effect by satisfying the bankrupt estate or the creditor pursuing his claim.

Art. 576

C. Withdrawal of partners I. Agreement

Where the partners agreed prior to dissolution that, notwithstanding the withdrawal of one or more partners, the partnership will be continued by the remaining partners, it ceases to exist only for those that leave; in other respects it continues with all existing rights and obligations.

Art. 577

II. Exclusion by court order

Where there is good cause for the dissolution of the partnership that pertains chiefly to the person of one or more partners, at the request of all the other partners the court may rule that the partner or partners in question be excluded from the partnership and that their shares of the partnership's assets be allocated to them.

Art. 578

III. Exclusion by the other partners

Where a partner is declared bankrupt or a creditor who has attached the share in the proceeds of liquidation of a partner indebted to him requests that the partnership be dissolved, the other partners may exclude the partner in question and allocate his share of the partnership's assets to him.

Art. 579

IV. In the case of two partners

¹ Where the partnership comprises two partners only, the partner who has not given rise to any cause for dissolution may, on the same conditions, continue the partnership's affairs and allocate the other partner's share of the partnership's assets to him.

² The court may issue an order to the same effect where dissolution has been requested for good cause pertaining chiefly to the person of one of the partners.

Art. 580

V. Determining the share

¹ The amount payable to a partner leaving the partnership is determined by agreement.

² Where no provision is made on this matter in the partnership agreement and the parties cannot reach agreement, the court determines the amount with due regard to the asset position of the partnership at the time the partner leaves and any fault attributable to the departing partner.

Art. 581

VI. Registration

The departure of a partner and the continuation of the partnership's affairs by one of the partners must be entered in the commercial register.

Art. 581a²⁹⁰

Art. 583

B. Liquidators

¹ The liquidation is carried out by the partners who are authorised to represent the partnership, unless they are prevented from so doing for reasons pertaining to their person or the partners agree to appoint other liquidators.

² At the request of a partner, for good cause the court may dismiss certain liquidators and appoint others to replace them.

³ The liquidators are entered in the commercial register, even where the representation of the partnership remains unchanged.

Art. 584

C. Representation of heirs

The heirs of a partner must appoint a joint representative for the purpose of the liquidation.

Art. 585

D. Rights and obligations of the liquidators

² They represent the partnership in all transactions carried out for liquidation purposes, are entitled to conduct legal proceedings, reach settlements, conclude arbitration agreements and even, where required for liquidation purposes, effect new transactions.

⁴ The partnership is liable for any damage resulting from torts committed by a liquidator in the exercise of his function.

Art. 586

E. Provisional distribution

¹ Funds and other assets not required during the liquidation are distributed among the partners on a provisional basis and brought into account against their final share in the proceeds of liquidation.

² The funds required to cover disputed obligations or obligations not yet due must be retained.

Art. 587

Art. 589

G. Deletion from the commercial register

On completion of the liquidation, the liquidators apply to have the partnership's business name deleted from the commercial register.

Art. 590

H. Archiving of ledgers and other documents

¹ The ledgers and other documents of the dissolved partnership are kept for ten years commencing on the date of the partnership's deletion from the commercial register at a location designated by the partners or, if they cannot reach agreement, by the registrar.

² The partners and their heirs retain the right to inspect the ledgers and other documents.

Section Six: Prescription

Art. 591

A. Object and prescriptive period

¹ Claims of partnership creditors against a partner for partnership debts prescribe five years after the notice of his withdrawal or of the dissolution of the partnership is published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce, unless the debt is by its nature subject to a shorter prescriptive period.

²⁹¹ Term in accordance with No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBl 2017 399). This amendment has been made in the provisions specified in the AS.

² Where the debt does not fall due until after such notice, the prescriptive period commences on the due date.

³ Prescription does not apply to claims between partners.

Art. 592

B. Special cases ¹ The five-year prescriptive period may not be invoked against a creditor seeking satisfaction solely from undivided partnership assets.

² Where a partner takes over the partnership's business with all its assets and liabilities, he may not invoke the five-year prescriptive period against its creditors. By contrast, for partners who have left the partnership, the five-year prescriptive period is replaced by the three-year prescriptive period in accordance with the principles governing assumption of debt; the same applies in the event that a third party takes over the partnership's business with all its assets and liabilities.²⁹²

Art. 593

² The capital may be reduced by reducing the nominal value or by cancelling shares.

³ The share capital may only be reduced below 100,000 francs provided it is at the same time increased again at least to this amount. If the share capital is in a foreign currency, it must be replaced by capital with a value equivalent to at least 100,000 francs.

⁴ An application to register the reduction of the share capital must be filed with the commercial register office within six months of the resolution of the general meeting, otherwise the resolution becomes invalid.

Art. 653^{k400}

b. Securing claims

The notice must be published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce. Applications to register claims must be made in writing, specifying the amount of and legal grounds for the claim.

² The company must secure the creditors' claims to the extent that the previous cover has been reduced by the capital reduction, provided the creditors request it to do so within 30 days of publication in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce.

³ The obligation to secure claims lapses if the company meets the claim or proves that there is no risk that the claim will not be met as a result of reducing the share capital. If the audit confirmation is available, it may be presumed that there is no risk that the claim will not be met.

² However, the provisions relating to an ordinary capital increase apply mutatis mutandis.

³ The board of directors need not amend the articles of association, provided the number and the nominal value of the shares and the amount of the contributions made thereon remain unchanged.

Art. 653^r⁴⁰⁷

b. Cancellation of shares

¹ If the share capital is reduced to zero for the purpose of restructuring and then increased again, the current membership rights of the shareholders lapse at the time of the reduction. Issued shares must be cancelled.

² The upper limit of the capital band may not exceed the share capital specified in the commercial register by more than half. The lower limit of the capital band may not be less than half of the share capital specified in the commercial register.

³ The articles of association may restrict the powers of the board of directors. They may in particular provide that the board of directors may only increase or only reduce the share capital.

³ The dividend rights certificate must not have a nominal value; it must not be called a participation certificate or issued in exchange for a capital contribution stated as an asset in the balance sheet.

⁵ Dividend rights certificates may be created in favour of the company's founder members only by means of the original articles of association.

L. Own shares
I. Requirements
for and requisition

¹ The company may acquire its own shares only where freely disposable equity capital is available at its acquisition value.

² The acquisition by a company of its own shares is limited to 10 per cent of the share capital specified in the commercial register.

³ If the acquisition is connected with a restriction on transferability or an action for dissolution, the foregoing upper limit is 20 per cent. The shares that exceed the threshold of 10 per cent must be sold or cancelled by means of a capital reduction within two years.

Art. 659a⁴³⁴

II. Consequences

³ If the right to vote is exercised, even though it is suspended, the provisions governing unauthorised participation in the general meeting (Art. 691) apply.

⁴ The company must indicate an amount equivalent to the cost of acquiring its own shares on its balance sheet as negative items in the equity capital (Art. 959a para. 2 no 3 let. e).

Art. 659b⁴³⁵

I. Dividends

¹ No interest may be paid on the share capital.

Art. 675a⁴⁵⁷

II. Interim dividends

¹ The general meeting may resolve to pay an interim dividend based on an interim account.

² The external auditor must review the interim account before the general meeting passes the resolution. No audit is required if the company is not required to have its annual accounts reviewed by an external auditor in a limited audit. The audit may be dispensed with if all the shareholders agree to paying the interim dividend and the creditors' claims are not put at risk thereby.

³ The provisions governing dividends apply (Art. 660 para. 1 and 3, 661, 671–674, 675 para. 2, 677, 678, 731 and 958e).

2 If the company is expanded by means of an issue of new shares, the resolution concerning the capital increase may provide for a specified amount of interest to be paid on the new shares from the investment account until a precisely defined date, which must be no later than the date on which the new operational facility commences operations.

Art. 677⁴⁵⁹

IV. Shares of profits paid to board members⁴⁶⁰

Shares of the profit may be paid to members of the board of directors only out of the disposable profit and only after the allocation to the legal reserve has been made and a dividend of 5 per cent or a higher percentage laid down by the articles of association has been paid to the shareholders.

Art. 678⁴⁶¹

E. Repayment of benefits
I. In general

1 Shareholders, members of the board of directors, persons involved in the company's management activities and members of the board of advisors and their close associates are required to repay any dividends, shares of profits paid to board members, other shares of profits, remuneration, interest before commencement of operations, statutory capital reserves and retained earnings or other benefits that they have unduly taken.

2 If the company accepts assets from such persons or if it enters into other forms of legal transaction with them, these persons shall be required to repay the assets concerned where there is an obvious discrepancy between the performance and the consideration.

3 Article 64 applies.

4 The claim for repayment is that of the company and the shareholder. The shareholder's claim is for performance to the company.

5 The general meeting may resolve that the company raise an action for repayment. They may delegate the conduct of the proceedings to the board of directors or a representative.

⁶ In the event of the company's bankruptcy, Article 757 applies mutatis mutandis.

Art. 678a⁴⁶²

II. Prescription

¹ The claim for repayment is subject to a prescriptive period of three years from when the company or the shareholder became aware of the matter, or in any event ten years from the claim arising. This period is suspended during a procedure for ordering a special investigation and the conduct of that investigation.

² If the recipient has by their conduct committed a criminal offence, the claim for repayment prescribes at the earliest when the right to prosecute the offence becomes time-barred. If the right to prosecute can no longer become time-barred because a first instance criminal judgment has been issued, the claim prescribes at the earliest three years after notice of the judgment is given.

Art. 679⁴⁶³

III. Shares of profits paid to board members on insolvency⁴⁶⁴

¹ Where the company is declared insolvent, the members of the board of directors must return all shares of profits paid to board members received in the three years prior to commencement of insolvency proceedings, unless they can show that the conditions for payment of such shares of profits paid to board members set out in law and the articles of association were met; in particular, they must show that the payment was based on prudent accounting.

Art. 681

II. Consequences of default
1. By law and the articles of association

¹ A shareholder who fails to pay in the issue amount for their share in good time is obliged to pay default interest.

² Further, the board⁴⁶⁶ of directors has the power to declare that the defaulting shareholder has forfeited their rights in respect of the share subscription and any part payments already made and that their shares are forfeited and to issue new ones in their place. Where the forfeited shares have already been issued and cannot be physically obtained, the declaration of forfeiture is published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce and in the form provided for in the articles of association.

³ The articles of association may also provide that a shareholder in default also be required to pay a contractual penalty.

Art. 682

2. Call for performance

¹ Where the board of directors intends to declare the defaulting shareholder in forfeit of his rights in respect of the share subscription or to require him to pay the contractual penalty provided for in the articles of association, it must make a call for payment in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce and in the form provided for by the articles of association and set a grace period for such payment of at least 30 days commencing on the date on which the last call was published.⁴⁶⁷ The shareholder may be declared in forfeit of his rights in respect of the share subscription or required to pay the contractual penalty only if he fails to make the required payment within such grace period.

² In the case of registered shares, such publication is replaced by a registered letter sent to each shareholder entered in the share register calling for payment and setting the grace period. In this case the grace period commences on receipt of the call for payment.

³ The defaulting shareholder is liable to the company for the amount not covered by the contributions of the new shareholder.

Art. 683

G. Issue and transfer of shares
I. Bearer shares

¹ Bearer shares may be issued only after the full nominal value has been paid up.

² Shares issued before the full nominal value is paid up are void. Claims for damages are reserved.

⁴⁶⁶ Term in accordance with No II 3 of the FA of 4 Oct. 1991, in force since 1 July 1992 (AS 1992 733; BBl 1983 II 745). This amendment has been taken into account throughout the Code.

Art. 684⁴⁶⁸

II. Registered shares

¹ Unless otherwise provided by law or the articles of association, the company's registered shares are transferable without restriction.

² Transfer by means of transaction may also be effected by handing over the endorsed share certificate to the acquirer.

Art. 685⁴⁶⁹

H. Restricted transferability
I. Statutory restriction

¹ Registered shares that have not yet been fully paid up may be transferred only with the consent of the company, unless they are acquired by inheritance, division of estate, matrimonial property law or compulsory execution.

² The company may withhold consent only if the solvency of the acquirer is in doubt and the security requested by the company is not furnished.

Art. 685a⁴⁷⁰

II. Restrictions under the articles of association
1. General principles

¹ The articles of association may stipulate that registered shares may be transferred only with the consent of the company.

² This restriction also applies to establishment of a usufruct.

³ If the company goes into liquidation, the restriction on transferability is cancelled.

Art. 685b⁴⁷¹

2. Unlisted registered shares
a. Requirements for refusal

² Provisions governing the composition of the shareholder group which are designed to safeguard the pursuit of the company's objects or its economic independence are deemed to constitute good cause.

⁵ The acquirer may request the court at the seat of the company to determine the real value. The costs of the valuation are borne by the company.

⁶ Where the acquirer fails to decline such offer within a month of notification of the real value, it is deemed accepted.

⁷ The articles of association may not impose more restrictive conditions on transferability.

Art. 685^{c472}

b. Effect

¹ Where the consent required for transfer of shares is not given, the ownership of the shares and all attendant rights remain with the alienator.

² In the case of acquisition of shares by inheritance, division of estate, matrimonial property law or compulsory execution, ownership and the attendant pecuniary rights pass to the acquirer immediately, whereas the attendant participation rights pass to him only when the company has given its consent.

³ Where the company fails to refuse the request for consent within three months of receipt or refuses it without just cause, consent is deemed to have been given.

Art. 685^{d473}

3. Listed registered shares
a. Requirements for refusal

² The company may also refuse to accept an acquirer if at the company's request the acquirer fails to declare expressly that they have acquired the shares in their own name and for their own account, that there is no agreement to take back or return the shares concerned and that they bear the economic risk associated with the shares. The company may not refuse acceptance on the grounds that the request was made by the acquirer's bank.⁴⁷⁴

³ Where listed⁴⁷⁵ registered shares were acquired by inheritance, division of estate or matrimonial property law, entry of the acquirer may not be refused.

Art. 685e⁴⁷⁶

b. Duty of notification

Where listed registered shares are sold on a stock exchange, the selling bank must without delay notify the company of the name of the seller and the number of shares sold.

Art. 685f⁴⁷⁷

c. Transfer of rights

¹ Where listed registered shares are acquired on a stock exchange, the attendant rights pass to the acquirer on transfer. Where listed registered shares are acquired off-exchange, the attendant rights pass to the acquirer as soon as he has submitted a request for recognition as shareholder to the company.

² Until such recognition of the acquirer by the company, he may not exercise the right to vote conferred by the shares or any other rights associated with that right to vote. The acquirer is not restricted in his exercise of any other shareholder rights, in particular subscription rights.

³ Acquirers not yet recognised by the company are entered as shareholders without the right to vote in the share register once the rights have been transferred. The corresponding shares are deemed to be unrepresented at the general meeting.

⁴ Where the company's refusal is unlawful, the company must recognise the acquirer's right to vote and the rights associated therewith from the date of the court judgment and pay the acquirer damages unless it can show that it was not at fault.

Art. 685g⁴⁷⁸

d. Time limit for refusal

Where the company fails to refuse the request for recognition within 20 days, the shareholder is deemed to have been recognised.

³ Where a portion of the annual profit is paid out to holders of shares in the cooperative and that portion exceeds the usual rate of interest for long-term loans without special security, one-tenth of the amount by which it exceeds the usual interest rate must likewise be allocated to the reserve fund.

Art. 864

IV. Entitlement to settlement

1. Under the articles of association

1 The articles of association shall specify whether the departing members or their heirs have claims on the cooperative's assets and, if so, what those claims are. Such claims must be calculated on the basis of the net balance sheet assets excluding reserves at the time the member leaves the cooperative.

2 The articles of association may grant departing members or their heirs the right to the full or partial repayment of the value of their share certificate excluding the entry fee. They may stipulate that this repayment be deferred for up to three years after the member's departure.

3 Even where the articles of association make no such provision, the cooperative remains entitled to defer the repayment for up to three years where it would cause the cooperative considerable losses or jeopardise its continued existence. Any entitlement of the cooperative to a severance penalty paid by the departing member is unaffected by this provision.

4 The claims of departing members or their heirs prescribe three years after the time at which the settlement becomes payable by the cooperative.

Art. 865

2. By law

1 Where the articles of association make no provision for a settlement entitlement, departing members or their heirs have no such entitlement.

³ Where no payment is forthcoming on first request and the member fails to comply within one month of a second call for payment, the member may be declared to have forfeited their rights as member of the cooperative, providing they were previously warned of this consequence by registered letter.

⁴ Unless the articles of association provide otherwise, the declaration of forfeiture does not release the member from obligations already due or falling due by virtue of their exclusion.

Art. 868

III. Liability

1. Of the cooperative

The cooperative is liable with its assets for its obligations. It is liable exclusively, unless the articles of association provide otherwise.

Art. 869

2. Of the members

¹ Except in the case of licensed insurance cooperatives, the articles of association may provide that, after the cooperative's assets, the members have unlimited personal liability.

² Where this is the case and creditors suffer losses on the insolvency of the cooperative, the members are jointly and severally liable with their entire assets for all obligations of the cooperative. Claims in respect of this liability are brought by the insolvency administrators until the insolvency proceedings are complete.

Art. 870

b. Limited liability

¹ Except in the case of licensed insurance cooperatives, the articles of association may provide that, after the cooperative's assets, the members have limited personal liability for the cooperative's obligations above and beyond their membership contributions and the value of their cooperative shares, although only up to a specified amount.

² Where shares are held in the cooperative, the amount for which the individual members are liable is determined by the value of their share.

³ Claims in respect of this liability are brought by the insolvency administrators until the insolvency proceedings are complete.

Art. 871

c. Liability to make additional contributions

¹ Instead of or in addition to such liability, the articles of association may require the members to make additional contributions, which may be used only to cover net losses for the year.

² The liability to make additional contributions may be unlimited or else limited to specified amounts or to a specified proportion of the member's contribution or share in the cooperative.

³ Where the articles of association make no provision on how additional contributions are to be shared among the members, the amount due from each is determined according to the value of their shares in the cooperative or, where no such shares exist, on a per capita basis.

⁵ In other respects the provisions governing the calling-in of contributions and declaration of forfeiture are applicable.

Art. 872

d. Inadmissible restrictions

Any provisions made in the articles of association which limit liability to a specific time or to particular obligations or groups of members are void.

Art. 873

e. Procedure in insolvency

² Irrecoverable amounts must be spread equally among the other members, and surpluses repaid once the final distribution plan has been formulated. The members' right of recourse against each other is reserved.

³ The provisional determination of members' obligations and the distribution plan are subject to challenge by appeal on procedural grounds pursuant to the Debt Enforcement and Bankruptcy Act of 11 April 1889⁷²⁴.

⁴ The procedure is determined by Federal Council ordinance.⁷²⁵

² Furthermore, the provisions governing reductions of capital by companies limited by shares apply to any reduction or cancellation of share certificates.⁷²⁶

⁴ Where a member's personal liability or liability to make additional contributions is established or increased, on entry of the resolution in the commercial register it works in favour of all creditors of the cooperative.

Art. 875

g. Liability of new members

¹ A person joining a cooperative in which the members are personally liable or liable to make additional contributions has the same liability as the other members for the cooperative's obligations, including those that arose before the new member joined.

² Any contrary provision made in the articles of association or by agreement between the members has no effect against third parties.

Art. 876

h. Liability after departure or dissolution

¹ Where a member with limited or unlimited liability leaves the cooperative as a result of death or for some other reason, that member remains liable for the obligations arising prior to departure if the cooperative becomes insolvent within one year or any longer period stipulated in the articles of association of the date on which the departure was entered in the commercial register.

² Any liability to make additional contributions remains effective on the same conditions and subject to the same time limits.

³ Where a cooperative is dissolved, the members likewise remain liable or obliged to make additional contributions if insolvency proceedings are commenced in respect of the cooperative within one year or any longer period stipulated in the articles of association of the date on which such dissolution was entered in the commercial register.

Art. 877

i. Notification of accessions and departures for entry in the commercial register

¹ Where the members have limited or unlimited liability for the cooperative's debts or are liable to make additional contributions, the board must notify every accession or departure of a member for entry in the commercial register within three months.

² Further, every departing or excluded member and the heirs of a member have the right to have the member's departure, exclusion or death entered in the register on their initiative. The commercial register office must immediately notify the cooperative's board of any such notification.

³ Licensed insurance cooperatives are exempt from the duty to notify their members for entry in the commercial register.

Art. 878

k. Prescriptive periods for liability

¹ Creditors' claims in respect of the personal liability of individual members may be brought by any creditor at any time up to one year after completion of insolvency proceedings, unless the law provides for their extinction at an earlier juncture.

² It follows the recognised accounting principles. Particular note must be taken of the following:

1. the complete, truthful and systematic recording of transactions and circumstances;
2. documentary proof for individual accounting procedures;

⁴ Accounting is carried out in the national currency or in the currency required for business operations.

⁵ It is carried out in one of the official Swiss languages or in English. It may be carried out in writing, electronically or in a comparable manner.

Art. 958

C. Financial reporting
I. Aim and constituent elements

¹ Financial reporting is intended to present the economic position of the undertaking in such a manner that third parties can make a reliable assessment of the same.

² The accounts are filed in the annual report. This contains the annual accounts (the financial statements of the individual entity), comprising the balance sheet, the profit and loss account and the notes to the accounts. The regulations for larger undertakings and corporate groups are reserved.

³ The annual report must be prepared within six months of the end of the financial year and submitted to the responsible management body or the responsible persons for approval. It must be signed by the chairperson of the supreme management or administrative body and the person responsible for financial reporting within the undertaking.

Art. 958a

II. Principles of financial reporting

1. Going-concern assumption

¹ Financial reporting is based on the assumption that the undertaking will remain a going concern for the foreseeable future.

² If it is intended or probably inevitable that all or some activities will cease in the next twelve months from the balance sheet date, then the financial reports for the relevant parts of undertaking must be based on realisable values. Provisions must be made for expenditures associated with ceasing activities.

³ Derogations from the going-concern assumption must be specified in the notes to the accounts; their influence on the economic position must be explained.

Art. 958b

2. Chronological and material distinction

¹ Expenditure and income must be entered separately depending on the date and nature of the transaction.

² Provided the net proceeds from the sale of goods or services or financial income does not exceed 100,000 francs, accruals based on time may be dispensed with and instead based on expenditure and income.

³ If the financial reporting is not carried out in francs, the annual average exchange rate shall be applied to ascertain the value in accordance with paragraph 2.⁷⁸⁴

⁷⁸⁴ Inserted by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBl 2017 399).

financial reporting principles

¹ The following principles in particular apply to financial reports:

1. they must be clear and understandable;
2. they must be complete;
3. they must be reliable;
4. they must include the essential information;
5. they must be prudent;
6. the same rules must be applied in presentation and valuation;
7. assets and liabilities and income and expenditure may not be offset against each other.

² The sum entered for the individual items on the balance sheet and in the notes to the account must be proven by an inventory or by some other method.

³ Financial reports must be adapted to the special features of the undertaking and the sector while retaining the statutory minimum content.

Art. 958d

IV. Presentation, currency and language

¹ The balance sheet and the profit and loss account may be presented in account or in report form. Items that have no or a negligible value need not be shown separately.

² In the annual accounts, the corresponding values of the previous year must be shown alongside the figures for the relevant financial year.

⁴ Financial reports are presented in one of the official Swiss languages or in English.

Art. 958eD. Publication and inspection⁷⁸⁵

¹ Following their approval by the competent management body, the annual accounts and consolidated accounts together with the audit reports must either be published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce or sent as an official copy to any person who requests the same within one year of their approval at his or her expense where the undertaking:

1. has outstanding debentures; or
2. has equity securities listed on a stock market.

² Other undertakings must allow creditors who prove a legitimate interest to inspect the annual report and the audit reports. In the event of a dispute, the court decides.

³ If the undertaking exercises a waiver in accordance with Article 961d paragraph 1, 962 paragraph 3 or 963a paragraph 1 number 2, publication and inspection shall be governed by the rules for its own annual accounts.⁷⁸⁶

Art. 958f

E. Keeping and retaining accounting records

¹ The accounting records and the accounting vouchers together with the annual report and the audit report must be retained for ten years. The retention period begins on expiry of the financial year.

² The annual report and the audit report must be retained in a written form and signed.

³ The accounting records and the accounting vouchers may be retained on paper, electronically or in a comparable manner, provided that correspondence with the underlying business transactions and circumstances is guaranteed thereby and provided they can be made readable again at any time.

⁴ The Federal Council shall issue regulations on the accounting records that must be kept, the principles for keeping and retaining them and on the information carriers that may be used.

⁷⁸⁵ Amended by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBl 2017 399).

¹ The notes to the annual accounts supplement and explain the other parts of the annual accounts. They contain:

Art. 960

D. Valuation
I. Principles

¹ Assets and liabilities are normally valued individually, provided they are significant and not normally consolidated as a group for valuation purposes due to their similarity.

² Valuation must be carried out prudently, but this must not prevent the reliable assessment of the economic position of the undertaking.

³ If there are specific indications that assets have been overvalued or that provisions are too low, the values must be reviewed and adjusted if necessary.

Art. 960a

II. Assets
1. In general

¹ When first recorded, assets must be valued no higher than their acquisition or manufacturing costs.

² In any subsequent valuation, assets must not be valued higher than their acquisition or manufacturing costs. Provisions on individual types of assets are reserved.

⁷⁹³ Amended by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBI 2017 399).

⁷⁹⁴ Inserted by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBI 2017 399).

³ Loss in value due to usage or age must be taken into account through depreciation, while other losses in value must be taken into account through valuation adjustments. Depreciation and valuation adjustments must be applied in accordance with generally recognised commercial principles. They must be deducted directly or indirectly from the relevant assets and charged to the profit and loss account and may not be shown under liabilities.

⁴ For replacement purposes and to ensure the long-term prosperity of the undertaking, additional depreciation and valuation adjustments may be made. For the same purposes, the cancellation of depreciation and valuation adjustments that are no longer justified may be dispensed with.

Art. 960b

2. Assets with observable market prices

¹ In the subsequent valuation, assets with a stock exchange price or another observable market price in an active market may be valued at that price as of the balance sheet date, even if this price exceeds the nominal value or the acquisition value. Any person who exercises this right must value all assets in corresponding positions on the balance sheet that have an observable market price at the market price as of the balance sheet date. In the notes to the accounts, reference must be made to this valuation. The total value of the corresponding assets must be disclosed separately for securities and other assets with observable market price.

² If assets are valued at the stock exchange price or at the market price as of the balance sheet date, a value adjustment to be charged to the profit and loss account may be made in order to take account of fluctuations in the price development. III. Transfer

¹ The transfer of the ledger-based security is subject to the provisions of the registration agreement.

² If the creditor of a ledger-based security is declared bankrupt, if his or her property is distrained or if a debt restructuring moratorium is authorised, the creditor's decisions regarding ledger-based securities are legally binding and effective against third parties, provided that they

1. were made beforehand;
2. have become irrevocable under the rules of the securities ledger or another trading facility; and
3. were actually recorded in the securities ledger within 24 hours.

³ When a bona fide acquirer of a certificated security and a bona fide acquirer of the ledger-based security have a conflicting claim to the same right, the former takes precedence over the latter.

Art. 973⁸¹⁷

IV. Collateral

¹ Collateral may be posted even without the transfer of the ledger-based security, if:

1. the collateral is visible in the securities ledger; and
2. it is ensured that only the collateral recipient can dispose of the ledger-based security in the event of default.

² In other respects:

1. the special lien on ledger-based securities is governed by the provisions on special liens that apply to certificated securities (Arts. 895–898 of the CC⁸¹⁸).
2. the pledging of ledger-based securities is governed by the provisions on liens on debts and other rights as applicable for certificated securities (Arts. 899–906 of the CC).

Art. 973^h⁸¹⁹

V. Cancellation ¹ The beneficiary of a ledger-based security may demand that the court cancel the security, provided that he or she furnishes credible evidence of his or her original power of disposal and of the loss thereof. Following cancellation of the instrument, the beneficiary may also exercise his or her right outside the ledger or, at his or her own expense, demand that the obligor allocate a new ledger-based security. In addition, Articles 982-986 apply mutatis mutandis to the procedure for and effect of cancellation.

² The parties may make provision for a simplified form of cancellation consisting in a reduction of the number of public calls for presentation or a curtailment of the time limits.

Art. 973ⁱ⁸²⁰

VI. Information and liability The obligor under a ledger-based security or a right that is offered as such must inform each acquirer of:

1. the content of the ledger-based security;
2. the mode of operation of the securities ledger and the measures taken in accordance with Article 973*d* paragraphs 2 and 3 to protect the operation and integrity of the ledger.

² The obligor is liable for damage to the acquirer arising out of information that is inaccurate, misleading or in breach of statutory requirements, unless the obligor can prove that he or she acted with due diligence.

³ Agreements which limit or exclude this liability are void.

Section Two: Registered SecuritiesArt. 974

A. Definition A negotiable security is deemed a registered security if it is made out to a named person but is neither made out to order nor legally declared to be an instrument to order.

⁸¹⁹ Inserted by No I 1 of the FA of 25 Sept. 2020 on the Adaptation of Federal Law to Developments in Distributed Ledger Technology, in force since 1 Feb. 2021 (AS 2021 33; BBl 2020 233).

⁸²⁰ Inserted by No I 1 of the FA of 25 Sept. 2020 on the Adaptation of Federal Law to Developments in Distributed Ledger Technology, in force since 1 Feb. 2021 (AS 2021 33; BBl 2020 233).

Art. 975

B. Evidence of creditor's right
I. As a general rule

¹ The obligor is obliged to render performance only to a person who is the bearer of the instrument and who can show that he is the person in whose name the instrument is registered or the legal successor of such person.

² Where the obligor renders performance without such evidence, he is not released from his obligation towards a third party who can demonstrate his entitlement.

Art. 976

II. With qualified bearer securities

Where the obligor under the registered security has reserved the right to render performance to any bearer of the instrument, he is released from his obligation by rendering performance in good faith to such a bearer even if he did not request evidence of the creditor's entitlement; however, he is not obliged to render performance to the bearer.

Art. 977

C. Cancellation

¹ Where no special provision has been made, registered securities are cancelled in accordance with the provisions governing bearer securities.

² The obligor may make provision in the instrument for a simplified form of annulment consisting in a reduction of the number of public calls for presentation or a curtailment of the time limits, or may reserve the right to make valid performance even without presentation or annulment of the instrument, providing the creditor declares the borrower's note void and the debt redeemed by public deed or authenticated document.

Section Three: Bearer SecuritiesArt. 978

A. Definition

¹ A negotiable security is deemed a bearer security if the wording or form of the instrument shows that the current bearer is recognised as the beneficiary.

² However, the obligor is no longer permitted to pay if subject to an attachment order served by a court or the police.

Art. 979

B. Obligor's defences
I. In general

¹ Against a claim deriving from a bearer security, the obligor may plead only such defences as contest the validity of the instrument or arise from the instrument itself and those available to him personally against the respective obligee.

² Defences based on the direct relations between the obligor and a former bearer are admissible where the bearer intentionally acted to the detriment of the obligor when acquiring the security.

³ The obligor may not plead the defence that the instrument entered circulation against his will.

Art. 980

II. In the case of bearer coupons

¹ Against a claim deriving from a bearer coupon, the obligor may not plead the defence that the debt principal has been redeemed.

² However, when redeeming the debt principal, the obligor is entitled to retain an amount corresponding to the interest payable on coupons falling due in the future which are not handed in with the debt instruments until the prescriptive periods applicable to such coupons have expired, unless the coupons not handed in have been cancelled or the amount thereof has been secured.

Art. 981

C. Cancellation
I. In general
1. Application⁸²¹

² ...⁸²²

³ The applicant must satisfy the court that he possessed and lost the instrument.

⁴ Where the bearer of a security with a coupon sheet or subscription warrant has merely lost the coupon sheet or subscription warrant, presentation of the security in question is sufficient to establish grounds for the application.

Art. 982

2. Attachment order

¹ At the applicant's request, the obligor under the negotiable security may be forbidden to honour the security on presentation and warned of the danger of double payment.

² Where a coupon sheet is to be annulled, the provision governing cancellation of bearer coupons applies mutatis mutandis to the individual coupons falling due during the proceedings.

⁸²¹ Amended by Annex No 5 of the Civil Jurisdiction Act of 24 March 2000, in force since 1 Jan. 2001 (AS 2000 2355; BBl 1999 III 2829).

⁸²² Repealed by Annex No 5 of the Civil Jurisdiction Act of 24 March 2000, with effect from 1 Jan. 2001 (AS 2000 2355; BBl 1999 III 2829).

Art. 983

3. Public call for presentation, time limit

Where the court is satisfied that the applicant was in possession of the security but has since lost it, it issues a public notice calling on the unknown bearer to come forward and present the security within a specified time limit, failing which it will declare the security cancelled. The time limit must be at least six months; it commences on the date of the first public notice.

Art. 984

4. Form of public notice

¹ The call for presentation of the security must be published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce.⁸²³

² In special cases, the court may adopt other means of publicising the call for presentation.

Art. 985

5. Effect
a. Where the security is presented

¹ Where the lost bearer security is presented, the court sets the applicant a time limit within which to bring an action for recovery thereof.

² Where the applicant fails to bring action within such time limit, the court returns the instrument and lifts the garnishee order.

Art. 986

b. Where the security is not presented

¹ Where the lost bearer security is not presented within the time limit, the court may cancel it or order further measures, depending on the circumstances.

² Notice of the cancellation of a bearer security must be published immediately in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce, and elsewhere at the court's discretion.

³ Following cancellation, the applicant is entitled at his expense to request the issue of a new bearer security or performance of the obligation due.

Art. 987

II. Of coupons in particular

¹ Where individual coupons have been lost, at the request of the beneficiary the court must order that the amount be deposited with the court at maturity or immediately if the coupon is already due.

² Where three years have elapsed since the maturity date and no beneficiary has come forward in the interim, the court must order the amount deposited to be released to the applicant.

⁸²³ Amended by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBl 2017 399).

Art. 988

III. In the case of banknotes and the like

Banknotes and other bearer securities issued in large numbers and payable on sight which are intended for circulation as replacement for money and made out in fixed denominations may not be cancelled.

Art. 989⁸²⁴

D. Mortgage certificates

The special provisions governing mortgage certificates made out to the bearer are reserved.

Section Four: Bills and NotesA. Capacity to incur Liability as a party to a Bill*Art. 990

A person with capacity to enter into contracts has capacity to incur liability as a party to a bill of exchange.

B. The Bill of ExchangeI. Drawing and Formal Requirements of Bills of Exchange*Art. 991

1. Requirements

A bill of exchange contains:

1. the designation 'bill of exchange' in the text of the instrument and in the language in which it is issued;
2. the unconditional instruction to pay a certain sum of money;
3. the name of the person who is to pay (drawee);
4. the due date;
5. the bill domicile;
6. the name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made;
7. the date and the place of issue;
8. the drawer's signature.

⁸²⁴ Amended by No II 2 of the FA of 11 Dec. 2009 (Register Mortgage Certificates and other amendments to Property Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2012 (AS 2011 4637; BBl 2007 5283).

Art. 992

2. Required content lacking

² A bill of exchange containing no indication of the due date is deemed a sight bill.

³ Where no other specific place is mentioned, the place indicated together with the name of the drawee is deemed both the bill domicile and the domicile of the drawee.

⁴ A bill of exchange containing no indication of the place of issue is deemed drawn at the place indicated together with the name of the drawer.

Art. 993

3. Types

¹ A bill of exchange may be made out to the drawer's own order.

² It may be drawn on the drawer himself.

³ It may be drawn for the account of a third party.

Art. 994

4. Payment of domiciled bills

A bill of exchange may be domiciled with a third party, at the drawee's domicile or at another place.

Art. 995

5. Promise of interest

¹ In a bill of exchange payable on sight or at a stated period after presentation for acceptance, the drawer may stipulate that the bill amount will bear interest. For all other bills, the interest rate comment is deemed unwritten.

² The interest rate must be indicated on the bill of exchange; where there is no such indication, the interest rate comment is deemed unwritten.

³ The interest accrues as of the date on which the bill of exchange was drawn, unless some other date is specified.

Art. 996

6. Discrepancy in specification of bill amount

¹ Where the bill amount is given in both letters and numbers, in the event of any discrepancy the amount given in letters is the valid amount.

² Where the bill amount is given more than once in both letters and numbers, in the event of any discrepancy the lowest amount is the valid amount.

Art. 997

7. Signatures of persons lacking capacity

Where a bill of exchange bears a signature of a person lacking capacity to enter into liabilities on a bill of exchange, a forged signature, the signature of a bogus person or a signature which for whatever other reason is not binding on the person who signed or in whose name the bill was signed, this fact has no effect on the validity of the other signatures.

Art. 998

8. Unauthorised signature

A person who signs a bill of exchange as a representative of another without being authorised so to do is himself liable on the bill and, if he honours the bill, has the same rights as the party he purported to represent would have. The same applies to a representative who exceeds his power of representation.

Art. 999

9. Liability of the drawer

¹ The drawer is liable for the acceptance and payment of the bill of exchange.

² He may disclaim liability for acceptance; any comment whereby he disclaims liability for payment is deemed unwritten.

Art. 1000

10. Blank bill

Where a bill of exchange that was incomplete when it was negotiated is completed in a manner contrary to the agreed terms, such non-compliance with the agreed terms may not be invoked against the bearer unless he acquired the bill in bad faith or was guilty of gross negligence when he acquired it.

II. EndorsementArt. 1001

1. Transferability

¹ Any bill of exchange may be transferred by endorsement even if it is not expressly made out to order.

² Where the drawer has included the words “not to order” or a comment to that effect in the bill of exchange, the bill may be transferred only subject to the formal requirements and with the effects of a normal assignment.

³ The endorsement may also be made out to the drawee, regardless of whether he has accepted the bill or not, to the drawer or to any other party liable on it. Such persons may endorse the bill further.

Art. 1002

2. Requirements
- ¹ The endorsement must be unconditional. Conditions attached to the endorsement are deemed unwritten.
 - ² A partial endorsement is void.
 - ³ An endorsement to the bearer is deemed a blank endorsement.

Art. 1003

3. Form
- ¹ The endorsement must be written on the bill of exchange itself or on a sheet attached thereto (annex, rider). It must be signed by the endorser.
 - ² The endorsement need not designate the endorsee and may consist merely of the signature of the endorser (blank endorsement). In the latter case the endorsement is valid only if written on the reverse of the bill or on the annex.

Art. 1004

4. Effects
- a. Transfer function
- ¹ The endorsement transfers all rights arising from the bill of exchange.
 - ² If it is a blank endorsement, the bearer may
 1. add his name or the name of another person to the endorsement;
 2. endorse the bill further by blank endorsement or endorsement to a specified person;
 3. negotiate the bill further without completing the blank endorsement and without endorsing it.

Art. 1005

- b. Guarantee function
- ¹ Unless the bill contains a comment to the contrary, the endorser is liable for acceptance and payment.
 - ² He may forbid further endorsement of the bill; in this case he is not liable to persons to whom the bill is further endorsed.

Art. 1006

- c. Proof of bearer's entitlement
- ¹ A person possessing the bill is the holder in due course providing he can demonstrate his entitlement by means of an uninterrupted sequence of endorsements, even where the last is a blank endorsement. Deleted endorsements are deemed unwritten. Where a blank endorsement is followed by a further endorsement, it is presumed that the person who issued this endorsement acquired the bill by means of the blank endorsement.
 - ² Where the bill of exchange was somehow lost by a former holder, a new holder who can demonstrate his entitlement in accordance with the provisions of the previous paragraph is obliged to surrender the bill only if he acquired the bill in bad faith or was guilty of gross negligence when he acquired it.

Art. 1007

5. Defences

A person to whom a bill of exchange is presented for collection may not plead against the holder such defences as are based on his direct relations with the drawer or a previous holder unless the current holder intentionally acted to the detriment of the obligor when acquiring the bill.

Art. 1008

6. Procuration endorsement

¹ Where the endorsement contains the comment “value for collection”, “for collection”, “per pro.” or some other comment expressing no more than authorisation, the holder may exercise all the rights under the bill of exchange; however, he may transfer it only by means of a further procuration endorsement.

² In this case, the parties liable on a bill may plead against the holder only such defences as are available to them against the endorser.

³ The authority conferred by the procuration endorsement is not extinguished on the death or incapacity of the person conferring it.

Art. 1009

7. Pledging endorsement

¹ Where the endorsement contains the comment “value for security”, “value for pledge” or some other comment expressing a pledge, the holder may exercise all the rights under the bill of exchange; however, any endorsement issued by him only has the effect of a procuration endorsement.

² The parties liable on a bill may not plead against the holder such defences as are based on his direct relations with the endorser unless the holder intentionally acted to the detriment of the obligor when acquiring the bill.

Art. 1010

8. Subsequent endorsement

¹ An endorsement after maturity has the same effects as an endorsement prior to maturity. However, where the bill of exchange was endorsed only after protest for non-payment or after expiry of the time limit for protest, the endorsement only has the effects of a normal assignment.

² Until the opposite is proven, it is presumed that an undated endorsement was made on the bill of exchange before the time limit for protest expired.

III. Acceptance

Art. 1011

1. Right to present bill

The holder or any person merely in possession of the bill of exchange may present it to the drawee at his domicile for acceptance at any time prior to maturity.

Art. 1012

2. Presentation compulsory or prohibited

¹ The drawer may stipulate on any bill of exchange that it must be presented for acceptance, with or without a time limit for such presentation.

² He may prohibit presentation of the bill of exchange for acceptance where it is not domiciled with a third party or at a place other than the domicile of the drawee and is not an after-sight bill.

³ He may also stipulate that the bill of exchange must not be presented for acceptance prior to a specified date.

⁴ Unless the drawer has prohibited presentation for acceptance, any endorser may stipulate that the bill of exchange must be presented for acceptance, with or without a time limit.

Art. 1013

3. Duty to present after-sight bills

¹ An after-sight bill must be presented for acceptance within one year of the date on which it was drawn.

² The drawer may stipulate a shorter or longer time limit.

³ The endorser may stipulate a shorter time limit for presentation.

Art. 1014

4. Repeat presentation

¹ The drawee may request that the bill of exchange be presented to him again on the day after the first presentation. The parties may invoke any failure to comply with this requirement only if the request is mentioned in the protest.

² The holder is not obliged to leave a bill of exchange presented for acceptance in the drawee's possession.

Art. 1015

5. Form of acceptance

¹ The declaration of acceptance is made on the bill of exchange. It is expressed through the word "accepted" or words to the same effect; it must be underlined by the drawee. The drawee is deemed to have declared his acceptance by merely appending his signature to the obverse of the bill of exchange.

² Where the bill of exchange is an after-sight bill or must be presented for acceptance within a specified time limit owing to a special comment to that effect, the declaration of acceptance must indicate the date on which it is made, unless the holder requires that the date of presentation be indicated. Where no date is indicated, the holder must draw attention to this omission by timely protest in order to safeguard his right of recourse against the endorser and the drawer.

Art. 1016

6. Restrictions on acceptance

1 The acceptance must be unconditional; however, the drawee may limit it to a portion of the bill amount.

2 Where the declaration of acceptance contains any terms that deviate from the provisions of the bill of exchange, acceptance is deemed to have been refused. However, the acceptor is liable according to the terms of his declaration of acceptance.

Art. 1017

7. Domiciliate and bill domicile

1 Where the drawer has indicated on the bill of exchange a bill domicile other than the domicile of the drawee but without designating a third party by whom payment is to be made, the drawee may designate a third party when he declares acceptance. In the absence of such designation it is presumed that the acceptor himself has undertaken to pay the bill at its domicile.

2 Where the bill of exchange is domiciled with the drawee himself, he may designate in his declaration of acceptance an agent at the bill domicile by whom the payment will be made.

Art. 1018

8. Effect of acceptance
a. In general

1 Due to his acceptance, the drawee is obliged to pay the bill of exchange at maturity.

2 In the event of non-payment, the holder, even if he is the drawer, has a claim against the acceptor under the bill of exchange to any sums to which he is entitled pursuant to Articles 1045 and 1046.

Art. 1019

b. In the case of deletion

1 Where the drawee has struck out the declaration of acceptance made on the bill of exchange prior to returning the bill, acceptance is deemed to have been refused. Until the opposite is proven, it is presumed that such deletion was made prior to the return of the bill.

2 However, where the drawee has informed the holder or a person whose signature has been appended to the bill in writing of his acceptance, he is liable to such persons in accordance with the terms of his declaration of acceptance.

IV. Bill Guarantees

Art. 1020

1. Bill guarantor ¹ Payment of the bill amount may be secured in part or in full by means of a bill guarantee.
- ² Security may be provided by a third party or even by a person whose signature has already been appended to the bill of exchange.

Art. 1021

2. Form ¹ The guarantee commitment is inscribed on the bill of exchange or an annex (rider) thereto.
- ² It is expressed by the words “as guarantor” or a comment to that effect; it must be signed by the bill guarantor.
- ³ The mere act of signing the obverse of the bill of exchange is deemed a guarantee commitment, providing the signature is not that of the drawee or the drawer.
- ⁴ The guarantee commitment must indicate for whom the guarantee is given; where there is no such indication, it is deemed to be given for the drawer.

Art. 1022

3. Effects ¹ The bill guarantor is liable in the same manner as the person for whom he has given the guarantee.
- ² His commitment is valid even if the guaranteed obligation is void for any reason other than formal defect.
- ³ A bill guarantor who pays the bill of exchange acquires all rights thereunder against the person for whom he has given the guarantee and against all those who are liable to such person under the bill.

V. Maturity

Art. 1023

1. In general ¹ A bill of exchange may be drawn:
on sight;
for a specified time after sight;
for a specified time after drawing;
on a specified date.
- ² Bills of exchange with other maturity dates or with several consecutive maturity dates are void.

Art. 1024

2. In the case of sight bills

1 A sight bill is due on presentation. It must be presented for payment within one year of being drawn. The drawer may stipulate a shorter or longer time limit. The endorser may stipulate a shorter time limit for presentation.

2 The drawer may stipulate that the sight bill may not be presented for payment before a specified date. In this case the time limit for presentation commences on that date.

Art. 1025

3. In the case of after-sight bills

1 The maturity date of an after-sight bill is determined by the date indicated in the declaration of acceptance or the protest date.

2 Where no date is indicated in the declaration of acceptance and no protest is made, the bill is deemed to have been accepted on the last date of the time limit envisaged for presentation for acceptance as against the acceptor.

Art. 1026

4. Computation of time limits

1 A bill of exchange made out for one or more months after it was drawn or after sight falls due on the corresponding day of the payment month. If there is no such day, the bill falls due on the last day of the month.

2 Where the bill of exchange is made out for one or more months plus half a month after it was drawn or after sight, the full months are counted first.

3 Where the maturity date is expressed as the beginning, middle or end of a month, such expression is deemed to mean the first, fifteenth or last day of the month.

4 The expressions 'eight days' or 'fifteen days' mean not one or two weeks but a full eight or fifteen days.

5 The expression 'half-month' means fifteen days.

Art. 1027

5. Computation by the old method

1 Where a bill of exchange is payable on a certain date at a place where the calendar is different from that of the place of issue, the maturity date is determined according to the calendar of the bill domicile.

2 Where a bill drawn between two places with different calendars becomes payable when a specified time has elapsed since it was drawn, the date on which it was drawn is converted to the equivalent date in the calendar of the domicile and the maturity date computed according to the latter.

³ The provision set out in the previous paragraph applies mutatis mutandis to the computation of time limits for presentation of bills of exchange.

⁴ The provisions of this Article do not apply where a comment on the bill of exchange or any other term reveals that the parties intended otherwise.

VI. Payment

Art. 1028

1. Presentation for payment

¹ The holder of a bill of exchange payable on a specific date or a specified time after it was drawn or after sight must present the bill for payment on the payment date or one of the two subsequent working days.

² Delivery of the bill to a clearing house recognised by the Swiss National Bank is equivalent to presentation for payment.⁸²⁵

Art. 1029

2. Right to receipt, part payment

¹ The drawee may require the holder to surrender the receipted bill of exchange against payment.

² The holder may not refuse part payment.

³ Where a part payment is made, the drawee may insist that it be noted on the bill of exchange and that a receipt be issued for it.

Art. 1030

3. Payment before and at maturity

¹ The holder of the bill of exchange is not obliged to accept payment before maturity.

² The drawee pays before maturity at his own risk.

³ A person paying at maturity is released from his obligations provided he is not guilty of malice or gross negligence. He is obliged to check that the sequence of endorsements is correct but is not required to verify the signatures of the endorsers.

Art. 1031

4. Payment in foreign currency

¹ Where the bill of exchange is denominated in a currency other than that of the bill domicile, the bill amount may be paid in the national currency at its value as at the maturity date. Where the obligor delays in making the payment, the holder is free to choose whether the bill amount is converted into the national currency at the rate that applies on the maturity date or the rate that applies on the payment date.

² The value of the foreign currency is determined according to customary commercial practice at the bill domicile. However, the drawer may stipulate an exchange rate for the bill amount on the bill of exchange.

³ The provisions of the two previous paragraphs do not apply if the drawer has stipulated payment in a specified currency (actual currency clause).

⁴ Where the bill of exchange is denominated in a currency which has the same name but a different value in the country in which the bill was drawn and that in which it is payable, the presumption is that the currency meant is that of the bill domicile.

Art. 1032

5. Deposit

Where the bill of exchange is not presented for payment within the time limit laid down in Article 1028, the obligor may deposit the bill amount with the competent authority at the risk and expense of the holder.

VII. Recourse in the event of Non-Acceptance and Non-Payment

Art. 1033⁸²⁶

1. Recourse of the holder

¹ In the event of non-payment of a bill at maturity, the holder has right of recourse against the endorser, the drawer and the other parties liable on the bill.

² The holder has the same right even before maturity:

1. where acceptance has been refused in part or in full;
2. where the assets of the drawee are subject to insolvency proceedings, regardless of whether he has accepted the bill or not, or where only payments by the drawee have been suspended, or where compulsory execution has been levied on his assets without success;
3. where the assets of the drawer of a bill of exchange whose presentation for acceptance is prohibited are subject to insolvency proceedings.

Art. 1034

2. Protest
a. Time limits and requirements

¹ Any refusal of acceptance or of payment must be declared by public deed (protest for non-acceptance or for non-payment).

⁸²⁶ This Art. consists of a single paragraph in the French and Italian texts.

² Protest for non-acceptance must be made within the time limit applicable for presentation for acceptance. Where, in the case of Article 1014 paragraph 1, the bill of exchange was presented for the first time on the last day of the time limit, protest may still be made on the following day.

³ In the case of bills of exchange payable on a specific day or for a certain time after they were drawn or after sight, protest for non-payment must be made on one of the two working days following the payment date. Protest for non-payment of sight bills must be made within the same time limits for protest for non-acceptance as envisaged in the previous paragraph.

⁴ Where protest for non-acceptance has been made, neither presentation for payment nor protest for non-payment is required.

⁵ Where the drawee has suspended his payments, regardless of whether he has accepted the bill of exchange or not, or compulsory execution has been levied on his assets without success, the holder may have recourse only once the bill has been presented to the drawee for payment and protest has been made.

⁶ Where the assets of the drawee, regardless of whether he has accepted the bill of exchange or not, or the assets of the drawer of a bill of exchange whose presentation for acceptance is prohibited are subject to insolvency proceedings, presentation of the court order commencing such proceedings is sufficient to exercise the right of recourse.

Art. 1035

b. Responsibility Such protest must be made by a specially authorised notary or official body.

Art. 1036

c. Content

1. the name of the person or of the business for whom and against whom the protest is made;
2. a statement that a request was made without success to the person or company against whom the protest is made to perform his or its obligation under the bill of exchange or that such person or company could not be reached or that their business premises or address could not be traced;
3. an indication of the place at which and date on which the request was made or attempted without success;
4. the signature of the person or official body making the protest.

² Where a part payment is made, this must be noted in the protest.

³ If the drawee to whom the bill of exchange has been presented for acceptance insists that it be presented again on the following day, this must also be noted in the protest.

Art. 1037

d. Form

¹ The protest is made on a separate sheet attached to the bill of exchange.

² Where the protest involves the presentation of several duplicates of the same bill of exchange or presentation of the original instrument and a copy of it, it is sufficient if the protest is attached to one of the duplicates or to the original bill.

³ A note to the effect that the protest is attached to one of the duplicates or to the original instrument must be made on the remaining duplicates or the copy.

Art. 1038

e. For partial acceptance

Where the bill of exchange is accepted for only part of the bill amount and protest is made for that reason, a copy must be made of the bill of exchange and the protest made on such copy.

Art. 1039

f. Against several persons

Where performance of a bill obligation is required of several liable parties, only one instrument is required for the protests involved.

Art. 1040

g. Copy of the protest document

¹ The notary or official body making the protest must make a copy of the protest document.

² The following must be indicated on this copy:

1. the amount of the bill of exchange;
2. the maturity date;
3. the place at which and date on which it was drawn;
4. the drawer of the bill of exchange, the drawee and the name of the person or company to whose the order the payment is to be made;
5. the name of the person or company through which the payment is to be made, where this is different from the drawee;
6. the emergency contact details and acceptors for honour.

³ Copies of protest documents must be archived in chronological order by the notary or official body making the protest.

Art. 1041

h. Defective protest

A protest signed by the competent notary or official body is valid even if not made in accordance with the regulations or if the information it contains is inaccurate.

Art. 1042

3. Notification

¹ The holder must notify the immediately preceding endorser and the drawer of the lack of acceptance or payment within four working days of the date on which the protest was made or, in the case of the comment “No protest”, within four working days of the date of presentation. Within two working days of receipt of such notification, every endorser must pass on the news received to the immediately preceding endorser and give him the names and addresses of the persons from whom he received it, and so on in sequence until the drawer. All time limits run as of receipt of the previous notification.

² Where notification is made pursuant to the previous paragraph to a person whose signature is appended to the bill of exchange, the same notification must be made within the same time limit to his bill guarantor.

³ Where an endorser has omitted to give his address or has written it illegibly, it is sufficient if his immediately preceding endorser is notified.

⁴ The notification may be made in any form, including the mere return of the bill of exchange.

⁵ Persons under a duty to notify must show that they complied with it within the prescribed time limit. The time limit is deemed observed where a letter containing such notification was posted within the time limit.

⁶ A person who fails to notify in good time does not forfeit his right of recourse; he is liable for any losses arising from his failure to notify, but only up to the bill amount.

Art. 1043

4. Waiver of protest

¹ By appending and signing the comment “No protest” or words to the same effect on the bill of exchange, the drawer and any endorser or bill guarantor may release the holder from his obligation to arrange protest for non-acceptance or non-payment in order to exercise his right of recourse.

² The comment does not release the holder from the obligation to present the bill of exchange in good time and to make the requisite notification. The burden of proving that the time limit was not observed lies with any party relying on such point against the holder.

³ Where the comment was appended by the drawer, it is effective as against all parties liable on the bill; where it was appended by an endorser or a bill guarantor, it is effective only as against them. If the holder arranges for protest to be made in spite of the comment appended by the drawer, he must bear the costs. Where the comment was appended by an endorser or a bill guarantor, all parties liable on the bill must bear the costs of any protest made in spite of it.

Art. 1044

5. Joint and several liability of the parties

¹ All parties who have drawn, accepted, endorsed or guaranteed a bill of exchange are liable as co-obligors towards the holder.

² The holder may resort to any of them individually, severally or all together without being bound by the order in which they assumed their obligations.

³ The same right accrues to every party who has honoured the bill of exchange.

⁴ In asserting his claim against one party liable on a bill, the holder does not surrender his rights against the others or against the endorsers subsequent to such party.

Art. 1045

6. Nature of recourse

a. By the holder

¹ By way of recourse the holder may claim:

1. the bill amount, provided the bill has not been accepted or honoured, with any agreed interest;
2. interest at a rate of six per cent since the maturity date;
3. the costs of the protest and notifications and any other expenses;
4. a commission of no more than one-third of one per cent.

² Where recourse is had before maturity, interest is deducted from the bill amount. Such interest is calculated on the basis of the official (Swiss National Bank) discount rate obtaining at the domicile of the holder on the date on which recourse is had.

Art. 1046

b. By the party honouring the bill

A party that has honoured the bill of exchange may claim from his preceding endorsers:

1. the full amount he paid;
2. the interest on such amount at a rate of six per cent since the date on which the bill was honoured;
3. his expenses;
4. a commission of no more than 2 thousandths.

Art. 1047

c. Right to take possession of bill, protest and receipt

¹ Any party liable on a bill against whom a recourse claim is or may be made is entitled to insist that the bill of exchange together with the protest and a receipted invoice be handed over to him against payment of the recourse amount.

² Any endorser who has honoured the bill may delete his endorsement and those of the subsequent endorsers.

Art. 1048

d. In respect of partial acceptance

Where recourse is had following a partial acceptance, the party paying the unaccepted portion of the bill amount may insist that this be noted on the bill of exchange and a receipt for such portion be issued to him. Further, the holder must provide him with an authenticated copy of the bill of exchange and the protest to make further recourse possible.

Art. 1049

e. Re-exchange bill

² In addition to the amounts specified in Articles 1045 and 1046, the re-exchange bill includes the brokerage fee and the stamp duty for the re-exchange bill.

³ Where the re-exchange bill is drawn by the holder, the bill amount is dependent on the rate applicable to a sight bill drawn from the bill domicile of the original bill of exchange at the domicile of the preceding endorser. Where the re-exchange bill is drawn by an endorser, the bill amount is dependent on the rate applicable to a sight bill drawn from the domicile of the drawer of the re-exchange bill at the domicile of the preceding endorser.

Art. 1050

7. Invalidation
a. In general

¹ In the event that the holder fails to comply with the time limits for presentation of a sight bill or an after-sight bill, for protest for non-acceptance or for non-payment, for presentation for payment of bills bearing the comment "No protest", he forfeits his rights against the endorser, the drawer and all other parties liable on the bill, with the exception of the acceptor.

² In the event that the holder fails to comply with the time limit for presentation for acceptance prescribed by the drawer, he forfeits his right of recourse for non-acceptance and for non-payment, unless the wording of the comment shows that the drawer intended to exclude only liability for acceptance.

³ Where the time limit for presentation is indicated in an endorsement, only the endorser may rely on it.

Art. 1051

b. Force majeure ¹ Where insuperable obstacles (statutory provisions enacted by a state or some other instance of force majeure) militate against the timely presentation of the bill of exchange or timely protest, the time limits for such actions are extended.

² The holder is obliged to notify the immediately preceding endorser of the force majeure event without delay and to note such notification together with the date and place and his signature on the bill of exchange or an annex thereto; in other respects, the provisions set out in Article 1042 are applicable.

⁴ In the event that the force majeure lasts for longer than 30 days after maturity, recourse may be had without need for presentation or protest.

⁶ Facts pertaining purely to the person of the holder or a person charged with the task of presenting the bill of exchange or making protest do not count as force majeure events.

Art. 1052

c. Unjust enrichment ¹ To the extent that the drawer of a bill of exchange and the acceptor are unjustly enriched to the detriment of the holder, they remain obliged to the holder even where their bill liability has prescribed or extinguished on account of failure to take the actions required by law to sustain the entitlement under the bill of exchange.

² The claim for unjust enrichment also exists against the drawee, the domiciliate and the person or company for whose account the drawer issued the bill.

³ By contrast, no such claim exists against the endorsers whose bill liability is extinguished.

VIII. Devolution of Cover

Art. 1053

¹ Where the drawer of a bill of exchange has been declared insolvent, any claim he holds under civil law against the drawee for restitution of cover or reimbursement of amounts paid devolves on the holder of the bill.

² Where the drawer declares on the bill of exchange that he assigns his claims in respect of the cover provided, these devolve on the current holder of the bill.

³ Once the declaration of insolvency has been published or the assignment has been notified to him, the drawee may make payment only to the duly established holder against surrender of the bill of exchange.

IX. Act of Honour

Art. 1054

1. General provisions

¹ The drawer and any endorser or bill guarantor may indicate a person to act as acceptor or payer in case of need.

² Subject to the conditions set out below, the bill of exchange may be accepted or paid for honour by any party liable on it against whom recourse may be had.

³ Any third party, even the drawee, and any party already liable on the bill, with the exception of the acceptor, may accept or pay a bill of exchange for honour.

⁴ A person accepting or paying a bill for honour is obliged to notify the liable party for whom he is intervening of his action within two working days. Should he fail to do so, he is liable for any losses caused by the omission, albeit only up to the bill amount.

Art. 1055

2. Acceptance for honour
a. Requirements, position of the holder

¹ Acceptance for honour is permitted in all cases in which the holder has a right of recourse before maturity, except where presentation of the bill for acceptance is prohibited.

² Where the bill of exchange indicates a person to act as acceptor or payer at the bill domicile in case of need, the holder has a right of recourse before maturity against the person who appended such emergency address and against subsequent endorsers only if he has presented the bill to the person indicated under such address and, in the event that acceptance for honour is refused, has had such refusal noted by means of protest.

³ In all other cases the holder may refuse acceptance for honour. However, if he admits it, he forfeits his right of recourse before maturity against the person in whose honour acceptance was declared and against subsequent endorsers.

Art. 1056

b. Form

The acceptance for honour is noted on the bill of exchange; it must be signed by the acceptor for honour. The declaration of acceptance must indicate the person for whom the acceptance for honour is made; absent such indication, it is deemed made for the drawer.

Art. 1057

c. Liability of the acceptor for honour, effect on right of recourse

¹ A person accepting a bill for honour is liable to the holder and the subsequent endorsers of the person for whom he intervened in the same manner as said person.

² In spite of the acceptance for honour the party in whose honour the bill of exchange was accepted and his preceding endorsers may insist that the holder surrender the bill of exchange and the protest made, if any, together with a receipted invoice against reimbursement of the amount specified in Article 1045.

Art. 1058

3. Payment for honour
a. Requirements

¹ Payment for honour is permitted in all cases in which the holder has a right of recourse at or before maturity.

² The payment for honour must comprise the full amount payable by the party liable on the bill for whom it is made.

³ It must take place no later than the day after the day on which the time limit for protest for non-payment expires.

Art. 1059

b. Obligation of the holder

¹ Where the bill of exchange is accepted for honour by persons resident at the bill domicile or the persons indicated on the bill as being willing to pay in case of need are resident at the bill domicile, the holder must present the bill to all such persons no later than the day after the day on which the time limit for protest for non-payment expires and, where applicable, must arrange protest for failure to make payment for honour.

² Any failure to make timely protest releases the person who appended the emergency address or in whose honour the bill was accepted and the subsequent endorsers.

Art. 1060

c. Consequence of refusal

Where the holder refuses payment for honour, he forfeits his right of recourse against those who would have been released.

Art. 1061

d. Right to take possession of bill, protest and receipt

¹ A note that the payment for honour has been received must be made on the bill of exchange, indicating the party for whom the payment was made. In the absence of such an indication, the payment is deemed made for the drawer.

² The bill of exchange and any protest made are handed over to the payer for honour.

Art. 1062

e. Devolution of the holder's rights; multiple payments for honour

¹ The payer for honour acquires the rights under the bill against the party for whom he paid and against those liable to said party under the bill. However, he is not entitled to endorse it further.

² The subsequent endorsers of the party in whose honour payment was made are released.

³ Where several payments for honour are offered, preference is given to those resulting in release of the largest number of parties liable on the bill. A person paying in honour in contravention of this provision and in full knowledge of the situation forfeits his right of recourse against those who would otherwise have been released.

X. Production of Multiple Duplicates and Copies of Bills of Exchange

Art. 1063

1. Duplicates
a. Right to make duplicates

¹ The bill of exchange may be issued in multiple identical duplicates.

² Such duplicates must be given serial numbers within the text on the instrument; otherwise, each duplicate counts as a separate bill of exchange.

³ Every holder of a bill of exchange may request that multiple duplicates be supplied to him at his own expense, provided the text of the bill of exchange does not stipulate that it was made out as a single copy. To do so, the holder must contact the preceding endorser immediately before him, who in turn must contact his immediately preceding endorser, and so on in sequence back to the drawer. The endorsers are obliged to repeat their endorsements on the newly issued duplicates.

Art. 1064

b. Relationship between duplicates

1 Where payment is made on one duplicate of the bill, the rights under all others are extinguished even if they do not bear a comment to the effect that payment on one renders all the others invalid. However, the drawee remains liable for any duplicate accepted that has not been returned to him.

2 Where an endorser has transferred the duplicates to a number of different persons, he and his subsequent endorsers are liable for duplicates bearing their signature which have not been surrendered.

Art. 1065

c. Acceptance
comment

1 Where one duplicate has been sent for acceptance, a note must be made on the others of the name of the person now in possession of the despatched duplicate. The latter is obliged to surrender it to the rightful holder of any other duplicate.

2 Where he refuses to surrender it, the holder has a right of recourse only after arranging for protest to be made, thereby confirming:

1. that the duplicate sent for acceptance was not surrendered to him on request;
2. that neither acceptance nor payment was obtained on a different duplicate.

Art. 1066

2. Copies
a. Form and effect

1 Every holder of a bill of exchange is entitled to make copies of it.

2 The copy must be an exact reproduction of the original instrument with endorsements and all other notes and comments appended thereto. It must bear an indication of how far the copy extends.

3 The copy may be endorsed and have a declaration of guarantee added to it in the same manner and with the same effects as the original bill.

Art. 1067

b. Surrender of the original bill

1 The custodian of the original bill must be indicated on the copy. The custodian is obliged to surrender the original bill to the rightful holder of the copy.

2 Where he refuses to surrender it, the holder has right of recourse against the endorsers of the copy and against persons who have appended a declaration of guarantee to it only after arranging for protest to be made, thereby confirming that the original bill was not surrendered to him on request.

3 Where the original bill bears the comment “henceforward endorsements valid only if made on copy” or a comment to that effect appended to the last endorsement before the copy was made, any subsequent endorsement added to the original bill is void.

XI. Amendments to the Bill of Exchange

Art. 1068

Where the text of a bill of exchange is amended, those persons who append their signature to the bill after such amendment are liable in accordance with the amended text. Those who signed earlier are liable in accordance with the original text.

XII. Prescription

Art. 1069

1. Prescriptive periods

¹ The claims against the acceptor under the bill of exchange prescribe three years after the maturity date.

² The claims of the holder against the endorser and against the drawer prescribe one year after the date on which timely protest was made or, where the bill bears the comment “No protest”, one year after the maturity date.

³ The claims of one endorser against other endorsers and against the drawer prescribe six months after the date on which the bill of exchange was honoured by the endorser or the claim based on the bill was asserted against him.

Art. 1070

2. Interruption
a. Grounds

The prescriptive period is interrupted by commencement of action on the bill, submission of an application for debt enforcement proceedings, service of a third-party notice or petition in insolvency.

Art. 1071

b. Effects

¹ The interruption of the prescriptive period is effective only against the party in regard to whom the fact causing the interruption occurred.

² On interruption of the prescriptive period, a new prescriptive period of the same duration commences.

XIII. Cancellation

Art. 1072

1. Provisional measures

1 A person who has lost a bill of exchange may request the court to prohibit the drawee from paying the bill.⁸²⁷

2 In serving the attachment order, the court authorises the drawee to deposit the bill amount on the maturity date and designates the place where it is to be deposited.

Art. 1073

2. Known holder

1 Where the holder of the bill of exchange is known, the court sets the applicant an appropriate time limit within which to bring action for surrender thereof.

2 Where the applicant fails to bring such action within the time limit, the court lifts the attachment order imposed on the drawee.

Art. 1074

3. Unknown holder
a. Duties of the applicant

1 Where the holder of the bill of exchange is known, the court may be asked to cancel it.

2 The party applying for cancellation must satisfy the court that he possessed and lost the bill of exchange and produce either a copy of the bill or information on its essential terms.

Art. 1075

b. Public call for presentation

Where the court is satisfied that the applicant was in possession of the bill of exchange but has since lost it, it issues a public notice calling on the unknown holder to come forward and present the bill within a specified time limit, failing which it will declare the bill cancelled.

Art. 1076

c. Time limits

1 The time limit for presentation must be at least three months and no more than one year.

2 However, the court is not bound by the minimum duration of three months if, in the case of overdue bills, the statutory prescriptive period would expire before three months have elapsed.

3 The time limit for overdue bills commences on the date of the first public notice, and the time limit for bills that are not overdue commences on the maturity date.

⁸²⁷ Amended by Annex No 5 of the Civil Jurisdiction Act of 24 March 2000, in force since 1 Jan. 2001 (AS 2000 2355; BBl 1999 III 2829).

Art. 1077

- d. Publication
- ¹ The call for presentation of the bill of exchange must be published in the Swiss Official Gazette of Commerce.⁸²⁸
- ² In special cases the court may adopt other appropriate means for publicising the call for presentation.

Art. 1078

4. Effect
- a. If the bill is presented
- ¹ Where the lost bill of exchange is presented, the court sets the applicant a time limit within which to bring action for surrender of the bill.
- ² Where the applicant fails to bring action within such time limit, the court returns the bill of exchange and lifts the attachment order.

Art. 1079

- b. If the bill is not presented
- ¹ Where the lost bill of exchange is not presented within the fixed time limit, the court must pronounce its cancellation.
- ² Following cancellation of the bill of exchange, the applicant may still assert his claim on the bill against the acceptor.

Art. 1080

5. Court orders
- ¹ Even before the cancellation, the court may order the acceptor to deposit the bill amount or even to pay it against security.
- ² Such security is liable to the bona fide acquirer of the bill of exchange. It is released if the bill of exchange is cancelled or the claims on the bill are otherwise extinguished.

XIV. General ProvisionsArt. 1081

1. Setting time limits
- a. Holidays
- ¹ Where the maturity date of a bill of exchange falls on a Sunday or a public holiday, payment may not be demanded until the following working day. Likewise, all other actions relating to the bill of exchange, and in particular presentation for acceptance and protest, may take place only on a working day.
- ² Where the last day of a time limit within which such an action must be taken falls on a Sunday or a public holiday⁸²⁹, the time limit is extended to include the next working day. Holidays falling within the time limit are included when computing it.

⁸²⁸ Amended by No I of the FA of 19 June 2020 (Company Law), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2020 4005; 2022 109; BBl 2017 399).

⁸²⁹ In relation to the statutory time limits under federal law and the time limits fixed by authorities by virtue of federal law, Saturday is now regarded as equivalent to a public holiday (Art. 1 of the FA of 21 June 1963 on the Application of Limitation Periods to Saturdays; SR 173.110.3).

Art. 1082

b. Computing time limits

When computing statutory time limits or time limits indicated on the bill of exchange, the day on which they commence is not included.

Art. 1083

c. Exclusion of days of respite

Days of respite, whether statutory or by court order, are not recognised.

Art. 1084

2. Place for actions in connection with bills of exchange

¹ The correct place at which to present bills of exchange for acceptance or payment, to make protest, to submit a request for issue of a duplicate bill and to take all other bill-related actions in respect of a specific person is that person's business premises or, where none exist, his private address.

² Such business premises or address must be ascertained with all due diligence.

³ However, if inquiries to the police or post office of the relevant locality are unsuccessful, no further investigation is required.

Art. 1085

3. Signature by hand; blind person's signature

¹ Declarations in respect of bills of exchange must be signed by hand.

² The signature by hand may not be replaced by a mechanical reproduction thereof, by a mark, even if authenticated, or by any other form of authentication by notary.

³ The signature of a blind person must be authenticated.

XV. Applicable Jurisdiction

Art. 1086

1. Capacity to incur liability as a party to a bill

¹ A person's capacity to incur liability as a party to a bill is determined according to the law of the country of which he is a citizen. Where such law provides that the law of a different country is definitive, the latter is applicable.

² A person who, under the law stipulated in the previous paragraph, lacks capacity to incur liability as a party to a bill is nonetheless obliged if he appends his signature in the territory of a country under whose law he would have such capacity.

Art. 1087

2. Form and time limits of declaration on bills of exchange
a. In general

¹ The form of a declaration on a bill of exchange is determined according to the law of the country in whose territory the declaration was signed.

² However, where a declaration on a bill of exchange that is invalid under the previous paragraph would be valid under the law of the country in whose territory a subsequent declaration is signed, the validity of the later declaration is not affected by any formal defects of the earlier declaration.

³ Similarly, a declaration on a bill of exchange given by one Swiss national abroad is valid in relation to another Swiss national in Switzerland provided it satisfies the formal requirements laid down by Swiss law.

Art. 1088

b. Actions to exercise and safeguard rights under bills of exchange

The formal requirements and time limits for protest and the formal requirements for other actions to exercise or safeguard rights under bills of exchange are determined according to the law of the country in whose territory the protest is to be made or the action to be taken.

Art. 1089

c. Exercise of right of recourse

The time limits for exercising rights of recourse are determined for all interested parties by the law of the place in which the bill of exchange was drawn.

Art. 1090

3. Effect of declarations on bills of exchange
a. In general

¹ The effects of declarations of commitment made by the acceptor of a bill of exchange and by the maker of a promissory note are determined according to the law of the bill domicile or place of payment.

² The effects of other declarations on bills of exchange are determined according to the law of the country in whose territory the declarations were signed.

Art. 1091

b. Partial acceptance and part payment

The law of the bill domicile determines whether the acceptance of a bill of exchange may be limited to part of the bill amount and whether the holder is or is not obliged to accept a part payment.

Art. 1092

c. Payment

The payment of a bill of exchange at maturity, in particular the computation of the maturity date and the payment date, and the payment of bills denominated in a foreign currency are determined according to the law of the country in whose territory the bill is domiciled.

Art. 1093
 d. Claims for unjust enrichment Claims for unjust enrichment against the drawee, the domiciliate and the person or firm for whose account the drawer drew the bill are determined according to the law of the country in whose territory these persons are resident.

Art. 1094
 e. Devolution of cover The law of the place of issue determines whether the holder of a bill of exchange acquires the underlying claim.

Art. 1095
 f. Annulment The law of the bill domicile determines the measures to be taken in the event of the loss or theft of a bill of exchange.

C. The Promissory Note

Art. 1096
 1. Requirements A promissory note contains:

1. the designation ‘promissory note’ in the text of the instrument and in the language in which it is issued;
2. the unconditional promise to pay a certain sum of money;
3. the due date;
4. the place of payment;
5. the name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made;
7. the date on which and place at which the note is made;
8. the maker’s signature.

Art. 1097

2. Required content lacking

¹ An instrument missing one of the elements stipulated in the previous Article is not deemed a promissory note, except in the cases described in the following paragraphs.

² A promissory note containing no indication of the due date is deemed a sight bill.

³ Where no other specific place is mentioned, the place at which the note is made is deemed both the place of payment and the domicile of the maker.

⁴ A promissory note without any indication of the place in which it was made is deemed made at the place indicated together with the name of the maker.

Art. 1098

3. Reference to bill of exchange

¹ The provisions governing the following aspects of bills of exchange also apply to promissory notes, unless they run counter to the essential nature of the latter:

endorsement (Art. 1001–1010);

maturity (Art. 1023–1027);

payment (Art. 1028–1032);

recourse for non-payment (Art. 1033–1047, 1049–1051);

payment for honour (Art. 1054, 1058–1062);

copies (Art. 1066 and 1067);

amendments (Art. 1068);

prescription (Art. 1069–1071);

annulment (Art. 1072–1080);

public holidays, computation of time limits, exclusion of days of respite, place for actions in connection with bills of exchange, and signatures (Art. 1081–1085).

² Further, promissory notes are subject to the provisions governing bills of exchange in relation to bills domiciled with a third party or at a place other than the drawee's domicile (Art. 994 and 1017), the interest rate comment (Art. 995), discrepancies in the specification of the amount (Art. 996), the consequences of invalid signatures (Art. 997) or of signatures by persons lacking power of representation or exceeding such power (Art. 998), and blank bills (Art. 1000).

³ Likewise, promissory notes are subject to the provisions governing bills of exchange in relation to bill guarantees (Art. 1020–1022); in the case of Article 1021 paragraph 4, where the declaration does not indicate the party for whom it is made, the bill guarantee is deemed given for the maker of the promissory note.

Art. 1099

4. Liability of the maker; presentation for sight

¹ The maker of a promissory note is liable in the same manner as the acceptor of a bill of exchange.

² Promissory notes made out for a specified time after sight must be presented for sight to the maker within the time limits stipulated in Article 1013. Such sight must be confirmed by the maker on the promissory note together with the date and the maker's signature. The fixed period after sight commences on the date on which the sight comment is appended. Where the maker refuses to confirm sight and the date, this fact must be established by means of protest (Art. 1015); in this case, the fixed period after sight commences on the date on which protest is made.

Section Five: The Cheque

I. Issue and Formal Requirements of Cheques

Art. 1100

1. Requirements A cheque contains:
1. the designation 'cheque' in the text of the instrument and in the language in which it is issued;
 2. the unconditional instruction to pay a certain sum of money;
 3. the name of the person who is to pay (drawee);
 4. the place of payment;
 5. the date and the place of issue;
 8. the drawer's signature.

Art. 1101

2. Required content lacking
- 1 An instrument missing one of the elements stipulated in the previous Article is not deemed a cheque, except in the cases described in the following paragraphs.
 - 2 Where no other specific place is mentioned, the place indicated together with the name of the drawee is deemed the place of payment. Where several places are indicated together with the name of the drawee, the cheque is payable at the place mentioned first.
 - 3 A cheque containing no indication of place of issue is deemed payable at the place where the drawee has its principal place of business.
 - 4 A cheque containing no indication of the place of issue is deemed issued at the place indicated together with the name of the issuer.

Art. 1102

3. Capacity to act as drawee
- 1 On cheques payable in Switzerland, only a banker may be designated as the drawee.
 - 2 A cheque drawn on another person is deemed to be merely an instrument ordering payment.

Art. 1103

4. Cover requirement
- 1 A cheque may be issued only where the drawer holds assets with the drawee and has the right to dispose of such assets by means of cheques pursuant to an explicit or tacit agreement. However, the instrument's validity as a cheque is not affected by any failure to comply with these provisions.

² Where the drawer has assets with the drawee covering only a portion of the cheque amount, the drawee is obliged to pay such portion.

³ A person issuing a cheque without being authorised by the drawee to dispose of the instructed amount must reimburse the bearer for any damage so caused and, in addition, five per cent of the uncovered portion of the instructed amount.

Art. 1104

5. Exclusion of acceptance

The cheque may not be accepted. An acceptance comment appended to the cheque is deemed unwritten.

Art. 1105

6. Designation of payee

¹ The cheque may be made payable to:
a specific person, with or without the explicit comment “to order”;
a specific person, with the comment “not to order” or a comment to that effect;
the bearer.

² Where the cheque designates a specific person as payee with the added comment “or presenter” or a comment to that effect, the cheque is deemed made out to the bearer.

³ A cheque with no payee indicated is deemed payable to the bearer.

Art. 1106

7. Interest comment

An interest comment appended to the cheque is deemed unwritten.

Art. 1107

8. Paying agents, domiciled cheques

The cheque may be made payable by a third party, at the drawee’s domicile or at another place, providing the third party is a banker.

II. Transfer

Art. 1108

1. Transferability

¹ A cheque made payable to a specific person with or without the explicit comment “to order” may be transferred by endorsement.

² A cheque made payable to a specific person with or without the explicit comment “not to order” or with a comment to that effect may be transferred only subject to the formal requirements and with the effects of a normal assignment.

³ The endorsement may also be made out to the drawer or to any other party liable for it. Such persons may endorse the cheque further.

Art. 1109

2. Requirements
- 1 The endorsement must be unconditional. Conditions attached to the endorsement are deemed unwritten.
 - 2 A partial endorsement is void.
 - 3 Likewise, an endorsement by the drawee is void.
 - 4 An endorsement to the bearer is deemed a blank endorsement.
 - 5 An endorsement to the drawee is deemed merely a receipt, unless the drawee has several branch offices and the endorsement is made out to a different office from that on which the cheque is drawn.

Art. 1110

3. Proof of bearer's entitlement
- A person possessing a cheque transferred by endorsement is deemed the holder in due course providing he can demonstrate his entitlement by means of an uninterrupted sequence of endorsements, even where the last is a blank endorsement. Deleted endorsements are deemed unwritten. Where a blank endorsement is followed by a further endorsement, it is presumed that the person who issued this endorsement acquired the bill by means of the blank endorsement.

Art. 1111

4. Bearer cheque
- An endorsement on a bearer cheque renders the endorser liable in accordance with the provisions governing recourse, albeit without transforming the instrument into a cheque to order.

Art. 1112

5. Lost cheques
- Where the cheque was somehow lost by a former bearer, a new bearer who has gained possession of the cheque, whether it is a bearer cheque or a cheque transferable by endorsement and the bearer can demonstrate his entitlement in accordance with Article 1110, is obliged to surrender it only if he acquired it in bad faith or was guilty of gross negligence when he acquired it.

Art. 1113

6. Rights stemming from subsequent endorsement
- 1 Where the cheque was endorsed only after protest has been made or equivalent action taken or after expiry of the time limit for presentation, the endorsement only has the effects of a normal assignment.
 - 2 Until the opposite is proven, it is presumed that an undated endorsement was made on the cheque before protest was made or equivalent action taken or before the time limit for presentation expired.

III. Cheque Guarantees

Art. 1114

¹ Payment of the cheque amount may be secured in part or in full by means of a cheque guarantee.

² Such security may be provided by a third party, with exception of the drawee, or even by a person whose signature has already been appended to the cheque.

IV. Presentation and Payment

Art. 1115

1. Maturity

² A cheque presented for payment prior to the issue date indicated on the cheque is payable on the date on which it is presented.

Art. 1116

2. Presentation for payment

¹ A cheque payable in the country in which it was issued must be presented for payment within eight days.

² A cheque payable in a country other than the country in which it was issued must be presented within 20 days where the place of issue and place of payment are in the same continent and within 70 days where they are on different continents.

³ For this purpose, a cheque issued in a European country and payable in a country on the Mediterranean Sea, or vice versa, counts as a cheque issued and payable in the same continent.

⁴ The time limits stipulated above commence on the date indicated on the cheque as the issue date.

Art. 1117

3. Computation by the old method

Where a cheque is payable at a place where the calendar is different from that of the place of issue, the issue date is determined according to the calendar of the place of payment.

Art. 1118

4. Delivery to clearing house

Delivery of the cheque to a clearing house recognised by the Swiss National Bank is equivalent to presentation for payment.⁸³⁰

Art. 1119

5. Revocation
a. In general

² Where the cheque is not revoked, the drawee may make payment even after expiry of the time limit for presentation.

³ Where the drawer contends that he or a third party lost the cheque, he may forbid the drawee to cash it.

Art. 1120

b. Death, incapacity, bankruptcy

The validity of the cheque is unaffected even where the drawer dies, loses his capacity to act or becomes bankrupt after the cheque was issued.

Art. 1121

6. Verification of endorsements

A drawee honouring a cheque transferred by endorsement is obliged to check that the sequence of endorsements is correct but is not required to verify the signatures of the endorser.

Art. 1122

7. Payment in foreign currency

¹ Where the cheque is denominated in a currency other than that of the place of payment, the cheque amount may be paid in the national currency at its value as at the date of presentation. Where payment is not made on presentation, the bearer is free to choose whether the cheque amount is converted into the national currency at the rate applicable on the date of presentation or the rate applicable on the payment date.

² The value of the foreign currency is determined according to customary commercial practice at the place of payment. However, the drawer may stipulate an exchange rate for the bill amount on the bill of exchange.

³ The provisions of the two previous paragraphs are not applicable if the drawer has stipulated payment in a specified currency (actual currency clause).

⁴ Where the cheque is denominated in a currency which has the same name but a different value in the country in which the cheque was issued ⁸³⁰ Amended by Annex No II 2 of the National Bank Act of 3 Oct. 2003, in force since 1 May 2004 (AS 2004 1985; BBl 2002 6097).

and that in which it is payable, the presumption is that the currency meant is that of the place of payment.

V. The Crossed Cheque and the Account-Payee-Only Cheque

Art. 1123

1. Crossed cheques
a. Definition

¹ The drawer and any bearer may cross the cheque with the effects envisaged in Article 1124.

² A cheque is crossed by drawing two parallel lines on its obverse. Such crossing may be general or specific.

³ The crossing is general if no indication or the comment “banker” or a comment to that effect is inserted between the two lines; it is specific if the name of a banker is inserted between the two lines.

⁴ A general crossing may be converted into a specific crossing, but not vice versa.

⁵ Any deletion of the crossing or of the name of the designated banker is deemed not done.

Art. 1124

b. Effects

¹ A generally crossed cheque may be paid by the drawee only to a banker or a client of the drawee.

² A specifically crossed cheque may be paid by the drawee only to the designated banker or, where the latter is himself the drawee, to his clients. However, the designated banker may entrust collection of the cheque to another banker.

³ A banker may acquire a crossed cheque only from one of his clients or from another banker. Further, he may collect such cheque only for the account of the aforementioned persons.

⁴ Where a cheque has been specifically crossed more than once, the drawee may honour the cheque only where it has been crossed not more than twice and one of the crossings was done for the purpose of collection by means of delivery to a clearing house.

⁵ A drawee or banker acting in contravention of the above provisions is liable for any losses caused thereby, albeit only up to the cheque amount.

Art. 1125

2. Account-payee-only cheques
a. In general

¹ The drawer and any bearer of a cheque may prohibit payment of the cheque in cash by appending the comment “account payee only” or a comment to that effect diagonally across the obverse of the cheque.

² In this case the drawee may honour the cheque only by crediting the amount to an account (credit, transfer, debit settlement). The account credit is deemed payment.

³ Any deletion of the comment “account payee only” is deemed not to have been done.

⁴ A drawee acting in contravention of the above provisions is liable for any losses caused thereby, albeit only up to the cheque amount.

Art. 1126

b. Bearer’s rights in the event of insolvency, suspension of payments, compulsory execution

¹ However, where the drawee has been declared insolvent or has suspended its payments or debt enforcement proceedings have been brought against it without success, the bearer of an account-payee-only cheque has the right to demand cash payment of the cheque by the drawee and has a right of recourse.

² The same applies in the event that the bearer cannot obtain the account credit from the drawee as a result of measures taken pursuant to the Federal Act of 8 November 1934 on Banks and Savings Banks⁸³¹.

Art. 1127

c. Bearer’s rights in the event of refusal of account credit or settlement

Further, the bearer of an account-payee-only cheque has a right of recourse where he can show that the drawee has refused to make the account credit unconditionally or that the cheque has been declared unfit for settlement of the bearer’s obligations by the clearing house of the place of payment.

VI. Recourse for Non-Payment

Art. 1128

1. Bearer’s rights of recourse

The bearer may have recourse against the endorser, the drawer and the other parties liable for the cheque if it is not honoured on timely presentation and such refusal of payment has been established:

1. by public deed (protest), or
2. by means of a written and dated declaration made by the drawee on the cheque, including the date of presentation, or
3. by means of a written and dated declaration made by a clearing house to the effect that the cheque was delivered in good time and not paid.

Art. 1129

2. Protest, time limits

¹ The protest or equivalent declaration must be made before the time limit for presentation expires.

² Where the cheque is presented on the last day of the time limit, the protest or equivalent declaration may still be made on the following working day.

Art. 1130

3. Object of recourse

By way of recourse, the bearer may claim:

1. the cheque amount, provided the cheque has not been honoured;
2. interest at a rate of six per cent since the date of presentation;
3. the costs of the protest or equivalent declaration and of notifications, plus other expenses;
4. a commission of not more than one-third of one per cent.

Art. 1131

4. Exceptions in the case of force majeure

¹ Where insuperable obstacles (statutory provisions enacted by a state or some other instance of force majeure) militate against the timely presentation of the cheque or timely protest or equivalent declaration, the time limits for such actions are extended.

² The bearer is obliged to notify the immediately preceding endorser of the force majeure event without delay and to note such notification together with the date and place and his signature on the cheque or an annex thereto; in other respects, the provisions set out in Article 1042 are applicable.

³ Once the force majeure ceases to apply, the holder must present the cheque for acceptance or for payment without delay and, where necessary, make protest or similar declaration.

⁴ In the event that the force majeure lasts for longer than 15 days after the date on which the bearer himself notified the preceding endorser of the force majeure event prior to expiry of the time limit for presentation, recourse may be had without need for presentation or protest or similar declaration.

⁵ Facts pertaining purely to the person of the bearer or a person charged with the task of presenting the cheque or making protest or arranging for an equivalent declaration do not count as force majeure events.

VII. Forged Cheques

Art. 1132

The losses arising from payment of a forged or falsified cheque are borne by the drawee, provided that the drawer named on the cheque is not at fault, such as through negligence in the safekeeping of blank cheque forms entrusted to him.

VIII. Duplicates of a Cheque

Art. 1133

Cheques may be issued in several identical duplicates if they are not made out to the bearer and are payable in a country other than the country of issue or in an overseas territory belonging to the country of issue, or vice versa, or are both issued and payable in an overseas territory, or are issued in one overseas territory and payable in a different overseas territory belonging to the same country. Such duplicates must be given serial numbers within the text on the instrument; otherwise, each duplicate counts as a separate cheque.

IX. Prescription

Art. 1134

¹ The bearer's rights of recourse against the endorser, the drawer and the other parties liable prescribe six months after the time limit for presentation expires.

² The rights of recourse of one liable party against another prescribe six months after the date on which the cheque was honoured by such party or the claim based on the cheque was asserted against him.

X. General Provisions

Art. 1135

1. Definition of
'banker'

For the purposes of this Section, the term 'banker' is understood to mean any institution subject to the Federal Act of 8 November 1934⁸³² on Banks and Savings Banks.

Art. 1136

2. Setting time limits
a. Holidays

¹ The presentation and protest of a cheque must take place on a working day.

² Where the last day of a time limit within which an action in connection with the cheque must be taken, in particular presentation, protest or an equivalent declaration, falls on a Sunday or a public holiday⁸³³, the time limit is extended to include the next working day.

Holidays falling within the time limit are included when computing it.

Art. 1137

b. Computing time limits

When computing the time limits envisaged in this law, the day on which they commence is not included.

XI. Applicable JurisdictionArt. 1138

1. Capacity to act as drawee of a cheque

¹ A person's capacity to act as drawee of a cheque is determined according to the law of the country in which it is payable.

² Where under such law the cheque is void for reasons pertaining to the person of the drawee, obligations are nonetheless binding if they arise from signatures appended to the cheque in countries where the law does not envisage nullity for such reasons.

Art. 1139

2. Form and time limits for declarations on cheques

¹ The form of a declaration on a cheque is determined according to the law of the country in whose territory such declaration was signed. However, compliance with the formal requirements laid down by the law of the place of payment is sufficient.

² Where a declaration on a cheque that is invalid pursuant to the previous paragraph would be valid under the law of the country in whose territory a subsequent declaration is signed, the validity of the later cheque declaration is not affected by any formal defects of the earlier declaration.

³ Similarly, a declaration on a cheque made by one Swiss national abroad is valid as against another Swiss national in Switzerland providing it satisfies the formal requirements laid down by Swiss law.

⁸³³ In relation to the statutory time limits under federal law and the time limits fixed by authorities by virtue of federal law, Saturday is now regarded as equivalent to a public holiday (Art. 1 of the FA of 21 June 1963 on the Application of Limitation Periods to Saturdays; SR 173.110.3).

Art. 1040

3. Effect of cheque declarations
a. Law of the place of issue

¹ The effects of cheque declarations are determined pursuant to the law of the country in whose territory such declarations were signed.

Art. 1141

b. Law of the place of payment

The law of the country in whose territory the cheque is payable determines:

1. whether the cheque is necessarily payable on sight or whether it may be drawn for a specified time after sight and what the effects are if a date later than the real issue date is indicated on the cheque;
2. the time limit for presentation;
3. whether a cheque may be accepted, certificated, confirmed or given a mark of approval and what the effects of such comments are;
4. whether the bearer may request part payment and whether he must accept part payment;
5. whether a cheque may be crossed or have the comment "account payee only" or an equivalent comment appended to it and what the effects of such crossing or comment are;
6. whether the bearer has specific rights to the cover and what the nature of such rights is;
7. whether the drawer may revoke the cheque or protest against payment of the cheque;
8. the measures to be taken in the event of the loss or theft of the cheque;
9. whether a protest or equivalent declaration is required to preserve the right of recourse against the endorser, the drawer and the other parties liable for the cheque.

Art. 1142

c. Law of domi-
cile

A claim for unjust enrichment against the drawee or the domiciliate is determined according to the law of the country in whose territory these persons are resident.

XII. Applicability of the Law on Bills of Exchange

Art. 1143

¹ The following provisions of the law on bills of exchange are also applicable to cheques:

1. Article 990 on the capacity to incur liability as party to a bill;
2. Article 993 on bills of exchange made out to own order, drawn on the drawer and for the account of a third party;
3. Articles 996–1000 on discrepancies in the specification of the bill amount, signatures of persons lacking capacity to incur liability as parties to bills, unauthorised signatures, liability of the drawer and blank bills;

13. Articles 1046 and 1047 on the right of recourse on payment of the bill of exchange and the right to take possession of bills of exchange, protest and receipts;
14. Article 1052 on claims for unjust enrichment;
15. Article 1053 on devolution of cover;
16. Article 1064 on the relationship between duplicates;
17. Article 1068 on amendments;
18. Articles 1070 and 1071 on interruption of prescriptive periods;

² None of the provisions relating to acceptance of bills of exchange laid down in these Articles is applicable.

³ With regard to their applicability to cheques, Article 1042 paragraph 1, Article 1043 paragraph 1 and 3 and Article 1047 are supplemented in the sense that a declaration equivalent to protest as defined in Article 1128 letters 2 and 3 may substitute for protest itself.

XIII. Reservation of Specific Law

Art. 1144

The special provisions governing Swiss post office cheques are reserved.

Section Six: Bill-like Securities and Other Instruments to Order

A. In general
I. Requirements

A negotiable security is deemed an instrument to order if it is made out to order or declared by law to be an instrument to order.

Art. 1146

II. Defences of
the obligor

¹ Against a claim deriving from an instrument to order, the obligor may plead only such defences as contest the validity of the instrument or arise from the instrument itself and those available to him personally against the respective obligee.

² Defences based on the direct relations between the obligor and a former bearer are admissible where the bearer intentionally acted to the detriment of the obligor when acquiring the security.

Art. 1147

B. Bill-like securities
I. Payment instructions to order
1. In general

² If it is nevertheless presented but acceptance is refused, the bearer does not have right of recourse on these grounds.

¹ Where a promise to pay is not designated as a promissory note in the text appearing on the instrument itself but is expressly made out to order and satisfies all the other requirements of a promissory note, it counts as a promissory note.

² However, the provisions governing payment for honour do not apply to promises to pay to order.

³ The provisions of the Debt Collection and Bankruptcy Act of 11 April 1889⁸³⁵ governing the enforcement of bills of exchange do not apply to promises to pay to order.

² These and other endorsable instruments, such as warehouse warrants, bills of lading, etc., are subject to the provisions of the law on bills of exchange governing the form of the endorsement, proof of the bearer's entitlement, annulment and the bearer's duty to surrender the instrument.

³ In the event that the borrower fails to comply with such request, the court may authorise the applicant to convene a creditors' meeting of his own accord. The court at the current or last seat of the debtor in Switzerland has mandatory jurisdiction.⁸⁴⁰

⁸⁴⁰ Amended by Annex 1 No II 5 of the Civil Procedure Code of 19 Dec. 2008, in force since 1 Jan. 2011 (AS 2010 1739; BBl 2006 7221).

⁴ If the debtor has or had only a branch office in Switzerland, the court at the location of this branch office has mandatory jurisdiction.⁸⁴¹

Art. 1166

2. Moratorium

¹ From the date on which the invitation to the creditors' meeting is duly published until the final outcome of the composition proceedings, all due claims of the bond creditors are subject to a stay of enforcement.

² Such stay is not a suspension of payments within the meaning of the Debt Collection and Bankruptcy Act of 11 April 1889⁸⁴²; the creditors may not apply for the commencement of insolvency proceedings without prior debt enforcement.

³ For the duration of the stay, such prescriptive and forfeiture periods as can be interrupted by debt enforcement are suspended for the due claims of the bond creditors.

⁴ Where the borrower abuses the right to obtain a stay of enforcement, at the request of a bond creditor it may be lifted by the higher cantonal composition authority.

Art. 1167

III. Holding the meeting 1. Voting right

¹ Each owner of a bond or his representative, or in the case of bonds under a usufruct either the usufructuary or his representative, has the right to vote. However, the usufructuary is liable in damages to the owner for any failure to take due account of the latter's interests when exercising the right to vote.

² Bonds owned by or held in usufruct by the borrower confer no right to vote. However, where bonds belonging to the borrower have been given in pledge, the pledgee is entitled to exercise the associated right to vote.

³ A charge or special lien held by the borrower on bonds does not preclude the right to vote of the owners of such bonds.

Art. 1168

2. Representation of individual bond creditors

¹ Representation of bond creditors requires a written power of attorney, unless such representation has its basis in law.

² The borrower is excluded from representing bond creditors with right to vote.

⁸⁴¹ Amended by Annex 1 No II 5 of the Civil Procedure Code of 19 Dec. 2008, in force since 1 Jan. 2011 (AS 2010 1739; BBl 2006 7221).

⁸⁴² SR 281.1

Art. 1169

IV. Procedure

The Federal Council shall enact provisions governing convening the creditors' meeting, giving notice of the agenda, proving entitlement to participate in the creditors' meeting, chairing the general meeting and recording and giving notice of its resolutions.

Art. 1170

D. Resolutions of the community of creditors
 I. Encroachment on creditors' rights
 1. Admissibility and required majority
 a. In the case of only one community of creditors

¹ A majority of at least two-thirds of the bond capital in circulation is required to pass a valid resolution in connection with the following measures:

1. moratorium on interest for up to five years, with the option of extending the moratorium twice for up to five years each time;
2. waiver of up to five years' worth of interest within a seven-year period;
3. decrease of the interest rate by up to one-half of the rate envisaged in the bond issue conditions or conversion of a fixed interest rate into a rate dependent on the business results, both measures to last for up to ten years, with the option of an extension for up to five years;
4. extension of the redemption time limit by up to ten years by means of a reduction in the annual payment or an increase in the number of the redemption shares or temporary suspension of such payments, with the option of an extension for up to five years;
5. suspension of a bond issue now due or maturing within five years or of portions thereof for up to ten years, with the option of an extension for up to five years;
6. authorisation of an early redemption of the bond capital;
7. granting of a priority lien for new capital raised for the issuing company and changes to the collateral provided for a bond issue or full or partial waiver of such collateral;
8. consent to an amendment of the provisions governing restrictions on issues of bonds in relation to the share capital;
9. consent to a full or partial conversion of bonds into shares.

² These measures may be combined.

Art. 1171

b. In the case of several communities of creditors

¹ Where there is more than one community of creditors, the borrower may propose one or more of the measures described in the previous Article to the different communities of creditors simultaneously, subject to the proviso that, where one such measure is proposed, it will be valid only if accepted by all the communities of creditors and that in addition, where two or more such measures are proposed, the validity of each measure is conditional on acceptance of all the others.

² Proposals are deemed accepted where they obtain the consent of persons representing at least two-thirds of the bond capital in circulation of all such communities of creditors combined and at the same time are accepted by a majority of the communities of creditors and, within each community of creditors, by at least a simple majority of the bond capital represented.

Art. 1172

c. Determining the majority

¹ When determining the total bond capital in circulation, bonds that do not confer right to vote shall be disregarded.

² Where a motion put to the creditors' meeting fails to attain the requisite number of votes, the borrower may register votes making up the shortfall by written and authenticated declarations made within two months of the date of the meeting to the chairman of the meeting and thereby bring about a valid resolution.

Art. 1173

2. Restrictions
a. In general

¹ No bond creditor may be required by resolution of the community of creditors to tolerate an encroachment on the creditors' rights other than those envisaged in Article 1170 or to make payments that were neither envisaged in the bond issue conditions nor agreed with him when the bonds were issued.

² The community of creditors may not extend the creditors' rights without the consent of the borrower.

Art. 1174

b. Equal treatment

¹ The persons making up a community of creditors must all be equally affected by any resolution to adopt compulsory measures, unless every disadvantaged creditor expressly agrees to such measures.

² The ranking of charge creditors must not be changed without their consent. Article 1170 letter 7 is reserved.

³ Undertakings and dispositions whereby individual creditors are favoured over others belonging to the community of creditors are void.

Art. 1175⁸⁴³

c. Statement and balance sheet

An application to take the measures described in Article 1170 may be made by the borrower and considered by the creditors' meeting only on the basis of status report drawn up as at the date of the creditors' meeting or a balance sheet drawn up as at a date no more than six months prior to the meeting in accordance with standard practice and, where applicable, certified by the external auditor as true and fair.

Art. 1176

3. Official approval
a. In general

¹ Resolutions involving an encroachment on creditors' rights are effective and binding on the bond creditors who did not vote in favour of them only if they have been approved by the higher cantonal composition authority.

² The borrower must submit them within one month of their adoption to said authority for approval.

³ The time and date of the hearing is published together with a notice to the bond creditors informing them that they may raise objections in writing or in person at the hearing.

⁴ The costs of the approval procedure are borne by the borrower.

Art. 1177

b. Requirements

Official approval may be refused only where:

1. the provisions governing the convocation of the creditors' meeting and its adoption of resolutions were infringed;
2. it transpires that a resolution intended to avert financial hardship from the borrower was not necessary;
3. the collective interests of the bond creditors are not sufficiently protected;
4. the resolution was brought about by dishonest means.

Art. 1178

c. Appeal

¹ Once approval has been given, it may be challenged as illegal or inappropriate within 30 days before the Federal Supreme Court by any bond creditor who did not vote for the resolution, in which case the legal procedure envisaged for matters concerning debt collection and bankruptcy is applicable.

⁸⁴³ Amended by No I 3 of the FA of 16 Dec. 2005 (Law on Limited Liability Companies and Amendments to the Law on Companies limited by Shares, Cooperatives, the Commercial Register and Business Names), in force since 1 Jan. 2008 (AS 2007 4791; BBl 2002 3148, 2004 3969).

² Similarly, a decision to refuse approval may be challenged by bond creditors who voted in favour of the resolution or by the borrower.

Art. 1179

d. Revocation

¹ If it subsequently transpires that the resolution of the creditors' meeting was brought about by dishonest means, at the request of a bond creditor the higher cantonal composition authority may revoke approval in part or in full.

² An application for revocation must be filed within six months of the date on which the bond creditors learned of the grounds for challenge.

³ Revocation may be challenged as unlawful or unreasonable within 30 days before the Federal Supreme Court by the borrower and by any bond creditor, in which case the legal procedure envisaged for matters concerning debt collection and bankruptcy is applicable. Similarly, a refusal to revoke approval may be challenged by any bond creditor who requested such revocation.

Art. 1180

II. Other resolutions

1. Authority of the bond representative

¹ The consent of persons representing more than one-half of the bond capital in circulation is required to revoke or modify the authority conferred on a bond representative.

² The same majority is required for a resolution to grant a bond representative authority to safeguard the rights of all the bond creditors in insolvency proceedings.

Art. 1181

2. On other matters

¹ Resolutions which neither encroach on the creditors' rights nor impose further material contributions on the creditors require merely an absolute majority of the votes represented, unless the law stipulates otherwise or the bond issue conditions impose stricter requirements.

² The majority is determined in all cases according to the nominal value of the bond capital conferring right to vote that is represented at the creditors' meeting.

Art. 1182

3. Challenge

Any resolution within the meaning of Articles 1180 and 1181 which contravenes the law or contractual provisions may be challenged in court by a member of the community of bond creditors who did not vote for it within 30 days of the date on which he learned of it.

Art. 1183

E. Special cases
I. Insolvency of the borrower

¹ Where a borrower becomes insolvent, the insolvency administrators must convene a meeting of the bond creditors without delay, at which an existing representative or a representative appointed by the meeting is granted authority to safeguard the rights of all the bond creditors in insolvency proceedings.

² Where no resolution is made to grant such authority, each bond creditor represents his rights independently.

Art. 1184

II. Composition
agreement

² The provisions governing the community of creditors apply to creditors holding bonds secured by a charge, to the extent that any restriction of their creditors' rights is to be imposed above and beyond the effects of the composition proceedings.

Art. 1185

III. Bonds issued by railway or inland waterways transport companies

¹ The provisions of this Chapter are applicable to bond creditors of railway or inland waterways transport companies, subject to the following special provisions.

² A request for convocation of a creditors' meeting must be made to the Federal Supreme Court.

³ The Federal Supreme Court is responsible for convening the creditors' meeting and the recording, approval and implementation of its resolutions.

⁴ On receipt of a request for convocation of a creditors' meeting, the Federal Supreme Court may order a stay of enforcement with the effects envisaged in Article 1166.

Art. 1186⁸⁴⁵

F. Differing agreements

¹ The rights conferred by law on the community of creditors and the bond representative may only be excluded, amended or restricted by the bond issue conditions or other special agreements between the creditors and the borrower if a majority of creditors are still entitled to amend the bond conditions.

⁸⁴⁴ SR 281.1

⁸⁴⁵ Amended by Annex No 2 of the FA of 17 Dec. 2021 (Insolvency and Deposit Protection), in force since 1 Jan. 2023 (AS 2022 732; BBl 2020 6359).

² Where bonds are publicly issued in whole or in part outside Switzerland, the provisions of another legal system related to the public issue of bonds concerning the community of creditors, its representation, meeting and resolutions may be declared applicable instead of the provisions of this section.
